VOL. XXIX. NO. 27.

WINCHESTER, MASS., FRIDAY, JANUARY 7, 1910.

PRICE, FIVE CENTS

AARON C. BILL.

Aaron C. Bill, former Collector of Taxes, died in his home on Forest street early Thursday morning of gastritis and complications. He was of raring health. Mr. Bill resided from the village to ship two years ago, and about a year ago, his wife dying, he moved to his heart and interst. The past few months his health declined rapidly, but it was not until last Sunday that he took to his bed. Even then he did not lose hope, expecting him to live a long time, but he unexpectedly passed away during the early morning hours, Thursday.

AARON C. BILL.
From an old photograph—When he was in the prime of life.

Mr. Bill was born in Framingham, Mass., in 1831, consequently he was in his sixth year. When a young man he went to Chelsea with his parents where he had charge of one of his father's stores. Later he went to Winterville, Me., with his father where he became a sailmaker. He then entered the employ of the Nashua & Lowell Co., and for a year or more was assistant registrar of probate in Nashua, N. H. He then became a member of the wholesale grocery firm of S. and W. Merrill, and on his dissolution, he entered the employ of Howard W. Starr, also wholesale grocer, with whom he remained for fifteen years. In 1880, after being a resident of Winchester for many years, he was elected a member of the Board of Assessors, and after serving one year, he succeeded to the late Mr. George W. Starr as collector, turning from business and active life two years ago.

He leaves two children, Clyde W. Bill and Mrs. John Park. Mr. Bill was an infant, was a passenger on the first train that ran on the Boston and Lowell Railroad. He was considerable of a poet, and his specially prepared verses were often read at weddings, receptions and other joyful occasions. He was a genial and kind-hearted man and he will be sadly missed by his hosts of friends. He was one of the oldest members of William Parkman Lodge of Masons.

Funeral services will be held from the late home on Forest street Sunday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock and the interment will be beside his wife in the family lot in Walloway.

Mr. Bill had the distinction of owning the only station on a big railroad, the station at Winchester Highlands having been built by him many years ago.

ORGAN RECITAL.

J. Albert Wilson, organist at the Church of the Epiphany, will give his eighth organ recital next Sunday afternoon at 4:15, at that church, followed by a musical service by the choir.

The choir will sing the following anthems: Magnificat and Nunc Dimittis in C, by J. S. Bach; "The Day is Past and Over," by J. S. Bach; "And the Glory of the Lord," by Handel.

ROGERS CUP FINALS.

The final roll-off for the Rogers Christmas cup at the Calumet club was held on Wednesday evening, eight bowlers participating. Dr. Harry J. Olmsted was the final winner of the prize, his total for the five string roll off with handicap being 533. Mr. Joseph E. Gordon, one of the high preliminary rollers for the prize, was a close second with a total of 532. The third roller was Mr. James H. Gordon, who had 525.

SECOND CONGREGATIONAL CHURCH.

The annual meeting of the Epethay Society was held Tuesday with forty members present. The social business was transacted.

A social gathering under the auspices of the Corner Stone Club will be held at the home of Mrs. Fogg, Friday evening, January 8th.

The Watch Night service and service held Friday night was well attended. The entertainment given by the children was much enjoyed.

SELECTMEN'S MEETING.

January 31, 1910.
Board met at 7:30 p. m. All present. Thomas Lawton of Pond street was present in regard to said street, and also asking for a road or more extra lights. Received letter from Mrs. S. L. Richards in regard to State Aid. Placed on file.

Received letter from Mrs. Susan Moore in regard to drainage on Pond street. Placed on file.

Received letter from George R. Nugent in regard to his gravel bank. Placed on file.

Voted that whereas it has come to the attention of the Selectmen that the Collector of Taxes by reason of illness is unable to give his personal attention to the performance of the duties of his office, and there is, therefore, a necessity for the appointment of a deputy collector, the Board of Selectmen acting in accordance with the permission of the Acts of 1899, Chap. 49, Part 2, Sec. 52, hereby empowers and Collector of Taxes to appoint such deputy or deputies as he may deem expedient.

Received and placed on file report of Clerk of Board for month of Dec.

Voted that the town council be directed to comply strictly with the vote of the town passed at its meeting held June 28, 1909, on inspection of the plan approved by the special commission showing it to be a one bridge plan and as such open to all the objections enumerated in said vote of the town; and that as any attempt to secure a modification of this proposed plan of the roads of said special commission in the opinion of the board would be a further waste of valuable time, the town council is directed to notify the commission that it does not care to be heard further by it, and to request said commission to prepare and file its report in the Superior Court at the earliest possible date.

Warrants drawn for $250.00 and $250.00.

Adjourned at 10:30 p. m.

Geo. H. Loomis, Clerk.

A NEW CLASS IN DOMESTIC ARTS.

A cooking class will begin on Sat. Jan. 15th, at 2:30 p. m. in room No. 2 in the High school building. The class will be under the auspices of the Fortnightly and taught by Miss Phyllis Sawyer, a graduate of the Framingham Normal School of Domestic Arts. A charge of $1.25 will be made to cover cost of materials used. The course will consist of ten lessons of two hours each. The preparation, cost and food value of simple substantial dishes will be taught. Also how to set a table and serve a dinner.

There will also be an evening class beginning Sat. Jan. 15th, at 7:30 p. m., held in room No. 2 High school and taught by Miss Sawyer. Terms, $1.25 for a term of 10 lessons. Preference for membership in this class will be given to girls of school age who are at work during the day.

Notice of change of date of class in sewing and dressmaking will meet hereafter on Tuesdays at 7:30 in the sewing-room of the High school building. This class is under the direction of the Committee on Education of the Fortnightly, and is conducted by volunteer teachers and assistants.

The class is a popular one with some of the young people of the town and could be of even greater benefit if more assistance could be secured. The committee welcomes offers of help from any source. A little knowledge of sewing or cutting and fitting of garments is all that is necessary to make one useful in this helpful sewing room.

It has been proposed in Germany, at a conference of women's associations, that all girls shall be obliged to undergo a period of domestic training, in the same way that all men undergo military training. The Kaiser will approve of this, of course.

The above clipping from The Herald inserted in news paragraphs with the admission that "many men on the side would agree with the Kaiser," might help to press our point upon public attention.

WHO FATHERS IT?

EDITOR OF THE STAR:

I see that that worst best plan for our cable crossing commission has finally been thrown out from the cave of darkness where it has been hatching to poison many minds. It is a bad plan but a bad plan, and the wording on it is, "How much more will Winchester pay to get something better?" Let there be a sketch made of this worst thing so that we may grasp its beauties better than we can from a cold brass bill plan. Who will father it?

John H. Carter.

WHY HE RESIGNED.

EDITOR OF THE STAR:

During the past week so many people have asked me my reasons for resigning my position as Assistant Postmaster that there seems to be a general interest in the subject. It is perhaps strange that there is no other institution in the town which comes so closely in touch with all the people of Winchester every day as the Post Office and anything which affects the work of the office is of interest to its patrons.

My reasons were fully set forth in my letter of resignation in which I handed the Postmaster, and the publication of that would probably answer those interested as well as anything else. The letter was as follows:

Winchester, Mass., Dec. 29, 1909.
J. W. Richardson, P. M.
Winchester, Mass.

Sir,—For several months it has been apparent that your views and mine regarding the conduct of the work of the Winchester Post Office have been widely at variance with little or no prospect of their being reconciled.

Your attitude has been one of opposition to every suggestion that I have made for the betterment of the service, in an endeavor to bring it to a higher state of efficiency, to take advantage of the facilities which the Department has provided, and to give the town the service to which it is entitled, and which it might enjoy if the work was properly arranged and intelligently directed.

Every change which I have suggested has been taken as a reflection on the manner in which you have conducted the affairs of the office and accordingly has been dismissed in nearly every case without giving me the courtesy of an answer. You have tried to throw on me the responsibility for the work of others without giving me authority to arrange that work as I should be able to do even making it possible for me to do what was required. W. C. T. U. NOTES.

The annual meeting of the Winchester Union will be held Fri. Jan. 14, at 3 p. m., in the vestry of the First Congregational Church. Besides the election of officers there will be reports from the officers and superintendents of departments, so that every member is urged to be present to learn what has been accomplished in the twelve months.

Delegates will also be appointed for the midwinter meeting of the Middlesex County W. C. T. U., which is to be held in Arlington, Jan. 12.

The managers of the Francis T. Willard settlement are rejoicing over the fact that their first held a month ago met about $100 which will materially reduce their mortgage. There has also been received notice of a bequest which will further reduce the burden and that too gives cause for rejoicing. New Year's Day we held their annual reception and many friends of the work took this opportunity to pay their respect and investigate the present conditions of the enterprise.

An attempt is to be made during the present congress to reinstate the content at army posts and the white ribbon workers are actively organizing opposition to it. The present congress has its hands full in more ways than one.

CELEBRATED GOLDEN WEDDING.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Larivee celebrated their golden wedding New Year's night at their home, No. 6 Blind Bridge street. The couple were born in Canada, 74 and 72 years ago, respectively.

Mr. Larivee came to this town in 1851 and settled on Carter Hill where Capt. A. A. Clark's saw mill was located and where he was employed a great number of years. There were no cars then as today; trains did not run Sundays, so they had to resort to the stage coach which plied from Boston to Lowell.

They were married in Waltham, New Year's, 1862, and following their wedding came to this town, which has been their abode ever since.

They have three sons, Joseph, Xavier and George.

The evening was most enjoyably spent with their immediate family and a few friends. Selections on the violin and piano were rendered followed by refreshments. They were the recipients of a number of beautiful presents.

BEST ALL AROUND ATHLETE.

In its "School" athletic series" the Boston Journal has the following to say concerning Leon Tuck of the Winchester High school:

LEON TUCK.

"Having made every sport recognized by Winchester High, Leon Tuck is rightly entitled to be classed as the school's best all-round athlete. He is 15 years old, weighs 147 pounds and is 5 feet 7 inches in height.

Tuck has figured in as many branches of sport as it is possible during the school term, and, while the constant training from September to June would ordinarily affect other athletes the Winchester star is always in time shape.

Third base, shortstop and pitcher are three positions Tuck has played on the baseball mound during two years. This record covers his service at half-back on the football team. Four years as a hockey forward and captain in the last two seasons is Tuck's record for the Canadian sport. A member of the basketball team for two years and a season maddling at stern position for the canoe rowing club on his athletic accomplishments.

Just now Tuck is busy with the basketball and football teams. So all-around he is in all branches that the other athletes demand his presence in the game. Tuck has been known to play half hockey in the afternoon and then turn his hand to basketball in the evening.

Tuck will graduate in June and expects to enter Dartmouth in the fall."

METHODIST CHURCH NOTES.

The fourth quarterly conference will be held in the vestry on Saturday evening, Jan. 15th, at seven thirty o'clock. This is the last and most important business meeting of the year, and it is desired that a full attendance shall be obtained. Please remember the change of date, to Jan. 15.

The last night of the old year was spent cheerfully and profitably, so all present. The first part of the evening was taken up with a social season, under the direction of Miss Ruth Dinning, and the last part of the evening was given over to a watch night service, led by the Pastor Rev. John R. Chaffee. This seemed to be a most fitting close of the old year.

The prosperous condition of all branches of the church work reflect great credit on the Pastor and Mrs. Chaffee, whose untiring efforts have helped greatly in obtaining this present condition.

Remembrance, let all turn out to the last meeting of the week of prayer, in the Methodist Episcopal Church, this Friday evening at 7:45.

EDITOR OF THE STAR:

A little Miss street Miss heard her mother say, on her father, who is healthy, healthy, or to take away to "keep him up," "I say," said the little girl, "I thought, I thought, people fall down."

A Winchester gentleman gives The Spectator a letter, which is a waste of time to be talked about, but sometimes it is much worse to be talked about.

No Winchesterer likes a scandal. When one has a scandal forced on him he gets rid of it as soon as possible.

It is said that "Satan is ever about to find us unoccupied." The gentleman referred to never watches The STAR staff. It would be a waste of valuable time.

It is said that money makes the mare go, but a Winchesterer who has been unoccupied in the luxury of a high-society gives The Spectator to understand that the mare makes the money go.

At least one Winchesterer is not afraid of bad omens. This man defies superstition. He was born on the thirteenth, for years lived at thirteen, about last recently moved to twenty-three on another street. He was married on the thirteenth, and there are thirteen letters in his name. The Spectator he will think out of a small cup, pass under a ladder, or break a mirror without any fear of ill fate. There were twenty-three men at a "house warming" in Winchester recently when he and late and thirteen of them smoked cigars.

The Spectator cannot say too much in urging the good people of Winchester to support the proposition for a Winchester Young Men's Christian Association, for such an institution would be of the greatest benefit to the young men of the town. The Spectator thinks every good citizen realizes this as well as he does. The time is ripe for the establishment of such an institution. Let all good citizens be up and doing.

The past week several citizens have been snowed by boys on their way to and from school. The Spectator is excited if a teacher has lost control of a pupil on the street. Teachers here in Winchester and elsewhere formerly exercised such control, with parental consent, punishing boys who acted in an unbecomingly manner on the streets with a stout switch. But those good old times are gone. The Spectator believes that a teacher should have control of a pupil in his classroom, but once out of school a pupil is now generally out of the teacher's control.

A Winchester clergyman who has been in more homes here in Winchester than any other man, informs The Spectator, without hesitation, that the solution of most of our social ills lies in having a good home life for the children. There is but the foundation of a child's character, which is prophetic of the child's future well or woe. Home life is degenerating even in Winchester and so long as this condition continues may we expect a continuation of our ills as among the juvenile population. When Napoleon was asked what France needed most, he promptly replied "Mother." If this clergyman were asked what Winchester needed most he might reply "The Spectator he would reply as promptly "Homes." There are many good homes in Winchester, but the community would be greatly blessed if there were many more.

A visitor came into The STAR's sanctum this morning. The other day The STAR on account of a little matter of general interest to the people of Winchester. It is something I hastily scribbled off. The Spectator, who happened to be in charge just at that moment, responded, "I am glad to see you." You are the first man I ever knew who came into The STAR's sanctum with an item which I used to express of "scratched out." If you can "scratch out" copy like this when you set yourself to write something, the object of penmanship must feel that they ought to go to writing school again. When you come again don't forget to say you "scratched out" your copy. An unexpected expression like that impresses an editor in his contributor's favor. The visitor said he'd make a note of The Spectator's advice.

"Just like a woman!" exclaimed a Pleasant street gentleman, when his wife left the stove-polish brush by the side of the blacking-bro, in consequence of which his boots shone with preternatural lustre; "just like a woman!" "Yes, I know you do," replied the weaker vessel meekly, "provided she isn't your lawful wife." The Spectator.

THE FORTNIGHTLY.

The next meeting of the Fortnightly will be in charge of the music committee, Mrs. Fay Lelavour chairman.

She will present a Song Recital by Albert Edmund Brown, supervisor of music in the public schools of this town.

The Parish of the First Congregational Church held a special meeting on Monday evening at the church vestry to appoint a committee to make with that previously appointed by the church, for the purpose of selecting a new pastor to fill the vacancy caused by the resignation of Rev. Mr. Henry J. Nichols, brother of Mrs. Charles M. D-Loria of Washington street, died Dec. 30th at his home in Milford, N. H., of heart failure. Mr. Nichols was cashier of the National Bank at Milford.

On Monday morning about eight o'clock the axle of a Stoddard Road electric broke when the car was on Washington street near Hancock. Before the car was stopped it had left the rails and turned at right angles to the track. The travel was not delayed to any great extent as a car was on the Arlington side of the track. A crew from Reading was sent to the scene and the car taken to the turn-out in front of the Baptist Church, the ivy street making it possible to do this with a broken wheel sliding along beneath the car. After temporary repairs had been made the car was taken to the Reading barn.

Mr. Campbell, secretary for State Commission for the Blind, said recently: "Two minutes of time in treating the eyes with a week after birth may save 70 years of darkness. Two cents of protection within that period may save $5000 for the support of a blind person during 70 years. If baby's eyes are inflamed when born or become so soon after birth, see a physician. A penetrating liquid to strengthen them and kill germs which will produce blindness is needed. The operation is a simple one, consisting of merely putting a drop of the liquid in the eyes. The drug does not cost more than five cents."

Census List in February.

Examinations of candidates for enumerators in this census district will be held at the State House early in February, and it is expected that there will be between 5000 and 6000 applicants for the 2500 places to be filled. Candidates must be over 18 years of age or under 70, and applications must be filed not later than Jan. 25.

Charles F. Gettany, supervisor of the census for the Mass. district, who will have charge of the appointment of enumerators, stated that the examination will be a comparatively easy one for persons of good judgment who have received an ordinary common school education.

It will consist of filling out a sample schedule of population from a description, in narrative form, of typical families, and in the case of enumerators whose work will be in the rural districts there will be an additional sample schedule of agriculture from information furnished by the census bureau.

Appointment to the enumerators' places will be made by Mr. Gettany by the middle of March, although the work of collecting data will not be begun until April 15. Under the provisions of the census act the enumeration must be completed in each district within 30 days, except in places having a population of 5000 under the preceding census, where it shall be completed in two weeks.

The pay of enumerators is fixed by the census act, which provides that in sub-divisions where the director of the census shall deem such remuneration sufficient, an allowance shall be made "of not less than 2 nor more than 4 cents for each inhabitant enumerated; not less than 20 nor more than 40 cents for each barn and enclosure containing live stock not on farms."

In other sub-divisions a mixed rate of not less than $1 nor more than $2 per day may be fixed and, in addition, an allowance of not less than 1 nor more than 3 cents for each inhabitant enumerated and not less than 15 nor more than 20 cents for each farm reported.

IT MAY BE UP THE ELEVATED

The war department has inaugurated a most radical change in the regulations governing the opening of crabs during in and around Boston, and it seems now as if conditions for public health over the Charlestown and Warren bridges will not be even as good as for a number of years past.

Heretofore, the periods set for opening the draw were as follows: 6, 6.30, 9.30 and 11 a. m., 12.30, 1.30, 3, 5, 8 and 11.30 p. m.

Between the latter hour and 6.30 a. m., it was open any time the vessels came along. The new regulations now prescribe that the draw must be opened promptly on signal any time between the hours of 9 a. m. and 4.30 p. m., and between the hours of 7 p. m. and 6.30 a. m. on week days and at all hours on Sundays and legal holidays, to allow any vessel or vessels or other water craft to pass.

THE SCHOOL-

MASTER'S RECESS.

Senator Lodge was so pleased by a magazine article of Representative McCull on the tariff that he carried a senate resolution to have it printed as a public document. Two editions have been liberally circulated and the magazine asks, as though in passing, curiosity, what right Senator Lodge has to employ copyright material without permission?

This is a perfectly reasonable objection, and restitution will probably be made by the government. But no one seems to have thought to ask what right McCull has to print a campaign material in public documents, and thus the passing for its Boston Globe.

SOME RAYS OF HOPE.

Should the vast north colonies in this neighborhood learn the news that was given by the government entomologists to the convention of state mushroom tasters they would be filled with consternation. It was the first really hopeful word that has yet emanated from the conservative parasite breeders, and it will be hailed as particularly glad tidings by the home-suffering taxpayers of the moth-infested sections.

To be sure the parasite enterprise is still in an experimental stage, but that the entomologists are greatly encouraged by the results of the last season's work is evident. For four years the Federal Entomological Bureau and the state have been working persistently to find a better soil for the parasite, and to establish them on our soil. After many baffling experiences they have at last won a heartening measure of success. Three promising parasites and two predaceous beetles are now at large in our woodlands. Some of these have already become widely distributed and are giving an account of themselves. If they pass the present winter safely the first cheer of victory will be in order next summer.

There is just one danger even if these imported allies do all that the scientific men hope for. People will expect the parasites to do the impossible. They must not be expected to take the whole burden from the back of man. They will help enormously, especially in the woodlands, but the spraying of ornamental trees and on lawns will have to be continued much as it is to-day so long as a gypsy caterpillar remains with power to gnaw the foliage. But the cost will doubtless be much reduced, and the worry, which is almost worse than the insect itself, will be quite removed once the parasites are in full swing.

It certainly looks as if the gypsy moth were doomed, but it is still remains the prevalent problem, practically unsolved, and the San Jose scale has already become so prevalent that the board of agriculture feels constrained to appeal to the legislature in the interest of the orchardists. There is also that brand new kind of pest, the locust moth, which is adding the class heretofore, and the so-called spruce-bark caterpillar which for two years past has laid waste the maple and larch forests in mid New Hampshire. Let us hope that the entomologists will be encouraged by the promising results of their efforts to paralyze the gypsy, to search the globe for the natural enemies of those other arborescent terrors of ours—Boston Transcript.

STILL IN THE RING.

High school fraternities are now under investigation in Brockton. Investigation is the craze of the hour, and these guilds of adolescence have more than once come under its probe, thought to be sure without in any decisive results. If there were any great educational prejudice connected with this widespread movement of juvenile affiliation, some determined stand would long ago have been made against it. As it is, the mystic orders of youth seem to be consistently enjoying the long life that is ascribed to the much-threatened—Boston Globe.

BOSTON THEATRE.

Those in search of a high, merry, clean, mellow and tastefully spectacular entertainment will find it at the Boston Theatre, where "Bright Eyes" has already scored one of the biggest hits of a popular hit. Late last week the audience of this playhouse, audiences have been a most of a "topsy-turvy" character since the first performance in enthusiasm and delight have been universal. In every way "Bright Eyes" is indeed a close and fitting companion to the other Gates' success, "Three Twins," by the same authors. Wednesday and Saturday matinees will be given during the whole of the limited engagement. There will be a special matinee performance on election day in Boston, Tuesday, the 11th inst., beginning at 2 o'clock.

ELECTRICITY COST

CUT AGAIN.

On January 1 The Edison Electric Illuminating Company put into effect another cut in the cost of electricity for light and power, dropping from 12 cents to 10 cents per unit. This is a reduction of 8 1/3 per cent. In 1909 the Company reduced its price from 15 cents to 13 cents; later from 15 cents to 12 cents, and now from 12 cents to 10 cents.

These reductions have all been made possible because of the co-operation of the people with the Company. A few customers may furnish successful business for an electric lighting company, but a widespread co-operation among the proprietors of stores and factories and the owners and occupants of homes in the use of electricity makes it possible for a company like the Edison to introduce economies in the manufacture and distribution of current, and so increase the efficiency of its apparatus. This means greater and greater possibilities for reducing the price to those who are co-operating in its use. This co-operation not only results in a saving, because the price can be steadily reduced, but it brings to one and all the great advantages of electric light and power service. There is nothing more modern at the present time in our scheme of industry and social life; there is nothing so available and adaptable; and there is nothing that makes so much for the comfort, health and security of all the people as electric service.

SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE

FROM MARY DASCOMBE.

This is my first letter of the New Year and I'll begin by wishing you happiness and good cheer. If you haven't started the year quite right see the delightful humor of William Hodge in "The Man From Home" at the Park Theatre. It will send you away in the best possible humor with yourself and the world in general.

William Hodge, one of the best actors the country has ever produced, plays Daniel Voorhees Pike, the young man from Kokomo who smashes into Burke's Peckage right where the flustered coroner never enter most troubles America. For the first time the national joke of having a lord has been turned to dramatic account and I made the most exquisitely wholesome lesson. A more chaperon picture of the American at his best has never been given us. Mr. Hodge is such a unique and attractive personality that half the absorbing entertainments of the play are due to his delightful acting. The cast supporting him is flawless and the scenic accessories complete to the most minute detail are triumphs of the painters art. It is to be hoped that crowds and crowds will rock the Park Theatre for the sensation of being terribly proud of America via Kokomo, Ind.

KEITH'S THEATRE.

The suggestion has been made that Demian Thompson construct a play that would give his many admirers an opportunity to see "Joshua Whitcomb" in all those incidents in which this famous character has been seen by the public during the past 25 years. For instance, in "The Old Homestead" with which everybody is familiar, his eye to me are both amusing and at the same time here that touch of pathos that appeals to everybody. The same may be said to be true of the sketch "Joshua Whitcomb" which Mr. Thompson is now playing at Keith's, and which has brought back memories of 25 years ago to thousands of theatregoers. Mr. Thompson in his last week will be surrounded by an excellent bill including Gracie Fennell in her sketch called "Mrs. Murphy's Second Husband."

"Mum was once a sponge," says a lecturer. Every man and woman in Winchester knows at least one man who is just now.

In the old days school was a dread to a majority of pupils; now the sentiment is changed. The young are more impressed with the importance of securing as much education as possible.

A banking expert has figured that a year today is doing twice the work it did three generations ago," says an exchange reaching The Star. Merely man is not the only thing that has to hustle to make both ends meet nowadays, it appears.

The electric railroad officials should remove the stopping point on Washington street either from the foot of Latham street or Stone avenue. The closeness of the white poles is an annoyance to passengers, confusing to conductors and provocative of bad temper on the part of motorists. These two places are only about three car lengths apart.

The Winchester Star reproduced The Chronicle article of several weeks ago on the formation of a "fourhouse trusts," — the consolidation of the poorhouses of towns in the same sections, as a means of better and more economically caring for the unfortunate poor. The Star states that in Winchester the poor are boarded out or sent to Tewksbury. We are quite sure that Reading, though far from being as rich a town as Winchester, would hardly under any circumstances, send any of its poor to Tewksbury, although the state institution is conceded to be well conducted. [Reading Chronicle.]

The Star and many others were somewhat inclined to believe that the cold weather the first of the week was something that even the oldest inhabitant had never experienced.

Six years ago, on Jan. 5, 1904, the thermometer registered 26 below; on the 6th, 15 and on the 28th, 15. Feb. 4 of the same year, 14, and on the 10th, 10. So you see there are other records which tend to make conditions the first of the week not so severe after all.

Three Years for Selectmen.

The suggestion in last week's Star that members of the Board of Selectmen be elected for three years hereafter has been very favorably commented upon by many prominent citizens as well as members of the present Board. Good men will serve for three years on the board as readily as they will for one year, and the talk of the past that a one-year term affords a good opportunity to get rid of an unfit man has but little weight with the thinking voter. A Selectman elected for three years whom the citizens do not wish to continue in office could be easily got rid of even if the term for which he was elected had not expired. Public sentiment is an irresistible force, but we have no idea that it would ever be resorted to. The Selectmen or the Appropriations Committee should have an article in the warrant for the coming town meeting to bring about the change. The Board of Selectmen is the only department wherein the members are elected for only one year.

ECONOMY IN EXPENDITURES

Necessary Because of Present Condition of Commonwealth's Finances—State Troops' Pay—Industrial School Problem—Meat Inspection System Should Be Reorganized—Milk Producing Industry Declining—Patients in Insane and Other Institutions Greatly Increased in Number—Effective Automobile Law—Railroad Bonds as Bank Investments

Governor of the General Court of Massachusetts:

In presenting my second message for your consideration, I desire first to thank the people of Massachusetts for their renewed expression of confidence in me.

Finances. The net direct debt of the Commonwealth of Massachusetts on Dec. 1, 1909, was $18,750,755.12. This debt on Dec. 1, 1909, was $17,600,372.09. During the past year, therefore, the net direct state debt increased $1,150,383.03. The net metropolitan debt, or contingent debt, as it is called in the auditor's report, was, on Dec. 1, 1909, $20,211,632.02. On Dec. 1, 1909, this debt was $20,428,223.11 so that this debt has increased during the past year $216,651.09. There have been issued during the year, charges of $1,000,000 for permanent improvements, new bonds amounting to $2,225,250, while bonds have been paid amounting to $2,552,500. The metropolitan debt was increased by bonds issued for permanent improvements amounting to $1,441,000, and was decreased by payment of bonds to the amount of $800,000 and a contribution to the sinking fund of $1,368,312.11.

The receipts from miscellaneous sources of revenue during the year ending Dec. 1, 1909, were $7,091,776.10. The state tax was $1,500,000, so that the total revenues for the year, exclusive of cash on hand, amounted to $12,591,776.10. There was paid out for expenses during the year $12,822,559.24, so that the cash on hand was quite substantially increased from Dec. 1, 1908, to Dec. 1, 1909.

We have in the last year, in both cases of debt, had a record for permanent improvements, but we have not increased either class of debt as much as the amount of such bonds. The net debt was, however, in each case greater on the first day of December, 1909, than it was on the first day of December, 1908.

The annual charge for interest on the net direct debt in 1909, reckoned at 2½ per cent, would be something more than $400,000 a year, while on the metropolitan debt the interest charge, which has to be paid by the metropolitan district, at the same rate of 2½ per cent, would be more than $2,100,000 a year.

I call these figures to your attention, and ask you to seriously consider whether it is not time, in making your appropriations, to provide for a substantial payment each year on the principal of the net direct debt. It also seems to me that it is time that the principal of the metropolitan debt should begin to be decreased, as the annual interest charges are constantly growing larger and becoming a heavier burden.

The expenses of the Commonwealth were materially enlarged during the past year because of the greatly increased number of unfortunate people who had to be cared for in our various institutions, and we must expect this to be largely the same in the future. This fact should be taken into consideration in making your appropriations for the current year. It is obviously necessary, with the finances of the Commonwealth in their present condition, to institute economy in every expenditure, and certainly no large new undertakings should be started which are not absolutely necessary, except those which are for the proper care of our sick and unfortunate.

Municipal Accounting and Registration of Municipal Loans. The bureau of statistics is doing a large amount of work in connection with municipal accounting reform. It is a legitimate function of the Commonwealth to assist its municipalities, and especially the towns, in devising methods by which their affairs can be better administered to their own advantage, and it is highly desirable that it should do so in the interest of all our citizens and of investors in municipal securities.

The very unfortunate occurrences which came to light during the past year in connection with the finances of the town of Framingham have brought freely to the attention of the people the necessity for some reform in the method of issuing municipal loans.

I suggest that some plan be adopted requiring the registration and certification in the office of the bureau of statistics, of all town and city loans. There are many people interested in this subject who have suggested various methods by which this can be done, and I submit the general subject to your attention, with an earnest request for prompt and wise action.

Interest on War Loans. It has been called to my attention that there are certain equitable claims for reimbursement of local patriotism and interest during the war, which the Commonwealth has been unable to pay, after enabling legislation has been enacted at Washington. The question here is a large one, amounting to more than a million dollars.

The present time, then, is not a time in law which would allow the Governor and Council to make money contracts for the payment of these claims. I feel sure that the Governor and Council, with the advice and consent of the Council, is given authority to make contracts to collect money due the Commonwealth of Massachusetts, except an order for reimbursement of interest paid by the Commonwealth on its war loans. These claims to which I have referred are in part for money paid by the Commonwealth in its war loans, and it is necessary for the best future to take action in order to give the Governor and Council authority to make proper arrangements to prosecute these claims. It is for the reason that such action be taken.

Education. The reorganized board of education was appointed on the thirtieth day of January last, and since that time the board has taken action on the first day of the year. The members have necessarily had little chance to do anything up to the present time except to familiarize themselves with present conditions and engage a commissioner of education. As the old commission on industrial education and its officials went out of office when the new board came in, the members of the new board were themselves obliged to devote a great deal of time and attention to the ordinary routine work which was required until they could decide on a commissioner of education and get the new board thoroughly organized. They have now engaged their commissioner, and are carefully studying the questions which come within their province, especially the matter of industrial education, and how best to adapt it to our present school system.

They find that the statutes under which industrial schools may be and have been established are not clear; and, because of this lack of clearness, many questions have arisen in the past, under the commission on industrial education. In regard to the so-called independent industrial schools, which need to be settled and which can be cleared up only by new legislation. The board of education will ask for such action as it deems necessary, and will explain in detail the reasons therefor and what it desires to accomplish.

This question of industrial education, how it shall be worked in harmony with, and very likely become a part of, our public school system, is a great one. The board has not had time as yet to properly study out and formulate a definite policy. It is not a question that the Commonwealth should rush into this matter haphazardly, and without careful consideration and a definite plan.

We have an able board of education, which is earnestly devoted to its duties, and during the present year it will have time to, and will, formulate definite plans as to what should be done for the real advancement of this important work. In the meantime, it would be an unwise policy at this juncture to create separate and individual schools for industrial education which would not be integral parts of the whole school system.

Much can be done this year by the board, and legislation will be requested which will permit such work as is deemed proper; but it will, after the passage of new legislation, require some time to study out a system before the board will be able to go ahead with a complete plan of education which shall include industrial education as one of its principal and component parts.

State Library. More room has been given to the state library, and the trustees and the librarian are planning to use this space for legislative reference work. This will necessitate the employment of an assistant in this department, and I recommend an appropriation sufficient to meet this extra expense, and also a reasonable increase in the salary of the state librarian.

Free Public Library Commission. This commission has done excellent work for many years, and the people of every town in the Commonwealth are now having the opportunity to obtain books from a free public library. It is not desirable that the towns should have too much state assistance in this direction, but it is essential that the commission should be given more assistance. The appropriation of the commission should be somewhat increased, so that it may have additional help for performing its clerical work and visiting the various libraries throughout the Commonwealth.

Meat Inspection. During the last year much interest was taken in and attention given to the improving of conditions under which meat, to be sold for food to the people, should be slaughtered and prepared for sale. There was a feeling that meat infected with the germs of disease might be sold as food; and the fear that such conditions existed caused the legislature to pass laws intended to prevent the sale of inferior meat, and also to order an inquiry by the state board of health into the method of slaughtering, in Massachusetts, of animals to be used for food.

Of all the animal food products consumed in this Commonwealth, a very large percentage is derived from the products of the dairy. In the case of these products, however, the best products must be inspected by officers of the United States stationed in the slaughterhouses, and the animals are killed and the animals and carcasses are examined thoroughly, by trained men, before and after being slaughtered. If there is anything which renders meat unfit for food, it is seen by the inspectors and the carcasses are destroyed and only meat which is fit for food is permitted to be shipped from one state to another or to other countries. I have personally looked into this examination in various slaughterhouses, and I am satisfied that the government inspection is scientific and adequate. This applies to the great bulk of the animal food products consumed by the people of this Commonwealth. The small quantities of non-dairy products are permitted to exist in this state are not, in my opinion, good. The slaughterhouses are not properly kept, and many inspectors in the different sections of the Commonwealth do not properly understand the duties the inspection is not sufficiently careful and it is inadequate.

A reorganization of this system should be effected, so that the carcasses with meat be divided into districts, having expert inspectors with shall supervise all the carcasses under which animals for food are slaughtered, and who shall also examine the carcasses to see that they are in proper condition to be sold for food.

The appointment by the Commonwealth of a large number of such inspectors to look after these conditions would not be desirable, but when the fact is considered that the people would be better protected from disease than they now are in the meat which they use for food, the extra expense, although quite an item, should not be considered. While the expense would be quite large to the state, much of it would be saved directly to the towns and cities, as they would be relieved of that which they now have to meet for inspection. I recommend that careful consideration of this subject be given, and that action be taken so that all these conditions may be improved and a new system of local slaughtering established, and that the standard and inspection be made the same as that now required by the United States government. I do not think our conditions in this respect are as good as those of the other states, but we cannot afford to be below the United States standard, which is the best; and I urge prompt and wise action in dealing with this most important question.

Milk Conditions. The problem of milk and the way it shall be sold is a problem which seems very difficult to solve satisfactorily to both the producers and consumers. There has been much discussion as to whether the standard for milk sold in this state should be 12.5 per cent of milk solids and 3.25 per cent of fat, is right. I do not pretend to express an opinion based on knowledge in this respect, but I have not been able to see any way in which the consumer can be protected, unless a standard of quality shall be established and maintained by law.

While I thoroughly believe in a standard of milk, established and maintained by law, some conditions existing today seem to cause a hardship to the Massachusetts milk producers, because milk from other states can be sold in Massachusetts under less favorable conditions than is the case with the product of Massachusetts farmers.

It is further a fact that for some reason the number of neat cattle in the Commonwealth of Massachusetts has decreased. In the year 1905 there were 2300 head of neat cattle than in 1907, and on Nov. 30, 1907, the record showed a decrease of nearly 10,000 from the previous year, so that there were 13,000 head of neat cattle less in Massachusetts at the beginning of 1909 than there were at the end of 1906. This proves conclusively that the keeping of cattle for milk in Massachusetts is not an industry that is growing, but that it is declining.

This is unquestionably bad for the Commonwealth. As the consumption of milk seems to be constantly increasing, it must be brought in from other states. Our farming industry in the future of this Commonwealth will not be profitable for the farmer to raise and sell milk under existing conditions. I believe that the legislature should pass laws, if necessary, so that the farmers of this Commonwealth should ship their milk through the direct agency of the railroads, rather than be obliged to deal through contractors who practically handle the shipping of milk for the railroads. Whether the farmers of this Commonwealth should be permitted to ship their milk to the cities of the Commonwealth over the railroads of the state should have the right to deal with them directly, under proper regulations and receive proper pay for the service rendered, and should not be obliged take milk at every station; but proper provisions should be made so that milk delivered in reasonable quantities at particular points should be carried by the railroads at reasonable rates to the large centers of population where it is to be consumed. I believe if this were done many of the complaints which now exist concerning the milk question would disappear.

Military Matters. The militia is in excellent condition. The maneuvers which were held during the past summer were most beneficial and advantageous. All the conditions of actual service in war time were present except the terrible carnage which results from actual combat. Our troops were ordered to mobilize on a given day at given points, ready for service. This was a severe test of the efficiency and patriotism of the citizen-soldiers, which were admirably met. The troops of all arms, infantry, artillery and cavalry, arrived at the designated points on time and in good condition. The year 1909 was the first during a week of most active service, during which time there was some very severe and disagreeable weather. Arrangements were made to prevent fires, and the damage done to the property of our citizens by the officers and men was almost negligible.

Under the sick bill, which was passed by the national congress and approved on Jan. 21, 1903, it was provided that troops serving from the state should be paid both by the national and state governments; but some confusion in regard to the matter has arisen, and certain of our organizations which have done special military work in the past have received pay from both state and national, while the great bulk of the militia has been paid only the amount specified by the Commonwealth.

It does not seem to me that this is wise or just, and I believe provision should be made so that the pay of all the state troops should be the same, and that any money which would under certain circumstances be paid by the national government to such troops, either for service or subsistence, should be turned into the treasury of the Commonwealth to assist in the general payment of military expenses. I would suggest to you that a proper law be passed to bring about this result.

Institutions. The various state institutions are in

The game with Wesleyan Academy last Tuesday shows what the team can do and the boys will go down to Winthrop tonight full of confidence.

Accidents will happen as was shown at Revere last Saturday, but if the team doesn't win tonight it will give Winthrop the closest job to win it ever had.

Mr. Charles Harrold will referee the game at Winthrop tonight.

Next Wednesday evening comes the big game of the year with St. John's Prep. of Danvers. The school is a comparatively new one and is composed chiefly of Lynn boys, but its reputation in basketball is so well known as not to need further comment. The biggest crowd of the season is expected.

WINCHESTER LOSI.

Winchester High lost the first game of the season by the close score of 20 to 20, at Revere last Saturday evening. The team was greatly handicapped by the Revere gun which was long and narrow and only 11 feet thick. Shot after shot of the Winchester boys hit the ceiling and were carried away Revere, accustomed to the hall and the baskets, made every shot tell. The game was fast and tough but the Winchester team excelled in all departments of the game except the shooting.

Winchester threw three baskets before Revere was awake, but they came back strong and the score at the end of the first half was Winchester 7, Revere 10. In the second half both teams played evenly and the final score was 16 to 20. The score:

Winchester	Revere
Revere	Winchester
Nelson 11	B. Hanson
Konik and B.	R. Hamilton
Simonton 6	C. Dwyer
Smith 10	R. LeDuc, Grant
Clark 10	Clark 10
Score, 20 to 6. Goals from floor, Neilson 1, Smith 4, Simonton, Tuck 2, Hamilton 1, Dwyer 1, LeDuc 1, Grant 1, Revere, Moore, Umble, Anderson, Scurry, Farnsworth, Turner, Smith, Turner, 20 to 6. Attendance 200.

The second team lost a hard fought game 21 to 20. Winchester 21 Wesleyan 20. Winchester High defeated the strong Wesleyan Academy quarter Tuesday evening. Winchester scored the first basket, which was tied up by one of Wesleyan's. In the last few minutes of play, Hanson scored three baskets in succession which settled matters.

The Wesleyan live outweighed Winchester to a man, but clever team work and every man working for the good of the team made up for their weight.

2 The same night the 2nd team shut out Medford High school 19 to 0 to 0. Winchester completely out played Medford, in passing and shooting. Hurd, Newton, Caldwell, excelled for the third team.

The line-up:

Winchester	Wesleyan Acad.
Tuck 11	B. Green
Grant, LeDuc 10	D. Dunsford, Halverson
Dwyer 6	C. Lake
Hamilton 10	R. McKenzie
Hanson 10	Pickles 10
Score, Winchester 25, Wesleyan, 20. Goals from floor, Tuck 1, Grant 2, Dwyer 1, Hanson 5, Hamilton 1, McKenzie 5, LeDuc 3, Green 1, Pickles 1, Goal from foul, Tuck 1, Scurry, Farnsworth, Revere, Catterton, Turner, Matthews.

YOUR AFFAIRS AND MINE.

"No," said a prominent Winchester gentleman to The Spectator the other day. "I don't believe in extending the suffrage to women. There has been so much said about it already that my class grown quite a good deal and begins to think she is a good deal after all. Why, the other day she actually declined to polish the kitchen stove any longer and it goes on this way it won't be long before she will refuse to get up mornings and build the fire. Give the suffrage to women and you will have a society. Knock things over, turn, and transform home and hearth into a barren waste." And the gentleman left The Spectator at the post office and started homeward to have a suspender button sewed on that he had pulled off during the unwanted excitement he had been thrown into.

A Main street youngster of The Spectator's acquaintance, who indulges in slang occasionally, says a hen is like a Winchester policeman, when she is laying for you.

The Spectator does not for a single moment think that the majority of the women of Winchester and elsewhere are purse-prond, simply because they carry their pocket-books in their hands.

A philosopher has said, "Life is like a pack of cards." This is very true, and The Spectator knows more than one Winchester who is anxiously waiting for the time when he shall get his deal.

A pert Miss informs The Spectator that she wears big because she doesn't want to look too fat.

A gentleman who is well known in Winchester social and political life, to make his opinion of some weight approached The Spectator a couple of evenings ago with the very excellent suggestion that a series of free public lectures be established in Winchester in connection with the work of the public library. His idea would be to treat of educational, civic and scientific topics and he would have an "open shelf" containing a generous collection of volumes dealing with the topics lectured upon. The Spectator heartily agrees that the idea contains line educational possibilities and good citizens ought to look into the suggestion. The cost would be repaid many times over.

During the recent holidays the spirit of benevolence in Winchester and vicinity has been happily apparent. The Spectator does not recall any time previously when there was such a spirit of giving manifest. It is a beautiful characteristic of a community and argues well for its future.

A Winchester gentleman who is all the time getting "off" something, remarks to The Spectator that it is a terrible shock to one's feelings, after singing "Salvation's free," to hear the announcement that "the collection will now be taken."

Any man can be, says a Pleasant street friend of The Spectator, but it takes brains to arrange facts and present truths in an intelligent shape. That is why there are so many huns in Winchester and elsewhere.

"Every cloud has a silver lining," but that goes for nothing unless a Winchesterer wear the cloud inside out.

A Winchester gentleman complains to me that certain householders persist in moving waste paper and other refuse with their ashes and not infrequently placing the scrap paper on top of the barrels to be blown up and down the street by the wind. It is an unpardonable practice and no citizen interested in clean streets would be guilty of such an offense.

A gentleman approached The Spectator one afternoon last week and his mouth was full of naughty words. It appears that he had sustained a nasty fall in front of the residence of a prominent townsman who had fallen to remove the snow and ice from his sidewalk. The things he said about the citizen would not look well in print and the Spectator knows what he may expect if he marries a wise woman.

"The wise motto," said one of our Winchester poets in a sermon, "should be the motto of her house hold." Now, every young man in Winchester knows what he may expect if he marries a wise woman.

A physician informs The Spectator that inhibiting the names of sulphur will cure catarrh. The course which two of three people here in Winchester pursue in this line gives promise that they won't be afflicted with catarrh in the next.

Don't forget the little birds when the ground is covered with snow. Hundreds perished in the vicinity of Winchester as a result of the late snowstorm. Think of Winchester people scatter bread crumbs about on top of the snow. More should do likewise.

There are many tragedies in this world, more than most of us suspect, and nearer to our own homes than is often known. There are tragedies of poverty right here in Winchester, where there is no food, but for help made by those brave persons who are suffering by day and night rather than become objects of charity. Right here in Winchester there are tragedies breaking hearts and withering hopes and disintegrating families. And Winchesterites go singing and whistling by.

GRADE CROSSING

Mr. F. L. Ferguson Believes His Plan Preferable.

EDITOR OF THE STAR:

Mr. Theodore P. Wilson, Winchester, Mass.

Dear Sir,—I enclose my annual subscription of $2 for the STAR. I always read it and am particularly interested in the discussion regarding the adoption of the grade crossing and of the Y. M. C. A. building. The last issue contained a statement regarding the proposition to put the single bridge near the depot.

The original proposition which I made and a plan of which was on exhibition in the Town Hall, and which Dr. W. Pratt favored so strongly, and which President Tuttle, of the Boston and Maine, by a letter to me to be read in the town meeting, approved so heartily, still strikes me as preferable to the plan referred to in the STAR. I was a member of the Board of Selectmen at the time the idea was first discussed and I represented the Board in waiting upon President Tuttle and an engineer of the Boston and Maine. I never read President Tuttle's letter to the town meeting because there was an in a hurry made for the plan to elevate the entire center and preserve the old lines of travel. I always said that it was absolutely impossible, as the other parties to the project would not consider it for a moment, and more than once President Tuttle and the engineer of the B. & M. said to me in the most emphatic terms that no such proposition would ever be considered by the Railroad, unless the town would bear all additional expenses. It seemed to me then as it has ever since, that it was a reasonable position for the Railroad to take and also for the Street Railroad Co. and the Commonwealth, in view of the large number of other grade crossings equally or more dangerous, in need of abolition.

I am not here to present and push the original plan which I submitted and am not in correspondence with any one regarding it. I presume the plan is still in the files of the Town Engineer and I can be referred to by you or for any one who might wish to look at it. It seems to me that in every respect it has a great advantage over the plan which is now under consideration and the expense will not be any greater. I am not writing this letter for publication, but would not hesitate to write an article for the STAR, if the opinion of an outsider was of any account. I am not at all surprised at the outcome of the discussion up to date, as it is just what some of us predicted it would be.

I am still interested in Winchester, having built a brick block and four houses during the last summer, and how much more I shall build in the future years will depend entirely upon circumstances. I have had a very large and profitable business since I have been in New York. While I was much prior to reside in Winchester or any of the other beautiful suburbs of Boston, I know that for business reasons I must remain here for some time.

Wishing you a happy and prosperous New Year, I am

Yours truly,

Frank L. Ferguson.

AN OLD COMMUNION SERVICE.

Following the communion service at the First church yesterday morning, the congregation was given an opportunity to view the ancient silver beakers used at communion services by former generations, all but one of them dating back into the last century, the oldest one having been presented to the church in 1726, making it nearly 200 years old. It is of solid silver and a splendid example of the silversmith's art, made by E. Hanners and presented to the church by Col. Eleazer Flagg.

The other pieces include two beakers presented by Mr. Roland Cotton in 1749, given by Mr. Cotton in 1771, and the gift of Mr. N. S. Cotton, and Mr. Cotton, the date of gift not being given but it was probably before 1758; one made by Josiah Austin and belonging to the church in 1796, and another the gift of Mr. Joseph Lawrence in 1822.

These ancient and historic pieces were greatly admired. They are to be loaned to the Boston Museum of Fine Arts and will form a part of the exhibit by that institution of ancient church communion services. They are to be photographed and catalogued, and will remain in the Museum for safe keeping.—Woburn Times.

Candidates will be treated from the non-standpoint as heretofore.

CALUMET HOUSE

TOURNAMENT.

By far the most interesting game in the house tournament at the Calumet Club was that Friday evening between team H, which led the tournament, and the Tigers. Team H met its Waterloo, for it could not stand the pace set by the Tigers for a minute, and went down to defeat for all four points. This win of the Tigers put them in first place by a fairly comfortable margin. The rolling was exceptional. The Tigers rolled their first string to a total of 576, their second 511, and their total was 1579. Dr. Olmsted and singles of 122 and 129, and a total of 347. Gendron had singles of 85 and 108, Kinsley two of 105 and Fitch one of 114. Dr. Kelley was the only bowler of team H to show up a big score, he rolling a single of 122 and a total of 314. This win put team H in third position, team M also passing it.

Y. M. C. A. WORK.

The Winchester people will be pleased to read the following which is President Tait's estimate of the Young Men's Christian Association:

"I have known wealthy men, anxious to give but uncertain where and how to give, who devote a great deal of time to conscientiously investigating the objects of their charity, but who make a dismal failure of it. The truth is a great deal of harm has been done in the community by ill-adviced generosity, as there have been men in business who by ill-adviced investments, when they have before them an ever-expanding, practical instrument for the distribution of funds and in a sensible, direct way, such as is Young Men's Christian Association, they ought to improve the opportunity. They can be sure that the money thus expended will aid struggling young men to resist temptation; it will aid them in economical living; it will aid them in many direct ways to overcome the obstacles of poverty and slow progress, and it will aid all of them without pampering them, without robbing them of their self-respect, without holding before them the prospect of a brighter future, and certainly of success in life in the building up of a Christian character, entering them to the good will of their neighbors and their good standing in the community generally. And when we find an institution which has worked out the problem of materially helping our fellow men in the struggles of life without injuring their self-respect and without discouraging their self-support toward better times, we have something we should certainly prize. The Young Men's Christian Association has come to be recognized as a powerful and necessary factor, both in business and in government matters."

WILLIAM H. TAIT.

President Tait was the first subscriber to the building fund for the Beverly Mass. - Y. M. C. A. where $4,500 was raised in ten days, and Mr. Tait's gift was voluntary, too. R. M. A.

THE FORNIGHTLY.

Whatever the program committee of the club may have in store for its members throughout the remainder of the year, nothing can give more unanimous satisfaction and enjoyment than the delightful Song Recital given by Mr. Albert Edmond Brown and his talented wife.

Mr. Brown comes to Boston as a stranger to the musical world, but it may be judged of his ability in program making and giving by this recital, he will not long be a stranger, he will meet with a right cordial reception wherever he may be heard.

The making of a program is a vital step toward success. This Mr. Brown attained by his combination of the grave and gay, the songs of highly dramatic character with those of dainty imagery, done with utmost delicacy.

The first number was from Haydn's "The Seasons" and took us back to the dignity and precision of Myron Whitney in oratorio work, at the old Boston Music Hall.

In charming contrast the second number consisted of two familiar folk-songs.

Two interesting songs by Schubert, Homer, husband of Madame Homer of opera fame, and two by Lowe, a German writer of a hundred years ago, gave Mr. Brown the opportunity to show his intense dramatic ability, to live the thing he presented to us in music.

To a persistent recall Schubert's "Sylvia" was beautifully given.

The rollicking, oriental rhythm of a group of three Hungarian songs added still greater variety and here one realized that as an accompanist Mrs. Brown has few rivals.

Altogether we are very grateful to the music committee for presenting to us an afternoon of such musical charm.

Ten was served by the social committee.

The club has been fortunate in securing the services of Mr. Brown as leader of a free school class for club members, which will meet in the Assembly Hall, High School building, on Thursday afternoons, at 3.30 o'clock, beginning Feb. 10th.

Mrs. May Alden Ward will hold a free class in current costs at the same place, the second and fourth Fridays of the month at three o'clock.

PRETTY CALENDARS.

The prettiest calendar to be secured at the STAR office this year is that of Carl Larson, the well known decorator. It is in keeping with the artistic interior decorations that Mr. Larson has a reputation for doing.

Another handsome and brightly illuminated calendar has been sent out by Frank H. Knight, the druggist. It is entitled "There's no place like Home." The Newton A. Knapp Co., the well known insurance firm, have been sending out a convenient desk calendar and to their customers.

The Parker and Lane Co., the coal and wood dealers, are distributing a bright and cheerful little calendar, that is sure to find a prominent place in the homes of those who receive them.

OLD DOCUMENTS.

Mr. George H. Carter exhibited in the STAR office this week an old document, the first set of by-laws adopted by the town of 1853, May 29, 1853.

The town of Winchester was incorporated in 1853. These by-laws as a whole, but little from those at present in force.

Mr. Carter has a set of 1853. Section two reads: "Every dog when at large, within this town shall be secured by a muzzle that he cannot bite, and shall have around his neck a collar, legibly inscribed with his owner's name and place of residence."

That poverty is a friend to consumption is demonstrated by some recent German statistics, which show that of 10,000 well-to-do persons, 40 annually die of consumption; of the same number only moderately well-to-do, 66; of the same number really poor, 77; and of paupers, 97. According to John Burns the famous English labor leader, 99 per cent of the consumptives in London receive charitable relief in their homes.

For One Year, the Winchester Star, $2.00, in advance.

Who is your candidate for selectman?

Between Pinchot and Ballinger, a majority of the people believe that the former was right in sustaining Glavis.

The selectmen have given the special grade crossing commission to understand that Winchester has not been dilatory on the grade crossing question.

Senator Lodge is being given the credit for Storow's defeat, the knowing ones claiming that his victory meant his election to the Governorship as a Democrat four years hence. Politics is quite a chess board after all.

The Christian Science Monitor affords no objection to being read in your home. Sane and enlightening, and instructive reading marks every page, and the news is truthfully given, avoiding scandal and red ink at all times.

The new Mayor of Salem has given the people who are doing an illegal liquor business ten days to close up shop. This appears to be the limit. Why does not the Mayor arrest these men on the spot. A chance to close up! What a farce!

Commencing with this week the STAR begins a series of practical articles for home study entitled Home Courses in Domestic Science, from the pen of that gifted writer, Edith G. Charlton, of the department of domestic economy in the Iowa State College. The subjects are of the most varied character, and will be found of interest and value to every woman and likewise of benefit to every man.

J. R. Cahill an investigator for the Board of Trade of England, expresses his astonishment at the cost of bread in the United States. "I can't understand," he says, "how we can buy bread in England for one third the price you pay in Chicago, when you send us your wheat." It is a mystery which has puzzled even Winchesterites and they will welcome any light Mr. Cahill can throw on it. The higher wages of the American baker may furnish a partial explanation but is by no means solves the mystery.

Mr. J. H. Emerson, editor of the New Era, devotes considerable space to calling attention to the many advantages of Stoughton as a place of residence and the benefits promised from the opening of the new Fells railway which will afford a direct route to Boston. The paper is embellished with many pictures. Stoughton, with 5,000 population, is just 10 miles from the Capitol on Beacon Hill; it includes nearly all of the Middlesex Fells, one of the most beautiful tracts of trees, water, rocks and lofty hills in Middlesex County, on which the Met. Park Commissioners have spent considerable money in the last few years in embellishments.

Among the improvements under consideration by the Boston & Maine's plan is the adoption of the Pacific type of locomotives known as the mallet. The engines are to be built as soon as the road department can put in larger turn-tables and lay heavier steel rails, which under the present progressive management, should not be later than 1910. If President Mellen's expenditure of $116,000,000 within a comparatively few years in improvements on the New York and New Haven road is anything to go by, the Boston & Maine will soon become modernized, and there is considerable to do before it will reach that stage.

The following from The Stoneham Independent might be read by the good citizens of Winchester with profit. The suggestion is an excellent one and there is no reason why Winchester should not fall into line.

"In Medford, a civic movement in the interests of the larger development of that city has just been inaugurated, with a series of Sunday evening meetings to be held under the joint direction of the men's clubs of several of the churches. In these meetings matters relating to citizenship, to the city's moral and social well-being, to the problems and needs of the city's youth, to the public schools and home life, will be considered by able speakers. Is it not important to consider these things together as loyal citizens of a community? Why shall not Stoneham follow Medford's lead? Our ideals of community life cannot be too high!

Time Wasted.

We print on first page a plan of a bridge at the station which has the endorsement of the special commission on eliminating the present grade crossing and which they believe answers all requirements. This plan was prepared by Mr. Rowell, engineer of the Boston & Maine Railroad, at the request of the Commissioners. Why they did not have their own engineer prepare the plan is not publicly known. Perhaps Mr. Rowell was called upon to do so because of his familiarity with territory in the centre of the town. What the commission expect to accomplish by giving publicity to the plan and withholding their report is difficult to determine. However, the STAR can say unhesitatingly that the publication of this plan at this time will not accomplish anything. What the citizens want is the report of these gentlemen, and when this is received and digested favorable or unfavorable action can then be taken by the town. It seems beyond comprehension that after waiting fifteen months, when the final hearing was held, that the result now is only another plan, without an accompanying word regarding it or the reason for its adoption by the commissioners. The Selectmen and Town counsel have been accused by that body and counsel for the Boston & Maine with holding up the grade crossing abolition. This has been denied by the town officials, and to give added weight to this denial the Selectmen voted last week to have no further dealings with the commission, but to seek another avenue to speedily bring about the desired end, and in taking this step they will have the approval of the inhabitants of Winchester.

BODY FOUND IN SEWER.

Tuesday while workmen were clearing out the Metropolitan sewer at the corner of Vine and Main streets they were somewhat surprised to find the remains of a stillborn child. As the body was found in the trunk line sewer it is exceedingly difficult to locate the neighborhood from whence it came. This sewer is not only a connection for the Winchester system but Woburn as well. The police are trying to unravel what now seems to be a mystery.

CONGREGATIONAL SOCIETY MEETING.

The annual meeting of the Winchester Congregational Society was held on Monday evening in the church vestry, with Mr. George C. Coit as moderator.

Mr. Herbert Goff was elected to membership and the following officers were elected for the ensuing year: Clerk, Harry A. Wheeler; Treasurer, Edwin N. Lovvring; Collector, James P. Bostwell; Auditors, Ernest W. Hatch, Eben Caldwell.

Appropriations were made to a total of $553.55, this to be increased at a subsequent meeting to cover pastor's salary, when a new pastor is secured.

The thanks and appreciation of the Society was extended to the Standing Committee for their work in planning and carrying on the alterations and repairs to the church property. The following extract from the report of the Standing Committee gives the detailed work which has been accomplished during the past summer and autumn:

"A one-story addition, 20 feet in width was constructed in the rear of the church, containing a large kitchen fitted with all the modern improvements, a large primary class room, two additional class rooms, sanitary conveniences, and an ample cellar. Both staircases in the rear of the church were rebuilt, the old hot air turncases were removed, the former furnace room transformed into still another Sunday School class room, a part of the old primary class room, appropriated for the Sunday School library, and a system of steam heating installed throughout the building. Incidental to these, the church premises were connected with the common sewer, a new gas pipe was run into the building from Dix street to supply gas to the hot water heater, and the ventilation of the auditorium was improved by the reinstallation of ventilating flues in the wall on either side of the pulpit."

The usual reports were made by officers and committees and placed on record. The action of the Standing Committee in removing the horse sheds in the rear of the church was approved. The new Standing Committee was authorized to renew loans made to the Society, and to petition the Legislature for authority for the Society to hold property to an amount exceeding fifty thousand dollars.

BAPTIST NEWS.

Large attendances and forceful persuasive preaching have marked the special meetings of the week. The Rev. Arthur L. Winn preaches tonight on "The Cost of Neglect."

Dr. Spaulding, in the course of his magnificent address last Sunday morning, stated that according to the most reliable statistics four thousand people are converted daily to the Christian faith throughout the world.

"Three Pointed Parables" is the title a series of Sunday evening sermons beginning next Sunday evening, as follows:

"The Parable of the Virgins, or The Shut Door."
"The Parable of the Rich Miser, or The Waste of Worldliness."
"The Parable of the Tares, or What Shall the Harvest Be?"

DISTRICT SCHOOL BOYS.

The following poem was written for and read at "The District School" show held in the Town Hall last week:

DISTRICT SCHOOL BOYS.

"Up and down goes 'Sammy Tucker' A poet he is, and at that a corker When he sings he is the candy especially in Yankee Doodle Dandy."

Now we come to little "Dave," With a voice just like the "Fairy," He's the best we've ever seen. He's the best we've ever seen.

"Jeremiah Jenkins," who sang "Blind Boys," what would have been your fate if "Mr. Trendergrass" did wisely take Jacob Biddaker's hot-naked shoe Before he gave you the kick in school?

"Sammy Snooks," says "Doggone the books, I'm a fellow who likes to look; Three days out of five is enough To go to school and learn that stuff."

Fourteen ninety two is the date That "Mrs. Dipsy" rather late Grabbed poor "Sammy" by the ear. I guess he'll remember that year.

Come "Bill Crowfoot" don't be asleep! Too often through the windows of sleep you peep:

Come now, wake up, don't be such a doze, Dope, and look happy or else you'll croak.

Then let us cheer for the district school boys, For one night they were the big noise. Rehearsals again with the same little girls Would make life worth living in this cold world.

WESTERN MISSIONARY SOCIETY.

The Western Missionary Society of the First Congregational Church held its seventh annual meeting in the church vestries on Thursday January 6. Despite the weather a good number were present and much work was accomplished. The annual reports showed that all branches of the society were in flourishing condition.

A bountiful lunch was served at noon. The following officers were elected for the ensuing year:

President, Mrs. E. V. Littlefield; Vice President, Mrs. E. L. Baldwin; Secretary, Mrs. J. H. Hurlbut; Treasurer, Mrs. J. C. Adams; Directors, Mrs. W. R. McIntosh, Mrs. Geo. Harrington, Mrs. J. E. Emery, Mrs. Emma Elliott.

WHY THERE WAS NO MAIL.

EDITOR OF THE STAR: In the issue of Friday Jan. 7th, inst. an item stated that the delivery of mail in the rural districts was omitted on the previous Saturday.

Very true, but as New Year's Day is one of six holidays, recognized by the Rural Division of the P. O. Dept., there was no neglect of duty, or illegal omission of the delivery of the mail.

There is also a snafu story duly sworn and qualified to deliver the mail at any time the regular carrier is off duty.

Very truly yours,
Albert E. MacLellan, Rural Carrier.

Home Course In Domestic Science

I.—The Scope of Domestic Science.

By EDITH G. CHARLTON,
In Charge of Domestic Economy, Iowa State College.

Copyright, 1910 by American Press Association.

THE purpose of this series of articles will be an attempt to show the direct relation between domestic science and ordinary affairs in the life of either man or woman. Too many people have conceived the idea that domestic science chiefly concerns those people who have more time for theorizing than for actual work. These think the subject deals largely with air castles of the Bellamy style of architecture and contains little real help for present day housekeepers. There are some who still hold the opinion that such is the meaning and scope of domestic science, but their number is rapidly decreasing on account of the introduction of the study of scientific housekeeping into public schools, high schools and colleges. To be an aid to housekeepers who cannot take advantage of these courses of study as prescribed in schools and colleges is the aim of this series of talks.

One of the chief purposes of domestic science is to teach men and women how to live rightly, how to use material things in such a way as to get the highest good, the best results from them. The science concerns men quite as much as women, and it means much more than the commonly accepted idea that it has to do with cooking and eating and washing dishes. These things are of course included in the study and, I assure you, that even these exceedingly common affairs of life are deserving of a higher place in the wonderful process of living than is usually accorded them.

Life is a serious business, and nothing like it pertains to it is either a joke or a trifle. The study of domestic science helps to give even the common

est things their true importance and assists men and women to be better mentally and physically; worse, due consideration and a fair trial from every individual. So while these talks concern the housekeeper more directly than they do men, the latter are not exempt from at least an honest interest in their subject matter.

Those who have not time to do with science know how important it is that the animals be properly fed in order that they may be suitable for their special purpose. Men give a great deal of study to this, and the methods of feeding cows and pigs. They talk wisely about whether it is better to feed corn or peas for fattening purposes. They are careful, too, to see that the soil on which the apple orchard is planted contains the proper elements to make strong, productive trees. But when it comes to the daily bill of fare for human beings the average man and woman give it very little thought. At least it is the common rule to eat what is set before us or what our fancy and appetite suggest, as we have so long discarded the idea of nature that our digestive organs rebel and we can't eat even the plainest food without discomfort.

It is a fact that the average person knows less about his own anatomy and the functions of his body than about almost any other subject. Think for a moment of the many noted men who are laid aside in early middle life because their digestive organs are worn out. And no wonder they refuse to perform their duties! We wouldn't treat a thrashing machine as we treat ourselves and not expect the machine to be good for nothing inside six months. The illustration is more directly parallel with the case than perhaps you think. The man feeds his engine with coal and wood in order to get energy from it. He also expects to get energy, growth and energy from his food; at least it is the true reason why he eats. Yet how many men and women are there who from an ignorant bill of fare can select the foods which build the engine that is the body and which are most suitable for the production of heat and energy?

EDITH G. CHARLTON

The selection of food for the table in order that it may be truly nourishing and may yield the necessary material for growth is one of woman's greatest tasks. To be the maker of a home from which strong men and women shall go forth to build and keep a nation powerful and united is the highest task true to human beings. This is woman's true work. Is she honestly equipped and trained for it?

The Task of Housekeeping.
Woman's share in the well being of the family demands not only an intelligent knowledge of the principles of her work, but also interest and enthusiasm in it. To be a really successful housekeeper a woman must be an enthusiastic housekeeper. Very few, if any, men have achieved success in any work to which they have given only part of their thought and a haphazard share of their enthusiasm. I believe that the largest part of our unsuccessful housekeepers is always found among the women who are either doing their work ignorantly and according to somebody's tradition of housekeeping or their interest and enthusiasm are given to some other person's work. Why is the opinion so general among both men and women that housekeeping requires a little less intelligence than almost any other kind of work? Why is it that the most incompetent person is the one who generally offers her services to perform any other kind of work better in some one's kitchen? Is the remark very often made of the unsuccessful woman.

What a Housekeeper Should Know.

It requires just as much brain to keep a house as it should be kept as it does to perform any other kind of work. It requires just as much knowledge and energy to make a home which truly fills all the term implies as it does to engage in any other industry. And no other work demands quite as much of the whole hearted interest, the real person, as does housemaking. One good reason why there are so many inefficiently managed homes is because housekeeping in general has not as yet been put on the same plane as other industries. One reason why so many women are needed to perform any other kind of work is because of the lack of knowledge of the fundamental principles of their work. Lack of training and practical education is responsible for many housekeeping failures. A woman said to me: "I cook for my family because I must, not because I have any interest in the art, for I thoroughly dislike it." "And you are a good cook?" I said. "No, I am not," was the answer. "If I am ever successful it is due to luck more than skill, because I really know nothing about the science of cooking. I have years of experience, I simply can't get interested in it." Unless this woman is quite unlike the rest of humanity, her dislike can be traced to her failure to understand what it is to do which he can do really well just a little better perhaps than any one else. The woman who finds pleasure in making good, in preparing food, in performing, gives regular exercise in all her faculties. If she understands, as she should, the effect of heat and cold upon food materials, upon liquids and solids, she will have a working knowledge of physics. If she knows something about digestion and personal hygiene she will not be a stranger to the study of physiology. Her intelligent understanding of acids, alkalis and the treatment of the different fabrics in the laundry will necessitate a familiarity with chemistry. If she understands the scientific side of her work, her common sense is elevated and her selection of food by other methods, as well as the processes of churning, sterilizing, etc., she will be on familiar terms with household bacteriology. If she does not understand these simple truths, so closely related to her work, ignorance of them naturally presupposes working in the dark.

The Well Rounded Life.

The aim of life should not be to spend all the effort of our days in working simply to satisfy the physical needs of the body without any thought for mental development. True it is that a sound mind is usually found in a sound body, but it is also true that an empty head, like an empty stomach, is equally susceptible to poisons. Where all thought and effort are given to acquiring wealth, without any thought for the mind, the result is a mind that is as empty as the stomach. The side which means the right attitude toward the world, our neighbors and ourselves—a good, true living has been overlooked and neglected.

LOCOMOTIVES.

For some time past the Boston Transcript has been publishing statements furnished by correspondents respecting the engines that drew Massachusetts railroad trains 30 years ago, and more, and a few days ago the following appeared:

"In relation to the Lowell railroad engines of 1880, the following from the Volcano Journal of July 7, 1880, will doubtless be of interest. 'About the time 1880, the town (Winchester) was set off and incorporated, there was at the machine shop of the Lowell Railroad a new locomotive in process of construction, which the engineer wished to have named Winchester. The then President of the railroad, Mr. Sturges being a resident of and a large taxpayer in Winchester, which had resented the act of incorporation, objected to the name, and it was called 'Volcano.' John A. Bolles, meeting Mr. Sturges a short time after, inquired of him in relation to it when the latter gentleman remarked that the corporation would wait until they got the fragments of three locomotives, and then they would put them together and call it 'Winchester,' alluding to the way the town was made up of three towns—Woburn, Melrose and West Cambridge. Mr. Sturges's promise was in a way fulfilled in later years, for in the winter of 1886 (January or February) the locomotive Essex, by the explosion of its boiler, was wrecked near the grade crossing in Winchester.

A few months later there appeared on the road an engine of the same type of inside connection, with new boiler and resplendent in fresh paint and brass, bearing the name Winchester, and said to be the reconstructed Essex. 'A few years later, the William Sturges, which (I think an outsider) the shoveler on the road, also exploded somewhere in Melrose. The brass work of this exploded all others, in quantity, cylinder, valve chests, steam dome and sand box were thus secured, while what was entering the boiler and numerous small fittings and railings beside the bell and whistle made the ironen's task laborious in keeping up its shine.

'Later, this one reappeared under the name of Melrose, and both continued in service for many years. 'About 1887 the first coal burner appeared, named Boardman, and seemed a giant. I noticed one correspondent mentions the 'Rolla.' The name was Rolla. This was a small but test one, and ran to Woburn in charge of Edw. Higgins."

KEITH'S THEATRE.

For the week of January 17th at Keith's there has been provided one of the best comedies that Mr. Keith has ever given his patrons. One of the features of it will be William H. Murphy and Blanche Nichols in their sketch called "The Rehearsal." This act is one of rare merit and the finish of a marching regiment is what might be called a "secret." Another feature will be Mr. and Mrs. Perkins Fisher in a comedy called "The Hallway House," which is also being longed for. Then there are Jesse Laska's Imperial Monarchs. Another comedy feature will be Hawthorne and Burr, a sketch of their own. Harry B. Lester (Helen Lloyd) Marrying, the last of the season. The first of the season is a comedy called "The Hallway House," which is also being longed for. Then there are Jesse Laska's Imperial Monarchs. A CHANCE TO DO GOOD.

Seldom does a ship's company land on our Boston docks without presenting cases of suffering from lack of clothing. Those from Liverpool and Glasgow show the least, but generally there are some even among them who need help. Ships coming from the Mediterranean ports, however, bring many who, accustomed to a warmer climate, shiver and suffer with the unexpected cold of our sterner climate.

They not only suffer severe pain from the cold but sometimes incur diseases which makes them invalids for many years. Can anything be done to alleviate this want?

For instance, a White Star steamer arrived yesterday with 659 immigrants, many of them insufficiently clothed and suffering intensely from the cold. Anyone, therefore, who would like to assist in this benevolent work may send parcels of clothing, especially outer garments with express charges prepaid, if possible, to the American Tract Society, 120 Marginal street, East Boston.

Rev. George Weckbacher, is now missionary of the American Tract Society at the port of Boston. He visits these immigrants as they land from every vessel and talks with most of them in their own languages. He will have the care of this clothing and its distribution to the immigrants. His long experience at Ellis island and his practical, kindly interest in the immigrants will insure a faithful discharge of this new duty.

JOHN G. HOVEY.

A Good Man and A Faithful Official Passes Away.

It was with feelings of genuine sadness that the inhabitants of the town learned of the death of Town Clerk and Collector John G. Hovey, last Saturday morning. It is known that he was ill, but it was supposed that it was only temporary and that after a brief season of rest he would be able to resume his duties in the Town Hall. But his condition was more serious than his friends and relatives anticipated, notwithstanding that he appeared to be coming around daily. Saturday evening he passed away suddenly of an attack of the heart.

During his brief term of office he gained the respect of friends owing to his genial and courteous treatment of the large number of people who called at the Town Hall to pay their taxes or consult him as Town Clerk. An acquaintance with him of many years always found him pleasant, accommodating, and a leader of good fellows in the best of terms.

The office of Collector is a trying position and it requires a person of patience and forbearance to meet the many situations that are certain to arise when taxes and assessments are being paid. Mr. Hovey was always equal to the occasion, and in late taxpaying, after a pleasant explanation were sure to leave the Town Hall satisfied. He worked hard to make a clear tax state, and he had the satisfaction of accomplishing this before he gave up because of sickness. During the past few years severe trials and sore affliction have been upon him, but there was no outward manifestation of these. He was a painstaking and conscientious town official and he will be missed from his accustomed place.

Mr. Hovey was born in Coventry, Conn., April 21, 1852. His father was Julius C. Hovey and his mother, May E. (Lyon) Hovey. He came to this town in 1861 when a boy and for nearly 40 years he lived on Myrtle street. In 1894 he took up his residence on Fleet street on the west side. In 1882 he was married to Miss Viola Hovey. He also served as town clerk. Mr. Hovey was elected to the office. Mr. Hovey was succeeded by his wife and son, Harold V. Hovey. Another son, who was a pupil in the High school, was killed by a train at the crossing.

Funeral services were held from the late residence Tuesday afternoon and were largely attended. The services were beautiful and profound. Rev. D. Augustine Newton officiated and the interment was in the family lot in Willow Wood. The pall bearers were Messrs. Henry Nickerson, Fred W. Fred Walker, Frank White, Wm. S. O'Connell, Preston Pond.

As a mark of respect to Mr. Hovey the flag on the corner was hoisted and the town offices closed during the funeral.

STORE CHANGES HANDS.

It was announced in the STAR some weeks ago that it was highly probable that the dry goods store of Miss E. J. Bowser on Pleasant street would shortly change hands, and the details of this sale were completed this week. The new proprietor is Mr. R. L. Bowser of Stoneham, a brother of the former owner of the store. The new firm name is R. L. Bowser and Co., they running the Winchester store in connection with that in Stoneham. Possession will be taken on Monday.

Miss Bowser will make her home in Peppert, moving to that place this week.

Many years ago, Miss Bowser opened a suit store on Main street, in the building lately occupied by Mrs. Langford. From this small beginning, by perseverance and a remarkable aptitude as a business woman she built up her present large trade. The secret of her success was that she had the goods, the right prices and she let the people know that that fact by a liberal use of printer's ink. She gave her personal attention to all details, was courteous and obliging at all times, and this added much to her success. Her many patrons will wish her the fullest enjoyment in her well earned rest.

SPECIAL MEETING.

There will be a special meeting of The Fortnightly, Mon. Jan. 25, 7:15, to consider the revision of the constitution and By-Laws and to transact any other business that may properly come before it.

Anna M. Dunning, President.

THE LATE JOHN G. HOVEY.

THE TRAINING OF

THE CITIZEN.

At the Unitarian Church last Sunday evening, Prof. Charles Zuehlke gave a very interesting and instructive lecture on "The Training of the Citizen." The following is an abstract of the lecture:

The definition which Lincoln gave of a democracy, "a government of the people by the people and for the people," is all right for political democracy, but not for practical democracy. It would be better described as a government of the people, by the masses, for the corporations.

The characteristics of a democracy have been given as liberty, equality, and fraternity. These do not exist more in this country. There is much said about the liberty of the press, of church, of corporations, etc. Yet it is almost a sacrifice to use the word liberty. Is the average workman allowed to be a citizen? Does the average worker put his best into his work? And if not, why not? Because he cannot do so in this world of selfish individualism.

So we should be honest and prepare our children by education, which will develop their personalities, teach them that power of expression by the intelligent use of the eyes and hands, which will develop adaptability. The capacity of adjusting oneself to circumstances is one of the prerequisites of good citizenship.

The chief reason for bad municipal government in the United States is that the average man does not control his destiny in his work. Work today does not encourage that. In this world of selfish individualism, first a little fragment of a man is collected into use and then suddenly on the next day of the 30's, the one great day of our nation, we expect him to come forth and be a full man.

Equality does not exist as expressed in our every day life. We profess to believe in social equality, but the most insignificant white man does not think the greatest and best negro is his equal. We blurt ourselves into the belief that the "ignorant foreigner" is the root of all our trouble. Why, then, is Milwaukee, which is mostly made up of foreigners, a better governed city than Philadelphia? Why are the so-called radical, old, American states Rhode Island and Connecticut, ruled only by Pennsylvania in connection? Ten good men in any community could control an election, if they could only get them out. The people of means are no more worthy of confidence than the others are. We are all guilty of class consciousness, and it takes an effort to get away from it. The illuminating lesson of Judge Lindsey's election in Denver shows that the women in the humbler walks of life, such as those who supported the Judge, can be better morally and politically than the society women, who with the corporations, worked against the great friend of the children. We don't allow women to vote. Workmen are unrepresented in Congress. Equality of citizenship—you may find it somewhere, but not in America.

Fraternity is to be found in, but not among, the churches; among, but not always the clubs. Women's clubs were formerly more cliques, although they are expanding and are today standing for greater social advancement than any clubs of men. The more kinds of places where you can meet more kinds of people, the better your soul and the greater your fraternal spirit. Fraternity is incident upon the church, the club, the settlement, the public library, the public school-house, but these are only doing part of their work. It is a crime to shut the school-house in the afternoon and evening on Jan. 21 and 22. Every one ought to be allowed to go in there at any time. Is there anything comparable to every community in the country having its own guild hall, where all may gather? Here is incident upon the life of the people. The executive life may be developed in all people of all ages, when all over the country we open up these common centers of life.

It then we cannot have liberty, equality and fraternity in all things, let us have them in the essential things; liberty for the worker in his work, equality for the citizen in citizenship, and fraternity for men and women in associations to advance our civic good.

POLITICAL NOTES.

The death of Town Clerk and Collector John G. Hovey has injected considerable interest into the approaching town election in March, and already there are several candidates for the dual position.

Mr. George H. Easton an old time resident and well known about the town is a candidate. He is at present serving on the Board of Library Trustees, and is also treasurer of the Unitarian Church. Mr. William C. Newell, it is said, has announced his candidacy for the collectorship. Mr. Geo. H. Bates of Cambridge street is also mentioned as a candidate. Mr. Fred V. Worcester says he has no desire to serve as Collector or Town Clerk. His name was being actively circulated.

Another candidate to enter the contest for the Collectorship is Mr. George H. Lockman, Clerk for the board of Selectmen. Mr. Lockman is a resident of the Highlands and has the necessary qualifications.

Mr. George H. Carter has announced that he will be a candidate for Town Clerk, but not for Collector also.

Interest has arisen since last week regarding the four vacant positions on the Board of Selectmen and there are now several candidates in the field and more being urged to stand for the nomination. Residents of Winchester Highlands have asked Mr. George R. Nixen to allow the use of his name, and he has consented to do so. Mr. Charles A. Gleason is being urged to allow his name to be used. Mr. C. A. Baldwin, J. W. Russell, Jr., and D. W. Comins, it is reported, are willing to serve on the Board.

These are all eminently well qualified for the position, and if no additional names were to be mentioned, the town would be assured of a good Board of Selectmen from this group. Mr. George B. Smith, at present a member of the Board, will be returned without opposition, he being the only member of the present Board willing to serve another term.

For the vacancy on the Water and Sewer Board, the friends of Mr. James H. Dainoff are urging him to accept of a nomination.

Indications point now to an exceedingly interesting election, and the probabilities are that there will be many more candidates for next week. It is known of a good man, for any of these offices, send in his name to the STAR. It is a good sign to witness activity in the annual election.

I desire to urge the candidacy of D. W. Comins of No. 19 Lake avenue, died at her home on Wednesday of valiant heart trouble. She was in her 52nd year, beside her husband she leaves two sons, James and Fred.

Funeral services were held from the residence on Lake avenue yesterday afternoon at 3:30. The burial was in Wildwood cemetery.

IS THE DATE.

"The Rose of India," by the Colinet Club will without question be the greatest production ever attempted in Winchester.

The cast has been most carefully selected. The work and enthusiasm at rehearsals indicates a great success for the show and an evening of enjoyment for those who attend.

Following is the plot of the play in jingle:

In far off India, the little town of Poonah lies.
"Mid-swaying palms and under sunny skies.
There rules the Nizam with his iron sway,
There do the nautch girls dance the hours away.

Within the Nizam's palace was a rug of blue,
Whose wondrous dyes defied the tooth of time.
It's fame had spread away beyond the sea,
Till Burke, the ringman, said, "It's up to me."

Any cost, to make an Eastern trip
And lay that rug, 'twill never do to slip."
He came to Poonah astride a donkey meek;
Embroiders the natives, and, since he can't speak

Their language is in sore distress.
When Lord M. Herbert, in his soldier's dress,
Came to his rescue and with kindly grace
Told him to dinner at a nearby place.

When to the market Bradley Burke returned
He saw a dancing girl for whose heart he yearned.
"Twas fair Nadia, whose heart he did besiege
And she was high to calling him her liege.

When like the bolt from out the clearest sky
A sudden crisis knocked their plans on high.
It seems, a hillman, Poonchee-Me by name,
Did love Nadia, the Princess, chaste and tame.

The Nizam's daughter, and to win her hand
Came to abduct her with his ferocious band.
His plan worked out, he bore her to the hills.
How was she rescued,—well, the story's full of thrills.

How Burke and Murphy traced them to a shrine
And Burke portrayed a Goddess, Kali, the divine Holding the crowd at bay, until the soldiers bled Broke in and brought the princess to the paternal bed.

Other events, there are, which in this verse
I've not sufficient space to tell, but at the end
Burke's boldness won the day
And to New York both ring and Nadia bore away.

And when it's done the laughter, song, and pose
May it be your verdict that you like the "Rose."

M. J. Naughton Remembered By His Friends on Eve of Departure for Chicago.

M. J. Naughton a resident of Winchester, Mass., until January 1st acting in the capacity of New England agent of the Wisconsin Central railway with headquarters in Boston, having resigned to accept the office of Commercial Agent at Chicago for the Duluth, South Shore and Atlantic Railway, where his territory will be the United States, was tendered a farewell banquet by his many Railroad friends at Young's Hotel January 1st as an acknowledgment of his popularity. Mr. Naughton was presented with a beautifully engraved solid gold watch, the presentation speech being made by Mr. C. E. Moyer, Traffic Manager Stoneham and Webster Engineering Corp. and seconded by E. C. Webster, Traffic Manager of the Rutland Co. The Hampden County Traffic Association, composed of shippers in Western Mass., tendered him a farewell banquet December 28th, at the Worthing Hotel, Springfield, Mass., and presented him with a beautiful traveling case as a token of their esteem. Mr. Naughton has been in the employ of the Wisconsin Central railway for the past eighteen years, acting as Chief Clerk of the General Freight Department in Milwaukee prior to coming to New England.

Mrs. Naughton and children will follow Mr. Naughton in the early spring to Chicago. His many friends wish him success in his new and much broader field.

ANNUAL SUPPER.

The social event at the First Congregational Church each year is the annual supper, and Tuesday evening saw the large remodeled vestries filled with members of the church. For the first time the new kitchen was used and its facilities and conveniences made the task of the ladies one of pleasure, where heretofore confusion and lack of space made the task of preparation one of labor and discomfort.

The supper was just what one would expect where the food was prepared by ladies—it was excellent. The menu consisted of scalloped oysters, ham, tongue, cake, coffee, ice cream, etc., etc., the partaking of which consumed an hour. The speaking was excellent, and the last we have had the pleasure of listening to for a long time. There was the instructive and the humorous, with not one dull moment. Mr. Arthur W. Hale owned the post paid card exercises in apt words, and then introduced Rev. George D. Gifferson as the toastmaster. Good humor and witty sayings were characteristic of his introduction of the speakers. Geo. C. Cott, Esq., was called upon as the first speaker and he spoke a good word for the old kitchen, the old horse-shoes, etc. in a most humorous vein. C. E. Fish gave an instructive address, and William C. Knudsen, Esq., spoke in behalf of the young men, urging greater activity in the church and town affairs. The last speaker was Mr. J. H. Holton, principal of the Walden school, and he kept the company in continuous laughter with his sayings and stories. Then followed an hour of social conversation and the renewing of old friendships.

The committee, headed by Mrs. Joseph C. Adams, Mrs. Herbert E. Butler, Mrs. Albert E. Blaisdell, and Mrs. John E. Emery, are entitled to and all to the fullest measure of praise.

MRS. FANNIE R. BRADFORD.

The people of Fullerton and Placentia were shocked on Sunday to learn of the death of Mrs. A. S. Bradford, which came so unexpectedly after an illness of a few days, from heart trouble. The sympathy of the whole community goes out to the bereaved husband and sons in their great bereavement.

Mrs. Fannie R. Bradford was the daughter of Captain Samuel H. Mead of the U. S. Navy and Ellen M. Richardson, and was born at Winchester, Mass., July 22, 1865. She was married in 1887 to Albert S. Bradford, and came to live in California in 1888, locating with her husband in Santa Ana, the family coming to Placentia in 1892. She was the mother of four children: Elsie G., who died about two years ago; A. Hartwell, a graduate of the Colorado school of Mines, now at Rhyolite, Nevada; Percival L., a student at the Armour Institute of Technology, in Chicago, and Warren, who resides at home.

Mrs. Bradford was of a happy, cheerful disposition, thoroughly enjoying her work in the Eastern Star, of which she was Past Worthy Matron of Chispa Chapter, in Anaheim, and Past Deputy Grand Matron of this district. She was also Past President of the Placentia Round Table, and was Secretary of the same. At the last entertainment of the Round Table, during Christmas week, she took a prominent part and was present at the last meeting only last Wednesday.

Her religious affiliations were with the Unitarian Church, and the funeral services will be in charge of Rev. E. R. Watson of San Diego, at the house on Thursday afternoon, at two o'clock, with services at the grave under the auspices of Chispa Chapter, Order of Eastern Star.

Her death was a sad stroke to the community and she will be greatly missed. Besides the immediate family she leaves a mother, three sisters and a brother. The Fullerton, Cal., News, Jan. 12.

HOLY NAME SOCIETY

CELEBRATE FEAST.

The feast of the Holy Name of Jesus was celebrated last Sunday in St. Mary's Church in a very fitting manner, special services being held in the morning at the 8 o'clock Mass, the Holy Name Society, consisting of some three hundred members received Holy Communion in a body.

In the evening services were held which included an eloquent sermon by one of the Mission Fathers of the Passionist Order. About fifty members were received into the Society, followed by solemn benediction.

On Wednesday night a horse owned by Mr. A. L. Freeman, attached to a sleigh, took fright when on Main street near Symmes Corner and tipped two boys who were riding the sleigh out. When the sleigh was riding down Black Horse Hill on the sidewalk the sleigh struck a telegraph pole and was wrecked. The horse was caught farther down the street. No damage beyond wrecking the sleigh was done.

YOUR AFFAIRS AND MINE.

A Main street gentleman, who is of a peace-loving nature goes so far toward obliterating the scar of the sometime bloody class which separated the North and South, that he would have all monuments and memorials of the war destroyed, a notion of the gentleman informs the Spectator that the next thing he will ask for will be a New Testament in which all allusions derogatory to the chosen people shall be carefully expunged.

A parrot owned by a friend of The Spectator's was out every time there is a ring at the door bell. "Command the parrot?" And yet some Winchesterites there are who would have us understand a parrot takes only of random.

Loss of sleep, The Spectator is told, is making me small and puny. That is a fact to which The Spectator agrees. Just look at the difference between a system of adequate sleep and the robust night policeman. But on one score, however, that reference is not made to Winchester's night policeman. Far from it.

"Figures will not lie, save and excepting figures of speech," says a Pleasant street gentleman, who now and then dispenses a little philosophy for the edification of The Spectator. "Their only business is to distort facts and deceive dramatically."

The Spectator knows a Winchester young gentleman with a lot of sisters who cannot be made to believe that happiness is merely a relative matter. At all events, the young gentleman in question goes to some other young man's relatives to find it.

The man who drinks cannot conceal it from the community. His habit is red in his nose.

A young man in a certain Winchester neighborhood who played the violin wretchedly was said to be smart in that he saved several choruses per day.

Two Winchester Misses met on the street the other day, and said one to the other: "I've put all my dolls in deep mourning, and so is becoming to them! Come over and see them." "What did you do that for?" she was asked. "Oh, I've had a clammy one do get all cold, and there didn't anybody care but me and them. We've just cried our eyes out." "Then the other little girl said in low, delicate tones: "Am't you lucky though? There's always something happening to you!"

A poor Winchester woman has fallen a victim of a Boston lion shark. The Spectator has interested a prominent lawyer in her case. The sharks should be driven out of the business.

The Spectator is just a bit curious to know just how many men there are in Winchester who like to serve their fellow townsmen as selectmen. The Spectator understands there are quite a number affected with the selectmanic bee.

A Missouri judge has decided that a wife has a right to sell her husband. The Spectator is intimately acquainted with several cases here in Winchester where the wife has a just cause.

Many a Winchesterite who thinks he is "down on his luck" would find himself mistaken if he would only print a "p" to his "luck."

A Washington street gentleman has a unique suggestion. It is that The STAR, in reporting future municipal events, omit a description of the bride's costume and likewise omit all references to the bride's ancestry. The gentleman in question would have The STAR amplify the bride's skill as a housekeeper, her dexterity as a broom wielder, her exceeding grace with a bread pan, her heaven descended willingness to make a home for the man of her choice. Well, The Spectator has this much to say: Welcome the day when brides grow indifferent to the trick of flagging down time by proclaiming their ancestry. Speed the time when brides of Winchester and elsewhere shall be proud of their fitness for matrimony in a preparation for homemaking in a house where "you shall dwell with love."

As a citizen, the late John G. Howe possessed the highest appreciation of civic duty and public responsibility. He was interested in every movement that had for its object the advancement of the community, and never shirked any labor or responsibility that was placed upon him. Personally Mr. Howe was a most honorable, honest, upright man. His word once given, no bond could make it more secure. Consciousness to an extreme degree, he met every obligation and discharged to the full every duty. Other men have achieved greater wealth than John G. Howe, but none is entitled to greater credit than this solid, honorable citizen and warm-hearted friend who has departed from our midst.

A woman's face is her fortune. If a man's face was his fortune The Spectator knows of several right here in Winchester who would be as rich as Rockefeller.

A leading Winchester physician asserts that a person should never be waked up except when there is urgent necessity for it. We will pay some one well (this is no joke) to translate this into baby language.

Some Winchesterites are never satisfied. So, they think to live happily on a small income and they will want you to turnish the income.

The same physician gives The Spectator to understand that culture diminishes the size of the eyes. Now, just listen to that. Everybody in Winchester of the least degree of intelligence knows that the small size of a man's eyes is a sign of the entire absence of culture.

The Spectator.

It will interest Royal Arcanum members to learn that after a night of more than three years in the courts, Mr. Frank T. Wilcox has won his suit against the supreme council of the order. Justice William S. Andrews on Tuesday directed a verdict in his favor for the full amount of the insurance policies carried upon the life of her deceased husband, with interest.

The outcome is of interest to thousands of members of the order. Mr. Wilcox was expelled from the organization because of his attacks upon supreme officers for the increase of rates of insurance. He instituted proceedings for reinstatement, but died before the termination of the action. The suit was continued by his widow, Mary C. Wilcox, who was given a verdict for $127,500.

PUBLIC SERVICE

CORPORATIONS.

A Talk on Public Service Corporations and the Public, given by

John H. Carter in the Y. M. C.

1. course at Boston, January 9th,

1910.

The public service corporations of Massachusetts are the railroad, railway, telephone, telegraph, gas, electric and water companies. None of them may do business until they have been chartered by the State and from first to last they are under a strict regulation and control

Railroad Commission, the Highway

Commission, the gas and electric Commission, the Gas and Electric Light

Commission, and the water companies under the Board of Health. I visited the Board of Health, which consists of seven, all have three members who are appointed by the Governor, with the advice and consent of the Council, for three year terms, one expiring annually.

The spirit and intent of our laws is that such corporations must be allowed to earn if they can and pay a fair return on the money a truly invested in and used for the conduct of the business, and all beyond that shall go back to the public in unimpaired service and reduced rates and this policy has been so soundly carried out, but not to the extent it might have been or would have been if the voters had elected better men to administer and enforce the laws which their representatives in the legislature have made, for while our laws have been and are good and sufficient they cannot of course enforce themselves, but have to depend upon the human agency, and there the weaknesses, with of the great est impediment to keep in mind that the power to make and enforce the laws is in the voters and in the final analysis they are responsible. These public service corporations are public agents and servants and an important part of the body politic and they cannot take a step excepting under the law. The true interest of such corporations and the public they serve is identical and the sooner it is generally recognized the better for both.

Our laws from the first have been framed to protect the rights of the public and the first gas light laws of 1822 and the first railroad laws of 1826 to 1830 and the first telegraph laws of 1853 and telegraph, telephone, electric light and gas to the water companies legislation of last year, have all been made with that in view. The first aim of all of our corporations only exists because the voters in whom the power really is permit it. It is true that a very large percentage of the voters do not know their rights or realize them, but it is in them and they are learning fast. Comparatively little of the criticism of the public service corporations which has been so freely disseminated from the press, platform and pulpit since T. R.

Shoemaker's time, will apply to Massachusetts, but we are not yet there. This State has and has always been so far advanced that it has been in the front in legislation that they can teach us nothing and the platform speakers and magazine writers from the wild and woolly west are the earnest tyros on public service corporation questions. For instance, I have heard several such speakers say that it was right and proper and would be a good thing, to make the street railway companies pay an excise tax on using the public streets. Would it be? The people own the streets. The only source of income a street railway has is the tickets of its passengers, so it is perfectly plain that any tax must eventually come out of those tickets. What kind of sense therefore would it be for the people to make laws to tax themselves for doing over their own streets? This is a common-sense question to all of the corporations. You cannot hit them with enforcing the public law, and the voters in the public without hitting themselves.

The time has not come, indeed.

See how fully our laws protect and protect and simple on the whole the theory under them is for the public.

Railroads and Railways. The Commissioners have been thoroughly informed and sent to it annually to the legislature and it has to summarize for action the law for selection, or any twenty legal voters of any city or town may join in the Commission and must act as one and be in the majority. The Commission must make an annual report to the legislature. The Mayor or Selectmen of any twenty citizens may petition the Commission in the matter of a telegraph and telegraph. The Commission must make an annual report to the legislature. The Mayor or Selectmen of any twenty citizens may petition the State Board of Health. In each and every one of these other public service Commission must thoroughly investigate for each in the water, evidence and testimony and argument by petitioners may put in and the public gets a square deal too.

What more can it reasonably ask for?

And still there are many things not quite right yet. But it is not the fault of our laws. All of our Commissions might be more a true than they are to the intent, the true benefit of all, and they will be just as soon as the voters are. It is for the public benefit that such corporations as are up to date, who constantly strive to improve their service and reduce their rates shall have a full right and dividend to use them on to continued effort on the part of the public is willing that such corporations may have as good a dividend as ten per cent.

Mr. H. has been so kind and written about consolidations. Let the central reports show that consolidating began as soon as these public utilities began to be consolidated, some of them nearly a hundred years ago, and it has continued right up to the present day to the public advantage.

The Boston and Maine railroad for instance consists now of over one hundred and twenty-five original roads, and the New Haven and New York Central railroads and the Boston Elevated and Boston and Northern and Old Colony

and other street railways, and the Essex

Electric Company, and the Boston Consolidated gas company and other gas and electric companies and the telegraph and telephone companies are now made up of a large number of other companies originally separate. As long as we have efficient regulation and control there is no danger, but an advantage, and the progress is in the voter.

There has been said to say something about these corporations and the "lobby" and legislation. Well, they have done some pretty bad things on Beacon

Hill in the past, some of them so bad that there would make a white mark on them, but there has been a gradual and great improvement and I have strong reasons for believing that there will be less corrupt lobbying this year than ever, and very little if any at all.

The whole atmosphere is very different than it was even a very short time ago.

Most of the public service corporation managers see it very differently than they did and will act accordingly. Fear of exposure and publicity, combined with it is impossible to tell, but the better men are making their influence felt for their own and the public good. The "lobby" act of 1893 should be amended so that its intent can be carried out, therefore it, that is all that is needed.

Lobbying that will stain public life is legitimate, necessary and safe but corrupt lobbying and the taking part in manum-ptions and elections of representatives and public officials by public service corporations, at least, must cease. If it doesn't somebody will get hurt. In closing I would urge you to ever bear in mind that it is the voter who has the power and that he selects and elects the representatives who make the laws, and he selects and elects the officials who are responsible for the administration and are prominent members of Cambridge plants.

THE ART OF THE CARTOONIST.

One thing is certain: in order to obtain a successful result very careful observation is necessary, whether drawing from nature or memory. In studying a subject, weakness or strength of character should be grasped first; but almost equally important is to note every detail of dress—the shape and pitch of a hat, for instance—for these are essential to the caricature. Self-consciousness, and sometimes nervousness, shows itself in various ways. The fact is that few know what they appear to be to others. I have known a peer express an objection to being drawn with spurs, because he did not consider they looked well in a picture, although he always wore them. Another, who had been splendidly caricatured by Vellegriani, said to me, "I get the shivers when I am in the room with that man ever since he so grossly belittled me. It is there is one thing upon which I pride myself it is my physique, and he has made me hump and stooping." And yet his Dr. Phillips' sloop was the first thing one noticed about him. "Spy" in the February Strand.

CASTLE SQUARE THEATRE.

Shakespeare has proved so great a favorite at the Castle Square that Mr. Craig is giving his third production this season. His first was "Hamlet," and its reception was cordial beyond all possible expectations, and the same is true of "The Taming of the Shrew." For next week he has selected "Othello," and that great tragedy will be played with all possible scenic splendor and with a cast that will give it the best of interpretations. In "Othello" Mr. Craig will of course be seen in the great leading role of the Moor of Venice, the gallant Othello. William Norton has been especially engaged for the part of Iago, and that Mary Young will make a pretty and an effective Desdemona without question. Mr. McKew will appear as Rodrigo, and Miss Callout, Miss Bunker, Mr. Russell, Mr. Roberts, Bert Young, Wilfred Young will also have important roles.

KEITH'S THEATRE.

It is a long time since there has been anything in vandyville, not excepting even the remarkable engagement of Denman Thompson, that has aroused so much interest as Love Filler's "Ball of Light" now being presented at Keith's theatre. Nothing has more clearly demonstrated the strides made in vandyville. Ascle from this strong feature, Irene Franklin, who is now at the head of the vandyville profession, would be enough to draw tremendous business to the house. But even the composure, still presides at the piano. Another big feature will be the Grogans living ball-toss, and the Hawaiian Septette: Millen and Corbett, Barry and Wolford, Billy Van and the Costing Danbars.

Deafness Cannot be Cured

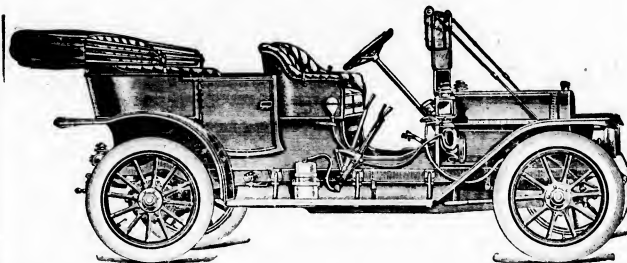

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflammation of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube gets inflamed you have a running sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars, free.

STATE PENSIONS OPPOSED.

By F. W. Coburn.

The state paid pension has just been condemned, the voluntary old age pension highly approved in the report to the legislature of the old age pension commission which was appointed in 1907.

The crude notion that following the example of Great Britain the commonwealth of Massachusetts should find a weekly or monthly pension for every needy citizen over a certain age has for some time been persistent in some quarters, but this commission of experts was unanimous in reporting that serious difficulties would stand in the way of the adoption of such a scheme here. It is urged that if any general system of old age pensions were to be established the United States government rather than the state governments should take the initiative. In Massachusetts no large demand for them exists.

Instead the old age pension commission recommends that the principles of thrift be included among subjects of compulsory instruction in the schools; that the attention of employer and employees should be directed to the opportunities for purchase of annuities or voluntary old age pensions under the Massachusetts savings insurance plan; that by all large employers of labor who have not already adopted such schemes; that bills for the establishment of retirement systems for public employees should be urged; that a permanent impartial commission on old age pensions should be created.

The present commission on old age pensions consists of Magnus W. Alexander, of Lynn, managing head of the General Electric plant; Dr. James T. Buckley; Dr. Walter G. Chase of Boston; Mrs. M. K. Hodder; Arthur M. Huddell, the well known labor leader. The commission's secretary is F. Spencer Baldwin of West Newton, professor of economics in Boston University. Especially notable in his findings is their cordial approval of savings bank insurance with the main features of which most Winchester people are already familiar.

THE GAME SITUATION IN NEW ENGLAND.

Our stock of game birds has become so reduced and the number of hunters so increased that if we have a very severe winter, followed by a poor breeding season, the woods and fields will be found almost destitute of game birds when the next shooting season opens, and the birds recover slowly. Nevertheless there has never been so much interest taken in the protection of birds in this country as now; nor has there been so much money spent for purposes of game protection. Verily, it is time for us to examine carefully into the causes of depletion of our game. It is time to find and apply the remedy, lest the remaining game birds and animals are to be known to our descendants only from preserved remains in museums and colored plates or books written by naturalists.

It soon becomes evident, to any one who looks into the history of game in this country, that game decreased rapidly soon after the beginning of settlement. This was to be expected for every settler had a gun as a necessary part of his equipment. He must protect his family from Indians and other marauders, and his farm animals and poultry from wild beasts and birds. Naturally, the gun was used to supply the table and every settler's son became a hunter. Most of the male population of Massachusetts were at all seasons of the year. As a result, deer, wild turkeys and other large game soon became scarce. The Indians too always hunted game at all seasons, but they were few in number compared with the whites, and the bow and arrow were not nearly so destructive as the gun and rifle therefore, the game had suffered no general decrease from the hands of the Indians. As settlements increased and markets for game were established in the cities, the war of extermination began. All that is necessary to make any game animal scarce is to put a price on it. There were no laws for the protection of game, and had any been enacted they would not have been observed, because of the spirit of freedom prevailing among the settlers. The laws in regard to game that were passed during the first century of colonization were mainly such as would protect the hunter in the pursuit of game, by giving him a monopoly of destruction within certain bounds. Regulations were enacted forbidding any one to disturb, or shoot pigeons near the nest of the pigeoners. Gunners were given exclusive rights to shoot on certain islands. The owners of certain salt marshes were given the sole privilege to shoot on those marshes. The rights of the individual were guarded, but the game was not protected. The eggs of birds were taken wantonly for food, without any thought of care as to what would be the result of such wasteful methods. Each gunner purposed to get his share while the game lasted. There was no thought of protecting it or increasing its numbers.

This selfish spirit is shown by many hunters today. It is a perfectly natural manifestation of the normal greed handed down to us from primitive man. It shows the survival of the instinct of self preservation which laughs altruism to scorn. The policy of protecting the gunner had produced so marked an effect in killing off and driving away the wild fowl during the 17th century that in 1770 a Province law was passed in Massachusetts which prohibited the use, in towing, of boats or canoes with sails, or of any disguised craft. This was to prevent the disturbing of wild fowl on their feeding grounds in the bays and harbors of the towns along the coast. This law is the first statute of which I have record, which shows an evidence of a disposition to conserve the birds. It is not expired by limitation but was re-enacted from time to time until the Revolutionary period, when it lapsed.

Her Husbands.

It is said that before a man has discovered the color of a girl's eyes she is planning her tresses and leading him to the altar—but—

The bachelor girls' destination necessitated their going through Woodlawn cemetery, a portion of the city they had never before visited. They stopped for a long time on the bridge which crosses the lake to admire the wonderfully well kept banks, which slope down to the edge of the lake, with here and there some artistically arranged shrubbery serving as a background. As they cast a last look at the island, situated at one end of the lake, which is so tiny one wonders how the large willow tree standing at the water's edge, with its drooping branches hanging so low that they sweep backward and forward in the water with the wind, could possibly have grown there, one of the bachelor girls was heard to remark to her companion, "Wouldn't this be an ideal place to bury one's husband and come and weep over their graves?"—New York Press.

Why Buy At Home?

The above question is answered as well as we ever heard it, by the Dry Goods Economist, which says:

Because: You examine your purchase and are assured of satisfaction before investing your money.

Because: Your home merchant is always ready and willing to make right any error or any defective article purchased of him.

Because: Your home merchant pays local taxes and exerts every effort to build and better your market, thus increasing the value of both city and country property.

Because: The mail-order merchant does nothing for the benefit of market or real estate values.

Because: The best citizens in your community patronize home industry. Why not be one of the best citizens?

Because: If you will give your home merchant an opportunity to compete, by bringing your order to him in the quantities you buy out of town, he will demonstrate that, quality considered, he will save you money.

POLITICAL NOTES.

Interest Increasing as Date of Caucus Approaches.

As the date for the citizens' caucus approaches, interest in the selection of candidates for the office increases, so that when the time arrives there promises to be a good list to select from. Outside of the vacancies on the Board of Selectmen, Water and Sewer Board, Town Clerk and Collector of Taxes, those gentlemen at present holding office will be candidates for the re-election. The principal contention at the caucus will be the four vacancies on the Board of Selectmen. Of the names mentioned last week Messrs. Charles A. Gleason, George J. Morrill, D. W. Conant, George J. Nugent, C. A. Baldwin and J. W. Russell so far as known all will be candidates, excepting Mr. Baldwin. Mr. Edward M. Messenger of Washington street went so far last week as to announce that he would stand for one of the vacancies on the Board, and when this became known Mr. Russell decided to withdraw in his favor, so that there would not be two aspirants from the same section of the town. The first of the week, however, Mr. Messenger, after thinking the matter over decided to withdraw on account of being absent from town during a portion of the summer months, which he thought would interfere with his duties on the Board if he was elected. From his withdrawal Mr. Russell has again entered the field. Another excellent man would be Mr. Charles E. Covey, if he could be persuaded to run. Other names mentioned this week are those of Mr. W. L. Tuck, Mr. Maurice Brown and Mr. John F. Holland.

Mr. D. W. Conant is receiving considerable backing and he is considered already as good as nominated. He is well qualified for the position of town father. Mr. Gleason is also a strong man, and those who know his business ability, predict that his selection will be a judicious one. Mr. J. W. Russell, Jr., is one of Winchester's lasting young business men, born in this town and a son of J. W. Russell of Main street, the market gardener, and the young man can be counted upon to make him a town father. Mr. Nugent lives at the Highlands, and is a conservative and successful business man, and has been promised the support of many voters in his section of the town.

Mr. George B. Smith the only member of the present Board who will be a candidate for re-election, has a record for faithful and conscientious work during the past year, and his return is assured beyond question.

Mr. George H. Lochman has decided that he will not be in the field for the Collectorship. In addition to the names mentioned last week for this office, that of Mr. E. Pike Wilson, connected with the STAR since his graduation from the Winchester schools and for the past six years associate editor. He is a young man fully abreast of modern business and bookkeeping methods and during his connection with the STAR has more than made good in systematizing and improving the various departments, and in doing this he showed much tact and interest, and this experience makes him fully competent to assume the duties of the Collectorship.

Following is a list of the offices to be filled at the March election and the names of the present incumbents:

Selectmen—Five members—Selectman Smith, will be a candidate; the other four to retire.

Town Clerk—Vacant.

Collector of Taxes—Geo. W. Payne.

Overseer of the Poor—for three years—Dr. Charles E. McCarthy.

Town Treasurer—Thomas S. Spurr.

Auditor—William H. Herrick.

Water and Sewer Board for three years—David N. Skilling also vacates by resignation of Henry C. Ordway.

Park Commissioner for three years—Frank F. Carpenter.

Cemetery Commissioner for five years—Henry J. Wink.

Board of Health for three years—Dr. Clarence J. Allen.

Trustee of the Library for three years—Charles E. L. Winger.

Trustee of the Library for three years—Theodore C. Hurl.

Trustee of the Library for three years—Fred Warden—Samuel S. Semmes.

So far as known, all the above will be candidates for re-election.

The citizens' caucus will be held on Thursday evening, Feb. 17.

EDITOR OF THE STAR: Will you kindly publish the following: I wish to thank the friends who have mentioned my name as one of the candidates for Collector of Taxes, and to say that I have decided not to run for the office.

G. H. Lochman.

The election of officers followed:

For a number of years Mrs. McKenzie was a resident of Winchester years ago, and was an active worker in the church. W. H. S. NOTES.

The mid-year examinations were held during the last week, today being the first day of the week for regular school. Pupils who had attained an average of 85 per cent were exempt.

At a meeting of classes of 101 held last week it was voted to send flowers to Margaret Mason who is ill. At the same time following dance committee meeting was appointed by the president, Helen Mettuck, Gladys Spaulding, Richard Packard, Lowell Smith and Charles Marshall.

The game this evening will be with the strong Revere H. S. team. Revere has defeated Winchester already this season and it will be the only afternoon game of the season. Those who attend will be assured of a close match and will be well repaid for coming.

While the game of basketball was in progress at the High School building last Friday evening someone entered the arts and crafts room with a false key and stole all the sample jewelry in a show case belonging to the teacher. The jewelry was of considerable value.

NEW PASTOR INSTALLED.

Rev. Sydney Bruce Snow Takes Charge of Second Congregational Society at Concord, N. H.

The installation of Rev. Sydney Bruce Snow as minister of the Second Congregational (Unitarian) Society at Concord, N. H., which took place yesterday evening, and attracted prominent lay and clerical representatives of the denomination from all over the state as well as many other parts of New England.

The program opened with an organ voluntary by Luman Almy, Perkins of Boston. The choir followed by an anthem by the church choir. The order of service from this point was as follows:

Invocation, Rev. Robert French, Layman of the First Parish, Fitchburg, Mass.; Scripture reading, Rev. Dr. John Vannevar of the Universalist Church, Concord; Installation sermon, Rev. Dr. Samuel A. Elliott, president of the American Unitarian Association; prayer of installation, Rev. Dr. James De Norwiche of the First Parish, Roxbury, Mass.; response by choir; charge to minister, Rev. Dr. William Wallace Frank, dean of Harvard Divinity School, right hand of fellowship, Rev. Henry C. McDougall of the First Unitarian Church, Franklin, N. H.; Hymn, "Able Not in the Realm of Dreams," choir and congregation; address of welcome by the clergy, Rev. George Howard Reed, First Congregational Church of Concord; address of welcome in behalf of the church, Hon. Reuben E. Walker, chairman of the Unitarian committee, Fitchburg, Mass.; benediction, Rev. Sydney Bruce Snow. The closing hymn was written for the occasion by Victor Mitchell, formerly dramatic critic of the New York Sun.

Rev. Sydney Bruce Snow is a native of Winchester, Mass. He was graduated from Harvard in 1885. He then engaged in newspaper work on the Boston Transcript for several years before he entered Harvard Divinity school, from which he was graduated in 1896 for the ministry.

During his ministry he has been with the Unitarian Church, Palo Alto, California, where he was organist and chorist, building a new church and increasing the membership to a degree which gave the society a standing among the leading churches of the denomination.

Mr. Snow married Miss Margaret Kennedy of Cambridge, Mass. and Ward, N. H. They have three children.

When he accepted the call to the church in Concord it was in response to a unanimous vote on the part of all members of the church, which was made official several weeks ago. It is already proving most happy and effective.

THE ORCHESTRAL SOCIETY.

The date of the second concert of the Orchestral Society has been advanced from February 1st to March 1st.

This was found necessary on account of some late changes in the programme.

The programme for the concert has been decided upon but will probably consist of the overture to Rossini's opera "Semiramide," a brilliant number that will give the orchestra a fine opportunity to show its skill; Schubert's B minor (unpublished) Symphony; a Nocturne from Mendelssohn's "Mid-Summer Night's Dream"; and a Capriccio composed by Mr. Plummer.

The orchestra is working hard under Mr. Little's competent leadership and the next concert promises to be even more successful than the first.

The orchestra will give a concert in December. Several new performers have joined since giving two additional concerts, one more, and a skilled violinist who has not become a permanent member of the organization.

BARN DANCE.

Two hundred persons enjoyed the barn dance given at the Calumet Club on Tuesday evening in observance of the "Ladies' night" for this month.

The large hall was transformed for the affair into a spacious barn, with hay and corn stalks hanging from overhead mows, plows, rakes and other farm implements piled in the various corners, and real pigs and hens.

The decorations were the most realistic ever attempted at the club, and were certainly the best for any like affair ever held in town.

The three pigs, flock of geese and a half-dozen hens made most merriest.

The judges of the guests, appearance in costume and the musical program were: Color, dogmatics, lily-pops, amies and other back country refreshments were lavishly provided and equally welcomed by the dancers.

The party was one of the most enjoyable ever given at the club, and the dancing was enjoyed until a late hour.

WINCHESTER TEACHERS' CLUB.

On Wednesday evening, Prof. Marshall E. Pettin of the High School delivered a lecture at the High School Assembly Hall before the Winchester Teachers' Club.

Sixty members of the Mother's Association were also present as guests of the Teachers' Club.

The first of the evening held the attention of the audience by his interesting account of school and university life in Germany.

The Club was also fortunate in securing Mr. Robert Fitzgerald a true student of the Apollo Club, to be present on this evening.

The several selections he gave were fully enjoyed by all and everyone expressed their appreciation at having the pleasure of such a musical treat.

The last of the evening was spent in a social way while refreshments of ice cream and cake were served.

DAVID W. SMALL, JR.

Winchester High has a brilliant all-star team in David W. Small, Jr. He is 18 years old, weighs 160 pounds and is 5 feet 11 inches in height.

Small figures in five brackets of sports and is considered a very clever in each line. He has played baseball one season in left field, right tackle on the football team two years and a forward on the hockey team four years. He has been a member of the golf team four years and last year was captain of the canoe crew.

Small will graduate in 1912 and has not decided what college he will enter.

THE FORTNIGHTLY.

At the regular meeting held Monday, Jan. 24, attention was called to the following notices: The class in current events meets in Assembly Hall on the 2nd and 4th Fridays of each month; the 2nd and 4th Fridays of each month; the 2nd and 4th Fridays of each month; the 2nd and 4th Fridays of each month.

The choir class will hold its first meeting on Thursday, Feb. 2nd, at half past three in Assembly Hall. The following ladies were appointed delegates to the meeting of the State Federation: Mrs. Anna M. Dimming, Mrs. Emily F. Dorsey, Mrs. Julia M. Leland, Mrs. Florence M. Currier, Mrs. Emma H. Mason.

Mrs. Dimming, introduced Professor Paul Pearson of Swarthmore College whose subject was, "Jed Chandler Harris."

In the old 8th before the war there was almost no literature, but since that time especially during the reconstruction period numerous writers, mostly through the medium of the short story, attempted to portray the negro character and the stirring scenes of the great civil war. Among these not one gives us a truer picture than Jed Chandler Harris. He has been charged with portraying the negro better than he is; however, that may be, but his intimate sympathy with him and his wonderful knowledge of his inner life has certainly shown him to us at his best. Mr. Harris is supposed to represent the negro himself, who uses his cunning to protect himself against the stronger race. Professor Pearson's selections from the stories of Mr. Harris both prose and verse were given with much skill.

BETTER TREATMENT REQUIRED.

There is considerable complaint regarding the manner a proprietor of a laundry in this town treats his customers.

Not only is harsh to use a more modest term, but he will not listen to reason or make any pretense of giving satisfaction to the feelings of the aggrieved. This week a lady went to the laundry with a bundle of goods, and at the same time took back an article that was the property of some one else and requested that she be given what belonged to her in exchange. This the Chinaman refused point blank to do, and in an insulting manner ordered the lady out of the shop and told her not to come back again. Diminished, she abruptly left the shop, and as she expressed it, "Lucky to get out of there."

If a customer loses his laundry check, he also loses his goods, as identification of the same does no good and there is no redress whatever. The police are also said to be powerless to do anything. At the Winchester Laundry it is different. A lost article, if possible is restored; if not, satisfaction is assured. It costs no more to do this, and you are assured of work being done under sanitary conditions.

YOUR AFFAIRS AND MINE.

The Spectator once knew a Winchester sufferer under a bad spell who sighed because he was unable to read his title clear.

The Spectator is told that there are houses in this city in which the pestilence of their ashes in their back yards. Along with the ashes garbage is being thrown into the streets, and an inspection of certain Winchester back yards will show the necessity of a general cleaning up. The Spectator has it from reputable medical gentlemen that these back yards increase the spread of disease. To add to this condition when warm weather comes the odor will be carried into the houses. A stop should be put to this practice at once.

The Spectator is in receipt of a post card containing the following query: "Will you kindly publish in the STAR what is the meaning of the slang phrase, 'on the water wagon.'?" Subscribers.

When a Winchester in other person determines to refrain from indulging in intoxicating drinks, he is said to have "climbed on the water wagon," meaning that he will continue himself to water as a beverage.

A Main street gentleman has in his home a home-made fire extinguisher which interested The Spectator very much when the gentleman invited him to his residence the other day for the purpose of showing the fire extinguisher. He made it himself and has several in convenient parts of the house. The method he used is very simple. He took twenty pounds of common salt and ten pounds of sal ammoniac which he procured at a Winchester drug shop. These he dissolved in seven gallons of water. He then placed the fluid in thin glass bottles holding a quart each, corked tightly and sealed to prevent evaporation. He recently tested the extinguisher and it worked nicely although he had to use several bottles. When a fire breaks out throw one of the bottles so that it will break in or near the flames, or if this is not possible break on the neck of the bottle and scatter the contents on the fire. It is the intention of The Spectator to install this fire protection in his own home at once.

The Spectator understands, the "Lat-Nut" nutcracker has been lacking at a number of Winchester stores and at least a dozen instances might be cited here where townsmen have agreed to abstain from eating meat for at least thirty days.

A Pleasant street gentleman who now and then dispenses philosophical musings as follows: "When a Winchester is well-to-do his mind is not to be arrested for long unless it can be demonstrated that he has more than one idea."

Nobody wants the holy stool, still The Spectator agrees that it is a relic when the nurse cuts it at night.

That Winchester woman who is interviewed by a sewing machine salesman suffers more or less from sewer gas.

The Spectator desires to call attention to the fact that while many commodities have advanced in price, the STAR still sells for five cents a copy, and is better than ever.

There will be more automobiles in Winchester and vicinity next summer than there were last season, and that means more dust. Let us pour oil on the troubled dust.

No store keeper in Winchester who believes in prosperity can afford to be unrepresented in the advertising columns of the STAR.

Saturday night The Spectator was walking along Main street, near the Woburn line and saw what he supposed a staid woman coming along. The zephyrs, blowing the skirts, revealed to the eyes of The Spectator a pair of trousered legs beneath it. Then it was discovered was made that a man was masquerading in female attire. No policeman was in sight and The Spectator did not attempt to interfere with the strangely acting fellow.

SPORTSMAN'S SHOW.

The Middlesex Sportsman's Association is planning for its annual meeting on the evening of Monday, Feb. 21, one of those good old times it used to enjoy when the association was young and used to meet in old Menotomy Hall at Arlington, where it first saw the light of day. The plan of holding a dinner at a Boston hotel which has been the custom for the past few years is to be changed this year and the organization will return to first principles, believing that the innovation will be pleasing to most of the members and attract a larger attendance. In connection with the annual business meeting and banquet there will be an exhibit of sportsmen's trophies and game. Any member or friend of the association having trophies which he would be willing to add to the collection is cordially invited to enter the same and communicate with Dr. A. H. Tuttle, the president, concerning the matter. The exhibition will be held in Hardy's old bakery at Arlington Centre and will last through the week of Feb. 21. The dinner will be at the Arlington Town Hall, a short distance from the exhibition building. The exhibition will be open to the public after the first night.

ANOTHER ELECTRIC TROUBLE SAVER.

No automobile owner who has electric light in his garage need endure the trouble and annoyance of having to draw the water from the automobile radiator during cold weather to prevent its freezing.

The electric heating pad, which is now rapidly displacing the old-fashioned hot water bottle for household use, can be effectively used in keeping the automobile radiator warm. Each pad has a long cord and plug which can be attached to a convenient lamp socket and the degree of heat fixed at high, medium or low. The pad will maintain that temperature as long as desired. These pads cannot get too hot nor catch fire, because of a thermostat which cuts off the flow of current when the given temperature is reached. A pad requires at its highest temperature only one ampere of current used to light one 25-candle power car lamp. Its use will save needless annoyance and much expense, if the radiator should happen to freeze through neglect.

THIS LAW DOES NOT APPLY TO WINCHESTER.

AFTER THE MOTHS.

A Contest Which Appears Favorable to the Pests.

In his inaugural address Gov. Draper suggested that the State Forester, E. W. Kane, be employed to approve the appointments of city or town superintendents of moth suppression work, just as he is authorized to approve the appointments of the forest wardens, and that in addition he be also authorized to advise cities and towns in moth work.

There has been a feeling for some time that such a power conferred upon the state forester would do much to facilitate the moth suppression work as well as doing away with points in the appointments of those officials. In the past when a man wanted to be appointed as a city or town superintendent of moth work for a city or town, the only reason the state has had to be with the payment of the state funds for the work until a competent man was appointed. Naturally that delayed necessary work.

This year, more than ever before, the need of competent men at the head of the local moth fighting forces will be felt, as the work is behindhand and very little work on private property has been done. But very little private property work can be done, and at best only a narrow strip along the sides of the road can be cleared to protect people from the annoyance of locust fall caterpillars.

The work in this state is due in part to unfavorable weather, but very largely to the failure of a number of cities and towns to provide appropriations in time to take advantage of the mild weather which preceded the recent heavy snowstorm.

The fiscal year begins Dec. 1 and the cities and towns are compelled to find that date extend their moth appropriations before the state can make available its own funds in those municipalities. With the cities and towns unprepared to take advantage of mild weather, much valuable time has been lost and cannot be recovered. As a result, in some places, the work will actually have to be done over twice.

Because of these conditions Prof. Kane urges property owners to do all the moth work possible on their own premises, and in this way to co-operate with the state and municipality in which the property may be located. To this end he has suggested to local moth superintendents throughout the state that they ask property owners by allowing them the benefit of such resources as may be required, and also, where possible, to loan them the necessary tools with which to remove locust web balls.

The infestation in wooded areas is becoming more of a serious problem each year, and unless sufficient co-operation is received from owners of private estates, the state forester is unable to say how much it will be able to do to allow local forces to attend to it. If owners of such property would permit the value of the wood removed in thinning operations to go towards payment for that work it would be a great thing for the promotion of moth suppression.

Prof. Kane is also very desirous of having his trained foresters mark such trees as are to be removed in thinning operations so that this may be done along scientific forestry lines. This would accomplish two results, namely, making the timber far more valuable in the future, and in putting it in proper condition for a more economical carrying on of future moth work.

Do the right thing if you have Nasal Catarrh. Get E. W. Kane's Catarrh ointment. Don't touch the catarrh powders and sniffs, for they contain cocaine. Ely's Cream Balm releases the secretions that inflame the nasal passages and the throat, whereas medicines made with mercury merely dry up the secretions and leave you no better than you were. In a word, Ely's Cream Balm is a real remedy, not a delusion. All druggists, 50 cents, or mailed by Ely Brothers, 50 Watrous street, New York.

Newsy Paragraphs

The Chronoler in the Cambridge Chronicle, tells the following: "I found a very good story on Judge Edgar Jay Sherman, of the Superior court, the other day. Judge Sherman has a remarkable memory for faces. A man was brought before Judge Sherman and pleaded guilty to the often charged. Judge Sherman sized the prisoner up and asked, 'Have you ever been arrested before?' The prisoner answered, 'No, sir, I never have.' Judge Sherman did not appear to be satisfied. Leaving over the bench, the judge said, 'I think I have seen you before, sir.' 'That may be,' said the prisoner, 'I'm a bartender by profession,' and Judge Sherman joined in the laugh that followed."

The committee also voted to return to the State committee fifteen dollars received from it last fall too late to use.

Mr. Geo. C. Ozlen, who recently purchased the large tract of land on the hill at the corner of Main and Sanborn streets, Sumner Corner, is making preparations to develop it in the spring when he will erect a number of dwelling houses. It is a slightly tract of land and a fine spot for homes.

Mr. Samuel S. Sumner has purchased a farm in New Hampshire, where he expects to pass his summers, and later he may make it his permanent home.

Messrs. Kelley & Hawes' brick fire-proof storage building on Park street affords safe and clean storage for furniture and valuables. This is the best equipped and safest storage building in this section and persons are assured that their goods will receive the best of care and attention.

The most boycott is left to a certain extent in Winchester. The boycott doesn't mind this, and it only hurts the local dealers, who are in no way responsible for the high prices.

Attention is called to the notice of the Registrars of Voters printed in another column.

Canvases for selecting a postmaster were inaugurated here in 1886, when William E. Finch was elected postmaster. His democratic successor, Patrick W. POLITICAL NOTES.

A Large List of Candidates for Selectmen and Collector.

The contests at the caucuses, which will be held next Thursday evening, Feb. 17, will be for collector and town clerk and five members of the Board of Selectmen. It promises to be a very interesting and a large vote will be polled for these offices. As is customary, where there are no contests, the candidates will be nominated by a ballot. This saves a great deal of time. A ballot will be used having a full list of the candidates thereon, and where there are contests they will be marked and the check list used. Those persons who desire to have their names placed upon the ballot should see the Town Clerk personally. This should be done now.

Following are candidates for Collector and Town Clerk:

George H. East, a professional bookkeeper, treasurer of the Calumet Club, and for some years of the Unitarian Church. He has been a respected resident of the town for a great many years and fully up to accounting.

William C. Newell, a professional accountant, a former Town Auditor and has served on many town committees. He is able in his profession, and in close touch with town affairs.

T. Price Wilson, a Winchester young man, who, since his graduation from the public schools, has been connected with the STAR, and for the past five years associate editor. His long business training has enabled him to introduce modern methods and labor-saving appliances that are as up-to-date as can be found in mercantile establishments of Boston.

George H. Bates who has resided here for the past six years, having served five years in the Malden city government, also been chairman of the Board of Aldermen and has served on important committees. By occupation he is an office manager and general accountant.

H. E. Richardson is a trusted bookkeeper of the First National Bank of Boston, to which position he worked his way up from messenger boy, after faithful service. He was born in Winchester, educated in the public schools, married and resides on Forest street.

J. Ervine Johnson is also a Winchester boy, an excellent penman, in touch with town affairs, and his friends believe that he will fill the office creditably.

Up to the time of going to press, the following gentlemen have expressed a willingness to serve on the Board of Selectmen: George B. Smith, present member, James P. Boutwell, Preston Pond, George R. Nugent, D. W. Conins, W. M. McWhirter, L. W. Russell, jr., Maurice F. Brown. These gentlemen are all competent to fill the office, so that the Board for next year is likely to be almost as good as elected. As the Board do not regard the return to the Board of Mr. Smith, there will be four new members. This gentleman will be the only one who is conversant with the work of the present Selectmen.

Mr. Thomas Quigley, jr., Winchester's bright young contractor, and who is thoroughly conversant with town affairs, is a candidate for Selectman.

Mr. George H. Carter will seek a nomination for his old place as Town Clerk. Mr. Carter gave up office a year ago because of poor health, and in view of the fact that he is in good condition and able to perform the duties, he desires to return. He is at present acting Town Clerk, having done so since the death of Mr. Hovey.

Mr. Charles E. Rogers of Calumet road has been quite strongly mentioned this week for Selectman. He is a strong man and his friends believe they can persuade him to stand in there is a general desire for his services.

Mr. Henry J. Winder is a candidate for Centenary Commissioner to succeed himself, at the coming caucus and election.

Henry J. Lyons is a candidate for Tree Warden.

WINCHESTER HIGH

OUT TO WIN.

The Winchester High school boys are out to win the Lawrence trophy this year in rowing. As the first step the Athletic Association of the school has ordered the construction of a new racing row. W. Steiner, Burgess, the well known designer of Marblehead, had prepared the plans, and with his extensive knowledge and close intimacy of the various types of racing and sailing canoes, will probably draw up a boat which will be unequalled for speed.

Stevens, of Bathway Harbor, Mass. will build the new craft, and its excellent work will assure of a thoroughly staunch construction.

The race will probably be held on or about June 12th on Mystic Lake. The trophy is at present held by the Dedham High School.

VITAL STATISTICS.

In 1909 there were 181 births, and in the year previous 194, a falling off last year of 13. There were 81 marriages in 1909 and 78 in 1908. The deaths showed a falling off last year when the number was 103 to 117 in 1908.

THE WINCHESTER POSTOFFICE.

Postmaster Richardson Makes a Statement of Conditions.

EDITOR OF THE STAR: As it is public knowledge that a former assistant postmaster is personally circulating a petition to Congressmen McCall asking for a public census to decide on the question of a new postmaster, I think it proper to report to the citizens of Winchester some facts relating to the present condition of the office which my late assistant deems is mismanaged.

During the twelve years I have been connected with the office the business has increased thirty three per cent which is more than the town has increased in population. At my current solicitation four more carriers have been appointed and deliveries are as prompt as possible to make them. No letter set of subordinates ever served the Winchester post office than those serving to-day. A rural delivery has added to the business of the office but it serves outlying citizens better than the neighborly system in use when I took the office.

The Winchester postoffice, in common with all other postoffices, is frequently inspected by a government inspector and any delinquency in business management, or lack of effort to keep the office to a high standard of usefulness, is quickly made known and if not followed by prompt improvement, a reprimand follows and the postmaster is reported to higher officials in the postoffice department. The postmaster does not run the postoffice just as he pleases, as my late short term assistant would have you believe, but is at all times under the watchful eye of the inspector and the superior officers of the department. If the Winchester postoffice is mismanaged, as claimed by the petitioner for a "change," it is his duty to notify the inspector, not the general public or Congressman McCall. In all my connection with the office, I have not been remonstrated by an inspector or failed in a single occasion to follow up his recommendations or instructions.

On January first, my late assistant severed his connection with the postoffice and I at once engaged Mr. Ernest W. Hatch, as assistant. He has served about eight years in the Winchester and Boston postoffices and has a thorough knowledge of modern postoffice work and methods.

So far as it lies within my power, I intend to conduct the office for the benefit of the public. I have given a full year to it for several years and as far as I know I have given satisfaction to my fellow citizens in the discharge of my official duties.

I shall not get up a petition again calling a caucus to choose a new postmaster as such a procedure is too personal, and on its face is selfish a course for me to take.

Respectfully,
J. Winslow Richardson.

13TH ANNUAL BANQUET.

The 13th annual banquet of Winchester Council, 210, Knights of Columbus was held in Waterfield Hall on Tuesday evening, attended by about 150 ladies and gentlemen. The affair was one of the pleasantest in the history of the order. A beautiful collation was served by the caterer, during which addresses were made by State Deputy William J. O'Brien of Boston, State Secretary Louis R. Watson of Boston and Rev. Nathaniel J. Merritt of St. Mary's Church. During the evening songs by Messrs. John O'Leary and Daniel Daly were much enjoyed and added considerably to the pleasure of the gathering. At the close of the banquet dancing was in order until a late hour, the music being furnished by an orchestra. The committee in charge consisted of Dr. James H. O'Connor, Patrick E. Fitzgerald, Howard S. Crogewood, Henry Glendon and James W. Haggerty.

Candidate for Town Clerk and Collector of Taxes.

TOWN CLERK AND COLLECTOR

EDITOR OF THE STAR: I desire to say to the citizens of Winchester, that Mr. H. E. Richardson of Forest street is a candidate for the above column. Mr. Richardson was born and brought up in this town and graduated from its public schools. He is at present with the First National Bank, Boston, where he has worked his way up from messenger through various positions to bookkeeper.

The First National Bank of Boston has entire confidence in his latitudeness and integrity.

The writer therefore feels that Mr. Richardson is well equipped to undertake to obtain the position of Town Clerk and Collector of Taxes of Winchester.

CHARLES S. SMITH.

The town again lost an old time resident and we all know often by the death of Mr. Charles S. Smith, which occurred at his home on Washington street last Sunday. Mr. Smith was known to all of the older residents of the town. For the past two years he had been more or less of an invalid, his death being due to paralysis and complications. He was in his 72nd year.

Charles S. Smith was born in Sarnborough, N. H., his parents being Samuel and Harriet Wallace Smith. His ancestors ran direct on his father's side of the family to Queen Anne of England, and on his mother's side to Sir William Wallington, some 25 years ago and for some years he engaged in the mercantile business, retiring about 25 years ago. He was always a lover of good horse flesh, and was noted for his fine driving horses.

In 1858 he married Miss Abbie Samuels of Sarnborough, who survives him. Their only daughter, Mrs. George E. Morrill, died two years ago.

Besides his widow Mr. Smith leaves two brothers and two sisters—Samuel W. of this town, William S. of Lacombe, Mrs. Ellen E. Merrill of Council Bluffs, Neb., and Miss Lizzie S. of Manchester, N. H.

The funeral services were of a simple nature, and were held on Tuesday afternoon at 2.30 from the residence on Washington street conducted by Rev. Arthur L. Winslow. The burial rites were very handsome and profound. The remains were taken to Wildwood cemetery for interment.

THE POSTMASTERSHIP.

Postmaster Richardson Recommended for Reappointment.

The following letter is explanatory: POST OFFICE DEPARTMENT
First Assistant Postmaster General Washington, Feb. 7, 1910.

Hon. Samuel W. M. Call, House of Representatives.
My dear Sir:—The commission of John W. Richardson, postmaster at Winchester, Massachusetts, will expire March 21, 1910. When he next inspected this office appeared to be in a satisfactory condition and unless there are reasons not disclosed by the records of the Department why such action would be inadvisable it is believed that the postmaster should be reappointed. The Department will be pleased to hear from you at your earliest convenience regarding this case.

Very truly yours,
C. P. Granbald,
First Assistant Postmaster General.

SUCCESSFUL AUCTION.

The auction of the seats for the coming opera, The Rose of India, to be given by the Calumet Club on Feb. 22nd in the Town Hall, was held at the club house last Saturday evening. There was a large attendance of members and townspeople, and the bidding was lively during the entire sale. Close to $500.00 was realized on premiums alone. The highest price paid for a single seat was $13, others selling for $12.50, $12, $11.50 and down. Although the sale was large the 1000 odd seats were not, of course, all taken, and many good seats were left to be placed on sale at the drug stores.

The performance is to be the chief event of the winter, and will probably draw one of the largest audiences ever assembled in the Town Hall. At the conclusion of the sale luncheon was served to those attending.

W. H. S. NOTES.

A WORD OF PRAISE.

The superintendent of schools of Winchester sent the following letter to the Telephone company. It ought to be a pleasant reading to the representatives of all departments in the Winchester Exchange: "Will you kindly permit me to express to you my appreciation, first, of your courtesy in arranging for the prompt installations of telephone lines in our school buildings and in my residence during the last two months. Second, for the generally rapid and satisfactory telephone service which we enjoy."

It has seemed to me that those of us who benefit by efficiency wherever it may be, ought occasionally to indicate that we are not ungrateful of the fact.

Yours very truly,
Schuyler E. Horton, Telephone Topics.

GENTLEMEN'S DINNER.

The dinner of the Men's Congregational Club will be held at the First Congregational Church on Tuesday, Feb. 15, at 6.15 p.m. In addition to a good warm dinner, there will be interesting and instructive speaking on the live topics of the day. Benson of the Aero Club of New England, will enlighten those present on different live subjects. It will prove a very enjoyable occasion. Tickets can be procured of Mr. Charles A. Lauer, at Parker and Lane's office, or at the door on the evening of the dinner.

But it is necessary to send an advance notice that you will attend to Mr. Maurice F. Brown, so that it will be known how many to provide for.

Tickets may also be obtained in advance at the office of Parker and Lane.

"THE ROSE OF INDIA"

The report that all the seats for the Calumet Club play had been sold, was entirely wrong. There were many very good seats left and are on sale at Abate's and Knigh's stores. But it is quite safe to say that they will not last long, so go at once for first choice.

COOKING HINT.

YOUR AFFAIRS AND MINE.

A Winchester physician gives The Spectator to understand that he never knew a habitual user of tobacco to have the typhoid fever. The typhoid certainly shows good judgment in keeping aloof from the habit of user of tobacco, and the Spectator extends to it his heartiest sympathy.

A Winchester gentleman who is in a position to know informs The Spectator that a mortgage on a house is like a wormhole in an apple. Before you are aware of it, there is more wormhole than fruit.

When a Winchester boy goes a gambler for his boy it must be cut to fit him, but when the boy is sent to school, the whole process is directed toward making him fit the system instead of adapting the system to him. The Spectator believes it would be a pretty good general rule that the child should be trained along the line of least resistance. The attempt to adapt him to a system for which he has no aptitude of taste seems like a waste of time and effort beyond a certain point, while it robs him of so much of his opportunity to perfect himself along lines in which nature evidently intended him to excel. A leading Winchester gentleman has recently complained to the Spectator that the grammar schools of the town are not what they should be because "the requirements and the process are the same" for all kinds of children. To make a change, they would, perhaps, be carrying the policy of election or choice rather than down the system than we should wish to see it undertaken here.

The Spectator concedes that the grammar schools must be to a considerable extent remain the tests of both tendency and development, and if there is some waste due to the inflexibility of the curriculum, there are benefits suffered to more than offset it. But the high school presents an entirely different problem. The student is qualified to undertake the course must have given definite indication of his strong points and his weak ones. He cannot perhaps, be wholly trusted to select those studies which shall best minister to his mental development, but that can be indicated by the teachers whom he has previously had and who should make it a part of their business to draw up a kind of inventory of every pupil's special gifts and special delinquencies as at least a partial guide to those responsible for more advanced training. With the help of parents and teachers, a much more intelligent classification might be made out than at present, where there is practically no classification at all and where wheat, oats and barley are all put into one hopper and so run through together.

The claim has been made that our first high schools have more nearly approximated their results the university training of the early part of the last century. Truly, the system has become so elaborate as that The Spectator holds that it ought to be safe to tentatively adopt a policy which is becoming more and more a feature of the college and university training of the day. A youth entirely capable of obtaining a liberal education at a reasonably discounted price, if not prevented from acquiring it when they do undertake, by the rigidity of the conditions which confront them. They may be strong in science, but have no taste for language, or vice versa. The aim of instruction should be to discover that for which the boy or girl is best fitted, and place the emphasis upon those branches.

"You foolish boy," said a Main street mother upon discovering some India ink pictures on her son's arm. "Don't you know that they will remain there as long as you live?" "And will I live as long as they remain there?" asked the youngster.

The Winchesterite who is forever declaring against the it is oppressor is only mad because he is not rich and therefore able to do some oppressing on his own account.

There will be more snow before the winter is even and again. The Spectator urges that owners and occupants of houses remove the snow and ice from the sidewalks in front of their residences. In a great many instances this has not been done this winter. It is every household in Winchester would remove the snow at once it would save a great deal of unnecessary trouble and also might prevent some person from falling and being painfully hurt.

An Alabama gentleman is the guest of a friend of The Spectator's and the other evening The Spectator had the pleasure of an introduction to him. The Spectator had knowledge to the effect that the convict system in that State was operated under miserable conditions but he was hardly prepared for the revelation of hiring out its convicts to work for private individuals outside of prison walls. The men thus turned over usually go to work in the coal and iron mines, and there are condemned to a life of wretchedness and degradation that is practically slavery. In fact, from what the southern gentleman told The Spectator the latter has not a doubt that the condition of a negro slave in antebellum days was a hundred times preferable to that of the miserable creature whom the State hands over to the mine owners paying the highest price for his labor. This year the Alabama government plumes itself on the fact that it is to add to the public revenues $500,000 in 1909. How great an increase of human torture and woe these figures indicate only the poor wretches concerned will ever realize. The visitor from Alabama agrees with The Spectator it is high time that a new and better conception of civilization were getting into the minds of the public in that State. They are not intentionally cruel or callous, but have simply let things drift just as they did in Georgia and Texas until the evils became a public scandal, and then the people rose up and brought the injustice to an end.

"The proper study of mankind is man." Pope knew better than to say "woman." Woman is too deep a study for even the most intelligent Winchesterite to undertake.

A Winchester club woman who is interested in the study of the psychology of the child, points out to The Spectator that the child's growth should not be forced by trying to teach it too much knowledge in its early development. As the mind of the child grows and nature has based the course of mental development it would be better in many instances if mothers and people in the homes would keep their hands off, to leave in many cases their interference have naturally allowed the child's growth. There is a system of training called for from their little up. They should be taught different things at different ages. Much of an infant's nature depends upon the training it receives in the home when young.

A Pleasant street gentleman says that the man who talks of himself deals with a subject that he knows something about, and should therefore be able to give some information without listening to him but the trouble is, his information is generally worthless, and almost all of it is apt to be untrue.

Newsy Paragraphs.

Miss Forbes is the possessor of a book from Carmen Sylvia, formerly the Queen of Romania, which would appeal to any one who cared for music or who appreciated the merits of the European royalty. In short, Miss Forbes' elegantly bound book, bearing the autograph and personal felicitation of the former beautiful Queen, would be deemed a prize by any one. Queen Carmen Sylvia met Miss Forbes in Europe, and while there presented her with the book, the work of her own pen.

The difference in the cost of living for the traveling employees of the department of agriculture in the different sections of the country, has been shown in testimony just submitted to the House Committee on expenditure. In the South the expense for lodging and meals, averages between $1 and $2.50 a day, in the far West $2 and in the Central West $3.50, and in the East $4 to $5.

In some quarters there appears to be a move to nominate an entirely new Board of Selectmen. There is danger that this may result costly to the town as Mr. Smith is the only member of the present Board who is willing to return, and his being in touch with present conditions cannot but be beneficial to the new members.

IT WAS A POOR POLICY.

EDITOR OF THE STAR:

When the late N. A. Richardson was superintendent of streets his boast at the end of a year was that he had not expended his appropriation for streets by more than a few hundred dollars. The streets showed this to be true and the result was that Mr. Richardson was dropped. It is proper to keep within an appropriation, but it is not creditable to spend a less sum and neglect needed improvements, just to return a portion of the money back to the town. The voters appropriate money for a specific purpose, and they expect it will thus be so used. No more should be asked for than is actually needed, and when it is given it should be used to the best advantage. The citizens do not desire false economy.

ARM AMPUTATED.

James I. Rogers of 809 Main street, who had his arm badly mangled at the factory of the Ruffer Manufacturing Co., last week is resting as comfortably as could be expected at the Relief Hospital. It was necessary to amputate his arm at the shoulder.

The story of the accident is that Mr. Rogers who is regularly employed at the Winchester factory was out installing a soda fountain and on his way back to Winchester called in at the Boston office. While there he visited the engine room and seeing the engine dog, he began to feed it with bread. One piece of bread dropped under the safety rod of the engine. Rogers who was attired in a heavy canvas coat reached in to get the bread and a set screw on the rod caught his coat sleeve and wound it round and round crushing all the bones in his arm. His screams brought workmen who shut down the engine. Rogers was sent to the Relief station where it was necessary to amputate the arm at the shoulder. He is married and has a wife and two children.

The two second prizes were unanimously awarded to Masters James H. and Angus B. McPeck, who were dressed as clowns.

The committee in charge of the affair were John McCarron, chairman; P. H. Hennessy, John Hannon, Jeremiah Moulton, William McCarthy and William Rogers.

McCALL AND CANNON.

The "appreciation" of Speaker Cannon written by Cong. McCall for a weekly magazine illustrates Mr. McCall's ever-ready willingness to speak his own mind in defiance of an overwhelming adverse popular sentiment. When Mr. Roosevelt was at the pinnacle of his popularity as president, it was Mr. McCall who went down to Marshfield and coined that savage yet brilliant characterization, "a glutton of the blue-light." He now turns to the defense of Mr. Cannon in the same principle that he would attack him if the people were giving the old gentleman roses instead of his.

There are protests against Mr. McCall's eulogy of the speaker, and it must be admitted that in certain respects the tart rejoinder of the editor of Callie's, especially in relation to Mr. Cannon's devotion to art, seems justified. But there is something good to be said in favor of overboldness, and when Mr. Cannon's 30 years of public service are finally summed up there will be found something on the credit side of the ledger. — Springfield Republican.

Speaker Cannon should not be commended for carrying out the rules of the House. These rules were made by the members and not by the speaker.

WHY NOT McCALL.

Now that almost every citizen from Washington is bringing the name of some new assistant for the speaker of the next congress, when it is expected that Hon. Joseph G. Cannon is to be re-elected to the next congress, we are disposed to wonder at the failure to mention the name of the distinguished congressman from the eighth district, Hon. Simeon W. McCall. It may be that Mr. McCall, who has been a staunch supporter of the speaker throughout the whole trouble with the "misguided" members, has discouraged the use of his name until Speaker Cannon definitely states that he is not a candidate for election to his present position. The Massachusetts congressman would certainly not allow himself to be put in the position of being used to drive his friend out of the field. At the same time, if the speaker's contest is to develop into a free-for-all, with Speaker Cannon definitely eliminated, we shall be surprised if Mr. McCall's name is not entered among the contestants. It is very probable that every citizen in the lower house of the legislature would certainly not allow himself to be put in the position of being used to drive his friend out of the field. At the same time, if the speaker's contest is to develop into a free-for-all, with Speaker Cannon definitely eliminated, we shall be surprised if Mr. McCall's name is not entered among the contestants. It is very probable that every citizen in the lower house of the legislature would certainly not allow himself to be put in the position of being used to drive his friend out of the field.

THE CENTER OF GOOD VALUES.

THE SCHOOLS. Encouraging Report of the Superintendent of Schools.

Believing that our schools are of sufficient importance to the teachers of the STAR, we print from time to time the report of the Superintendent, Mr. Schuler, H. H. for the week.

The Report.

During the past year, the fundamental element which the activities of the School Department have been based on has been to increase the efficiency of our work. This has been done in many ways, and it is a pleasure to report that the results have been very satisfactory.

Holdings on February 18.

It is a pleasure to note that in general our holdings are in good order and are kept warm and clean; that our school rooms are commodious, pleasant, and well furnished; and that our playgrounds are fairly adequate. In other words, the conditions under which our pupils are working are not subject to serious adverse criticism.

Our pupils spend the larger part of their daylight working hours in the school grounds and in the school rooms. They receive from their school surroundings an unconscious training that strongly influences their attitude toward their future environment. If they are given school rooms with harmoniously tinted walls and beautiful pictures, and school grounds with green lawns and clean, level play spaces, they will more likely be citizens to maintain attractive homes and to favor public improvements.

This is indeed one of the facts that should be of general interest. The more reports note have this year required a considerably smaller expenditure than in 1907 or 1908 because many small things of a permanent nature had been done. There still have been a large number of minor repairs, but in future it will be possible to have a better record.

The school grounds are, except at the Highland, in good condition but this one is unsightly. As soon as possible, the grounds should be laid out to provide a lawn. Still, it is not likely to be fit for play.

Repairs.

Rehabilitation of a list of repairs to the school buildings is of general interest. The more reports note have this year required a considerably smaller expenditure than in 1907 or 1908 because many small things of a permanent nature had been done.

The Fortnightly.

YOUR AFFAIRS AND MINE.

A Winchester man is growing because he got one-twentieth of a cent's worth of syrup and a piece of mush that would about cover a visiting card at a Wolfram restaurant and not for the sake of the money. The Spectator's advice to him is to get married and be and his wife can make several meals out of a nickel's worth of cornmeal and a nickel's worth of syrup.

These he slippery and treacherous days for the Winche tent who walks abroad. A Main street gentleman tells the Spectator he is thinking seriously of taking out an accident policy in order to make more money with a broken leg than he can draw every Saturday from the cashier of the establishment where he is employed.

It has been discovered by a Pleasant street gentleman that Jesse of Nazareth had considerable to do with politicians in his day. The Pleasant street gentleman because entertains the suspicion that the Galilean prophet will have still more to do with the politicians later.

A Winchester legal gentleman gives the Spectator information to the effect that the Supreme Court has decided that playing marbles for keeps is gambling, which the Spectator contends is another instance demonstrating how slow our courts are, for there are mothers here in Winchester who decided that point years ago.

In the course of a recent sermon one of our Winchester clergymen marshaled Biblical quotations and practical illustrations to show that it is not only sinful but injurious to the mental, moral and physical well-being of any person to be constantly worrying. After listening to the sermon one of the male members of the congregation suggested the formation of a "Don't Worry" Club in Winchester. The Spectator believes the suggestion an excellent one. Absence of worry is conducive to good digestion, healthy sleep and a robust constitution. Were a "Don't Worry" Club to be formed in Winchester, The Spectator feels confident that the members thereof would radiate a lot of happiness and spread the movement rapidly. Of course, there might be some lack of shyness, but—well, there wouldn't be any need of worrying about that.

A well known young man is having his own troubles at the present time, the incidents of the past few days having caused him to become a firm believer in the old saying that "it never rains but it pours." Several days ago the young Winchesterite had the misfortune to get his hand caught in the machinery at the place where he is employed and the member was very badly crushed. This has kept him from his employment, and while walking along Pleasant street a couple of days ago he slipped on the ice and fell heavily, shoving his leg so that he walks with a decided limp. Nor is this all. A boyl is asserting still on the lack of his neck.

"Let us hope that builders who will undertake the further development of Winchester will appreciate the value and beauty of porch front houses, and that they will be a decided increase in that class of construction," remarked a thoughtful townsman to The Spectator the other day. "Winchester is far behind some of our other towns in the porch front class of construction. The porch is a delightful, beautiful and living room in summer, and it should be seen universally. It is a pleasure to note that many of the new houses in Winchester have been provided with porches."

"What is the use of slandering the poor barbers?" remarked a gentleman prominent in Winchester political circles. "They are no more talkative than other men. I had a bar cut and shave today, and the barber did not utter a word from first to last." A gentleman scolding in the group thought he would have a little pleasanter at the expense of the politician and said: "Which goes to show that even a barber may have some regard for his reputation."

A Winchester street policeman misses that touching the stomach with humor. He is pointing the gun forward and emptying them up in the gutter.

The Spectator is pleased to announce that a number of householders have acted upon the suggestion in last week's issue, namely, that they remove the snow and ice from the sidewalks in front of their residences. The Spectator believes the record has been broken for the number of persons who have cleaned their sidewalks after reading the STAR, and he is genuinely pleased at this. The Spectator feels that his influence in the community amounts to something.

Do the right thing if you have Nasal Catarrh, Hay Fever, Cough, Croup, Sore Throat, etc. Don't touch the catarrh powders and sniffs, for they contain cocaine. Ely's Cream Balm releases the secretions that inflame the nasal passages and the throat, whereas medicines made with mercury merely dry up the secretions and leave you no better than you were. In a word, Ely's Cream Balm is a real remedy, not a delusion. All druggists, 50 cents, or mailed by Ely Brothers, 50 Warren Street, New York.

Newspaper Paragraphs.

Dreamworld Gamiette, one of the several high quality french bulldogs entered in the New York dog show by Mrs. Arnold Lawson, was sold before the close of the show Saturday for $500.

The Winchester police have had more prisoners in the lockup, but none more interesting than a carrier pigeon now awaiting its owner. The bird has a brass band on one of its legs bearing the number "2011." It is quite tame and is given studied attention by Patrolman Dutton and Chief McIntosh. The feathered stranger was found a few days ago not far from the town hall by Jeremiah Green. It was almost exhausted and doubtless had flown a considerable distance. The prisoner has a pretty plumage of black and blue.

Boston escapee alive bank has sold $5,000 square feet of land on Foxcroft Road, Wedgewood area, and Salisbury road, to M. E. Ward of Cambridge.

Mr. Willard L. Case and family of Eaton street moved this week to New Jersey.

The original George Washington hotbed. For sale at Wilson's the Stationer's.

An interesting audience listened to a very entertaining talk on Jamaica at the Gilmert Club last Saturday night. The speaker of the evening was Mr. S. B. H. Brown, who for twenty years was a resident of the island. His talk was illustrated by stereoscopic views of Jamaica, giving scenes in the interior and on the sea coast, and the talk was one of the best of the winter.

Among the successful candidates to pass the Bar Examination was Mr. Linn C. Coggon. He will present himself to the supreme court on March 1 and be sworn in.

In my opinion, the cause of the late financial panic was a disastrously erroneous mental, and I am firmly convinced that the same cause, if moved again, will produce a recurrence of the trouble in a worse form. We should get back to the old system as soon as possible, with the states managing their own affairs under the eyes of their own people, who are so near that they can see what is being done. —Congressman McCall.

Water bills are now due. After the last day of this month a summons is sent out and this means a fine or the water being shut off.

Mr. Thomas J. Fenney of Wolfram, who is General Manager of the Advertising Department of the New England Tel. and Tel. Co. of Boston, has been admitted to the Massachusetts Bar and is now a full-fledged Lawyer. He is the third boy in the family to enter the legal profession.

Intentions of marriage have been filed between William L. Thompson of Winchester and Margaret (Morrow) of Wolfram. Twenty-four years ago Monday was the time of the big flood in Winchester, when the ice in the ponds held back the water. A portion of the Pleasant street bridge was carried away, while a section of Main street at Whitney's Mill fell through into the river. The ice embargo was broken with dynamite.

Paul Boyer, the twelve year old Stoughton boy, who several weeks ago entered the Wedgewood area in the absence of the agent and stole $11 in bills was in court last Friday morning and his case was continued for two weeks. The lawyer for the defendant said he was a kleptomaniac, and that preparations were being made to have the boy confined to an asylum. It was on this condition that the case was continued.

The choir club will meet next Wednesday evening at 7:30 at a place to be announced.

The Guild of the Epiphany will meet Friday, Feb. 25 at 3 p.m., at Mrs. Ashton's 26 Oxford street.

WORK OF THE

WOMEN'S CLUBS.

The meeting of the Massachusetts Federation of Women's Clubs just held in Boston calls attention to the importance of the work undertaken by these organizations, and not only undertaken but in many instances accomplished. There is variety in their efforts. No matter is too small and no subject too large for them to take up, and their work is of the most practical and of the most important. To their literary investigation and pleasant work for better schools, for traveling libraries, for the protection of children, for countless other good objects, including the uplifting of their towns, and when local advance was under way they have turned with confidence to state and national affairs.

Too time has now come when the advocates of any good cause who would strengthen their hopes for success appeal to the women's clubs for cooperation. The Governor's Guild of this state, in its address before the Massachusetts Federation, urged its members to give their support to the movement for the conservation of our national resources, and to enlist the services of their sisters in the eastern states. He asked for an earnest and concerted interest in the matter, and the women's clubs have already shown and will doubtless manifest their interest.

The Georgia Federation of Women's Clubs in its latest report, in its efforts to bring about closer relations between the women of the city and those of the farm. The isolation of the country has become with especial weight on the wives of the acres and their sisters and daughters. The rural postal delivery has served to lighten it somewhat, but much more can be done through the women's clubs in the extension of their advantages and influence to the women of the farmers' homes. Christian Science Monitor.

The prizes were awarded as follows: First prize, Miss Katharine Lusk; Second prize, Miss Barbara Pratt; Third prize, Mr. Norman Small; Fourth prize, Miss Barbara Lusk.

JOSEPH H. MULLEN.

Joseph Harold Mullen, the thirteen year old son of Arthur J. and Clara G. Mullen, died very suddenly of hemorrhage of the brain at his home on Thompson street early Monday morning. The youth had been confined to the house for several days with a slight attack of the grip, being taken seriously ill shortly after midnight Sunday, and passing away in the short space of two hours. He was within one month of reaching his fourteenth birthday and was a pupil of the Wadleigh school.

The funeral services were held from the residence on Wednesday afternoon at 2:30, conducted by Rev. John W. Suter, pastor of the Church of the Epiphany. The burial was in Woodlawn cemetery.

Much is being heard these days in regard to the retirement to private life of Senator Lodge. Probably a great deal of this dissatisfaction arises from those who would like his place and from others who cannot "work" him for fat government jobs. Mr. Lodge is not only a statesman, but he is a thoroughly Massachusetts man and always looking out for his interests. Cong Amos of Lowell, with his money, is after the Senatorship, but he will find the job a big one before he accomplishes what he is after.

W. C. T. U. NOTES.

The meeting of the Union last week at Mrs. F. A. North's was well attended being in part a farewell to the hostess who soon leaves for an extended absence. As it was the annual memorial meeting for Francis E. Willard her life and influence were emphasized and the sum a total of each union was more than doubled. This is to be used for extending the work, especially in organizing new unions and strengthening weak ones.

During the meeting the members worked on shirts and towels for the Francis Willard Settlement at Boston.

The Union was represented at the hearing on the submission of a petition amendment to the people, which was, unfortunately killed in the committee. The temperance people have waged an active campaign but the several hundred women at the hearing, being voiceless, had little weight when balanced against the more vocal and more organized liquor interests.

YOUR AFFAIRS AND MINE.

A Winchester clergyman gives The Spectator to understand that much petty larceny and other children can be traced to the attraction of moving picture shows. The Spectator to the effect of a police court in one of our cities has recently reported that a large number of the court cases are for stealing, as they took money for that purpose. The Spectator agrees that many of these moving pictures are highly entertaining and trusts that the motion pictures will never get a hold here in Winchester.

And so this world is a bit cheerless, and there is much right here in Winchester that is much more for brotherly love. It does not cost a Winchester much to be kind, but the effect is wonderful, whereas the unkempt world hastily spoken, the unkempt dog, ingratiating down, leaves a wound that requires weeks and months to heal.

The Spectator is in favor of a series of public lectures which will include instruction of the people as to the methods of preventing tuberculosis. At first glance the need for such a series in Winchester may not be very evident but the need exists, nevertheless. The white plague has got to be fought here in Winchester as elsewhere and it is believed by The Spectator and others who are enthusiastic about the work that eventually the ravages of tuberculosis will be as much under the control of the health authorities as scarlet fever and diphtheria are now. The Spectator does not look for such a result in a few days, or in a couple of years, though he looks for an appreciable reduction in the number of deaths in five years, while the final results will be seen a few years later. As many people as possible should be gotten in sympathy with the war on tuberculosis. The Spectator hopes to write in regard to this matter later.

In the course of his sermon last Sunday the pastor of the church to which The Spectator attends gave worship, gave utterance to a fine sentiment when he said that mankind should give thanks as rational creatures and as Christians for the trials of life as well as for the so-called benefits, the former being really blessings in disguise.

When a Winchesterer complains his own words, he does not necessarily make sense of them.

One day last week a well known townsman fell on the ice near Winchester Square and limped back home where his wife covered him with plaster and ammonia. Sitting in his chair that evening he called for the encyclopedia and read the story of the famous cities during the down-pour of Vermontian. "That was," mused he, "the only time I ever heard there was a Vermontian and Winchester to water ashes on the railroad sidewalks."

It is always real nice to meet a Winchesterer who is "able to talk on any subject," so long as he does not try to talk on every subject during the half-hour one is in his company.

By the way, the foregoing reminds The Spectator that nothing makes so much noise as a rickety wagon with nothing in it, unless it be a Winchesterer who insists on talking when he has nothing to say.

A Pleasant Street gentleman gives The Spectator to understand that he once upon a time was proficient in half a dozen languages, but since he was married he is not even master of his own tongue.

A townsman interested in booming Winchester as the "Queen Residential Town of New England" suggests that one hundred thousand "stickers" be distributed among business men and private citizens with a request that they be placed on all outgoing mail. The object of the "stickers" of course would be to advertise Winchester and to inform mankind that ours is the best town in which to live and do business in New England. The "stickers" would also carry with it a request that people living in other communities write for more detailed information of the town. The Spectator believes the suggestion an excellent one and very practical. Who will start the ball rolling?

FUNERAL OF MRS. S. V. CARTER.

Luncheon services for Mrs. Susan Vose Carter were held last Saturday afternoon at her late residence on Main Street. Rev. L. A. Newton, pastor of the First Congregational Church, of which the deceased was a regular attendant for forty years, conducted the services. After the selections "Nearer, My God, to Thee" and "Rock of Ages" were religiously rendered by a soloist, a touching tribute was paid to the noble character of the deceased, and her life devoted to the welfare of her family. There was a large attendance of relatives and friends, which, with the many floral tributes, expressed the love and esteem in which she was held. Interment was at Forest Hills. Besides being survived by one son, Mr. George H. Carter, a daughter, Mrs. Hattie E. Cowdery, four grandchildren and five great-grandchildren, Mrs. Carter leaves two brothers and three sisters, two of whom are residents of this town—Mrs. Sarah T. Stone and Miss E. Emma English.

DENTAL WORK FOR PUPILS IN WINCHESTER SCHOOLS.

Some weeks ago the School Nurse began the inspection of the teeth of pupils in the schools. This inspection is not supposed to be an accurate diagnosis but to discover cases in which the need of dental attention is obvious. The parents of such pupils are advised to consult a dentist. In most cases this recommendation is followed; in others, conditions render compliance somewhat difficult. To meet this need the dentists of Winchester, Doctors Gilpatrick, Haines, Kelly, Lewis, O'Connor, Rogers and Young have agreed to reserve one-half day each month for the treatment, in their offices, at a nominal charge of cases brought to them by Mrs. Moulton, School Nurse. This work began two weeks ago and the benefits are already apparent. The STAR extends to these gentlemen its compliments. The Town is fortunate to have them as citizens. Their action will undoubtedly promote in the widest and most effective way the education of our school children to safeguard the health of the pupils in our schools.

ILLUMINATE STREET LIGHTS.

EDITOR OF THE STAR:
I have noticed in your columns articles advocating the placing of red lights over the various fire boxes about town. This is most decidedly a good idea. Why not go a step further and either see that all street signs are placed where the electric lights will illuminate them, or install electric signs. Since they are twice as much more than the fire alarm boxes - it is sometimes difficult at the present time for strangers to find their way about town at night. Some streets are so lighted that the signs are plainly visible, others cannot be read.

Please call attention to this in your valuable columns.

Respectfully,
B.

W. C. T. U. NOTES.

An unusual tribute to the cause of total abstinence is the gift of a bottle of Mc-Cline's on the express. The bottle is a rare drinker, who was not to be up to drink, never was drunk and has no cutting in his head when he is declined to quit, after having been drunk, a moderate drinker for years. Yet he declares that it is better, cut work better and is fully convinced that total abstinence is the wise plan for him as well as every one else, even while he is willing to let every man follow his own inclination. Such testimony is very valuable because it comes from one of those rare persons who can drink and let it alone at will.

Very few of the negroes last year are entirely silent on the temperance question. It is indeed a popular subject and its relation to the high cost of living is not without its points of interest.

The annual report of the Associated Charities of Boston has some noteworthy statistics in connection with our investigations. Not only the questions of public health, sanitation, poverty, crime, etc., are complicated by the problems of intemperance, but every other question which the Associated Charities workers find in their field. Eliminate the drunk habit and a large part of the work of the Associated Charities would be unnecessary.

Chief Social Officer W. E. John on of the U. S. Indian Service has secured his one thousandth conviction since opening his office in San Jose City nineteen months ago, all for selling liquor to Indians. That is a proof that enforcement of the law is not an impossible thing.

THOMPSON—MORROW.

Miss Margaret Jay Morrow of Woburn daughter of Mr. Robert Morrow, and Mr. William J. Thompson of Winchester, son of Mr. Joseph Thompson, were married last Thursday evening at Trinity church, Woburn, by Rev. William H. Osmond.

Following the marriage ceremony, a reception was held at 12 Loring Avenue, Winchester, from 8 to 12 o'clock. Mr. George J. Morrow was best man, and the bridesmaids were Misses Dolans, Jennie Given, Lizzie Cassidy, Kate Coscaden, Bella Dolans, Jennie Dolans, Margaret Boyce, Cassie Boyd, and Mrs. Ham.

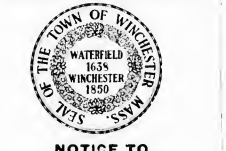

The ushers were: Messrs. George White, George Kerrigan, Thomas Dolans, Andrew Elliott, Hugh Thompson, William Nagle, James Strong, Robert Porteous, Richard Porteous, E. H. Graham, Adam Foster and Adam Bostead.

Mr. and Mrs. Thompson will reside at 17 Swanston Street, Winchester.

WINCHESTER UNION'S NEEDS.

Persons who are looking over their clothing, including coats, shoes, etc., should remember the Winchester Union. This organization has constant need for the second-hand goods which are given to the worthy poor of the town. Mr. Carr, custodian of the Town Hall, will take charge of them. Better give to the deserving in town rather than have the goods go elsewhere. Charity should begin at home.

Messrs. Kelley & Hawes Co.'s brick fireplace storage building on Park Street affords safe and clean storage for furniture and valuables. This is the best equipped and safest storage building in this section and patrons are assured that their goods will receive the best of care and attention.

During Lent the rector will be at the church Wednesday mornings from 11.30 to 12.30, and Thursday afternoons from 3 to 5. He would be glad to see people at these times concerning any matters small or great, they may have to bring to him, or would be glad to see people who bring nothing but themselves.

The preacher at the Wednesday service next week Wednesday evening, March 2, at 8 o'clock will be the Rev. A. W. Moulton, the rector of Grace Church, Lawrence. Mr. Moulton takes the place of Mr. Billings, who was announced for March 2 on the Lenten card, but who is unable to come.

There will be a talk on Confirmation at the church next Wednesday afternoon at 4 o'clock. The Bishop comes a week from Sunday, March 6, at the service at 5 o'clock.

The rector will be at the church Sunday afternoon at 3.30 o'clock to see any persons who may wish to see him about Confirmation.

The Epiphany Circle will meet Monday afternoon at 3 o'clock at Mrs. Higgins', 68 Church street.

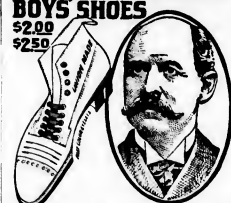

Safeguard of Town Finances.

Director Charles F. Gettemy of the state bureau of statistics has drafted a bill which would tend to disclose anything wrong with the treasury accounts of the towns of the commonwealth and forestall or discourage such events as have recently occurred in Framingham and Southbridge.

Under this bill Mr. Gettemy seeks to have the towns insert in their town warrants an article to see if they will accept his provision that a town accountant be appointed, whose duty shall be to keep a complete set of books wherein shall be entered the amount of each specific appropriation, the amounts and purposes of expenditures, the receipts from each source of income the amount of each assessment levied, and the abatement levied. This account shall be kept as far as practicable in conformity with the classifications and forms prescribed by him as director of the bureau of statistics.

Whenever any appropriation shall have been expended, or in the judgement of the town accountant the liabilities incurred against any appropriation may be in excess of the unexpended balance of said appropriation, he shall immediately give notice to the board of selectmen and to the head of the department or official authorized to make expenditures, and no claim against such appropriation shall be allowed nor any further liability shall be incurred until the town makes provision for the payment of the same.

THE AMALFI DRIVE.

Sweet the memory is to me
Of a land beyond the sea,
Where the waves and mountains meet,
Violets and her milkberry trees
Sits Amalfi in the heat, Bathing ever for white feet
In the endless summer seas, —Longfellow.During the snow-bound New England days when no weather keeps us in comfortable quarters, hugging our trusties warmth our thoughts, the bridge of distance and we are again in Southern Italy, amid scenes of matchless beauty.Nothing but the extreme poverty of the people, the hungry faces of the heavily laden and the countless legions of tractors from one's perfect enjoyment.Again we are in the thought at Cava Dol Terreni, a short ride from Pompeii.
At Hotel Lombardi we spent the night.
American tourists crowded the great halls and reception rooms.The night was crowned with indelible beauty. While senior donkeys lugged the mountain, roses and Vespene, in the distance, took on a silver veil of beauty covering its dormitory, black and ugly.
The valley about Cava Dol Terreni, clear in its summer brightness, wore a golden glow over the silvery moonlight, which fell in silent grandeur about the surrounding garden.At the hotel, richly robed Italian guests, dressed and singing and their native music waited its sweetest out on the dreamlike air. They danced their Tarantella and sang their B. Trovatore far into the night.The next morning, August 27, we started for Amalfi, a drive far famed, over a road walled in by massive masonry, along the shore of the Gulf of Salerno, and surrounded by perpendicular ledges, this wonderful road dates back more than a century. Amalfi, how hard it is to imagine that the ancient and decayed place, was once the great commercial emporium and capital of a republic of the middle-ages. Here, the almost timeless blue bay, covers to unknown depths the slabs and quays of the city that used to supply Naples, twenty-five miles away, with its rare wines and products.Not a sail disturbed the silence of the lovely, blue waters that day, not even a murmur of flapping waves on the shore;
blue and beautiful, it told its voiceless story of ages long past. The morning was golden, with the deep blue above uninterrupted.Along the dusty road, little children ran after the carriages, singing their sweet songs and holding out hands for a penny.
Aged men and women carried their heavy baskets as though that were all life meant for them.Amalfi and its history bring to mind the name of Alessandro, there he spent his child's life of poverty and struggle.It was nearing dusk when we caught our first view of the Campanian Coast, now a hotel. Take an easy lounge from the great rocks above, it backed in the summer sun. Only the presence of the sleepy Monk in his corner on the terrace was needed to complete the picture.So often seen of Naples or Amalfi. A very narrow stairway reaches the terrace that lies between the rocky walls. Here peasant girls toil from stair to stair and carry all who are unable to climb, stately sun-browned daughters of Italy. Climbing we entered the hotel and over our heads hung the orange branches, heavy with fruit; the sweet odor of flowers from the gardens tiny, among the rocky crevices; lemon trees and vegetables of many kinds seem to invite to partake.The scene from this hill, that seems to hang between earth and sky is indescribably wonderful; the strangeness of it all overcomes one. We wondered if in the past, the Knights of the Crimson Cross lingered here on their journeying to the Holy Land. The hotel is indeed a convent, in its narrow halls, tiny chambers, bare walls, and simple furnishings.
As we rested in the hall, looking out over the Bay, we heard the guests express their admiration for the charm and uniqueness of everything. "Frank, I think we must remain here over night, notwithstanding the lizards," said a gentleman to his friend. And sure enough, the lizards, hopped about, into the halls, on the terraces and any place 27, 3, small and very lively, they were but no one seemed to mind them. We enjoyed our lunch served on the balcony under the overhanging lemon and orange branches, and at 2.30 we started on the same wonderful road toward Sorrento.We watched the men and women drying macaroni on the shore of the Bay. In the midst of the afternoon's dust and heat a handsome, young Italian boy suddenly appeared, evidently coming from the shore where grape vines grew in abundance. Sipping, and with a grace all his own, he placed his hand upon our carriage, and walking along with us, said,
"You E. J.?" I love English, I speak the English," and his face was a happy look."No, we are Americans," we answered.
"O American! I was there two years ago in New York, there for ten months. You know New York?" "O yes," we replied.
"I learn to speak the English in New York, I go to the school at night, and I love New York. I work in the day in a meat shop." "Why did you not remain in New York?" we asked. "Well I sorry, but my father he wrote and said,
I want to see you, come home, and I come home, I can write the English too and Iam going back in October." Then with a wistful look down over the Bay, he asked, "You like grapes? My father own a fine vineyard down on the shore, and I bring you grapes." "O yes we like grapes." "Like a deer he bounded over the high wall and disappeared. In a very few minutes he came with his arms filled with the luscious fruit; such grapes we had not before seen in Italy! Into our carriage, and empty hands he dropped them. "I love America and I give you grapes," he said. We returned gratefully; "No, no, I give you grapes," he said. The money was urged upon him; we added, "Will you not take it, and give it to your mother?" "My mother, yes I give it to my mother." Then walking back to the other carriage, he asked the same question and offered the same generous gift. He refused again the coins gladly offered, until the plea "for the sake of America." How delightful it was to witness such goodness! We had been haunted by beggars at every street corner, but here was a soul far above it! He had learned a better lesson in the Land of Opportunity. Somewhere in our great Republic there is room for such brave, manly souls! Somewhere in the Empire City some one will be kind to the Italian boy who showed true generosity to strangers, "for the sake of America."
The curtains of night were falling as we rode into Sorrento."Green are thy hills Sorrento, fair thy flowers,"

PUBLIC SCHOOLS.

EDITOR OF THE STAR:

The question of cooking in the public schools is by no means a fall. It is one of vital interest because of its relation to the health of the coming generation. It is the duty of the educator to be remembered that the knowledge of the principles of food is the source of prevention that saves pounds in other ways. It is time that is lacking, are there not some less necessary subjects that can be taken from the already over-loaded curriculum without depriving the child of anything essential to harmonious development?A number of leading physicians of Winchester have expressed themselves heartily in favor of the movement, especially if the instruction is confined, as it should be, to the basic principles of the culinary art, which will enable the student to understand, the result of certain processes in cooking. Is anything more important to the welfare of the community?We women are not allowed to vote; will not the men express the will of the women by voting to do this?

MR. VOTER:

As you probably know, Mr. George R. Nugent was a candidate at the recent Caucus for nomination to the office of Selectman. He received 159 votes which may be considered very flattering indeed for one who is not well known to many in the town and whose name was presented to the voters for the first time. His vote, while large, was not large enough to secure the nomination at the Caucus which was the largest ever held in Winchester, and his friends and neighbors who urged him to allow his name to be presented at the Caucus have insisted that he try for the office of Selectman by taking out nomination papers, which he has consented to do, and his name will appear on the official ballot at the election Monday, March 7th.

Now just a few words as to Mr. Nugent. He came to Winchester about five years ago and was attracted, as have been many other recent comers by its natural beauty and qualifications as a residential town. He bought a tract of land in the Highlands district and erected a very attractive and beautiful dwelling and has made his home here since that time. He is a young, hustling, and up-to-date business man and has made a great success of his business which is that of advertising. His business training and knowledge of men and affairs amply qualifies him for any office in the town government, where honesty, business ability, and knowledge of men and local conditions are the chief requisites. He has taken an active interest in his home town more especially in his own section and wishes now to take a still more lively interest in helping to promote the growth and welfare of Winchester in all sections. He believes in continuing the policy of street improvements inaugurated some years ago, but believes more especially in distributing these improvements over all parts of the town instead of confining them to one or two sections, as very radical changes in the condition of our sidewalks in those parts of Winchester which have been neglected will be strongly urged by Mr. Nugent. More and better street lights and increased police protection are matters which he will advocate, having in mind the needs of all sections and due regard for the purse of the town. With these facts as to Mr. Nugent and his ideas on these very important matters, we believe any citizens of Winchester may safely vote for him for the office of Selectman and be sure, in doing so, that he is voting for a man as earnest and as well qualified as he may desire.

As to the other five candidates, we conclude that they are all well qualified to perform the duties of Selectman of Winchester, but a glance at the map below will show that four of the five are near neighbors in the same district and the fifth lives in a section as far away from the Town Hall in one direction as Mr. Nugent's residence is in another. While there are no ward or precinct lines in Winchester, there are nevertheless, seven divisions, geographically at least, which are quite clearly defined: the Centre, the East Side, the West Side, Symmes Corner, the Plains, so-called, Cutter Village and the Highlands. The East Side and the West Side are always represented on the Board of Selectmen, the Centre never has a representative, Symmes Corner has a member whenever the people in that section call for one, the Plains has had one representative on the Board in a long term of years, Cutter Village never is represented, and three residents of the Highlands have sat at the Selectmen's table in about twenty years.

We want a member and we want him this year and we want Mr. Nugent to be the man. We believe that every fair man will see the justice of our demand and we ask your support for our candidate. Mr. Nugent has said many times to those who have urged him to stand for election that he did not care to stand if any other good man would run, but no one cared to make a try, and he, accordingly, offered himself. The Highlands district is not standing still. We venture to say that no one of the five Caucus nominees knows that about 200 persons use the Highland Station daily going to Boston or wherever their business may be located. We do not believe that anyone of the five realize that fully half of the people of this town are not directly represented on the Board by men from their own section, and the districts in which these people live, the Plains, Cutter Village, and the Highlands suffer for it. Sectionalism has its advantages in some instances, and very great disadvantages in others. We consider it a distinct disadvantage to any section which is never represented by one of its residents. No attention is paid to it from year to year, but the Tax Collector never forgets to remember that people live there. We do not raise the cry of sectionalism from any improper motive, but we believe the places on the Board of Selectmen should not be carried in the vest pockets of a few persons and doled out to a chosen few, by the make-moment and discredited "parlor caucus" method. There are "best" men in all sections of Winchester and we believe we have one who is good enough for any man to support at the polls.

Very truly yours,

WINCHESTER HIGHLANDS CITIZENS' COMMITTEE.

WM. H. CORLISS, Secretary.

Suffragists Have an Evening Hearing at Boston

THEIR PREDICTIONS, VAGUE

None Show How Evils of Life Will Be Abolished If Women Are Granted Right to Vote—Possibility of Great Social Disturbance Involved in the Question—Women Show Lack of Self-Confidence and Fairness

Boston, Feb. 21.—The annual clash between the anti-suffragists and their critics came last evening at the state house, before the committee on constitutional amendments. An evening hearing on the subject is a novelty, and the expenditure is not likely to be repeated, for it proved no gain over the accustomed method, adding nothing to the argument, and attracting a horde of sensation-seekers without serious knowledge of the subject. Great credit is due the new Sergeant-at-Arms, Mr. Potbury, for the success with which he handled the crowd. The details were carried out in strict accordance with the plans arranged with him, but some of the suffragist leaders, doubtless carried away by the excitement of the moment, allowed themselves to indulge in some sharp criticisms that struck the unprepared as unwarranted. One over-zealous woman, disappointed because time did not permit her to get a chance to speak, threatened forthwith the defeat of Senator Mahoney should he be a candidate for reelection, because as chairman of the committee he had not endorsed the suffragist program to her liking.

It was a novel program the suffragists had prepared. In squads of 20 women representing various foreign interests presented themselves successively, each with a spokesman. Some of them were sensible, others threw away completely by extravagant statements, such, for instance, as that of the woman who spoke for the "Homebushers" and said that as a result of examination she was convinced the best homes were those of the suffragists.

The striking feature of all these speeches was the vagueness of the predictions as to what would happen if suffrage should be granted to women. It was indeed, threatened that pretty near every evil in the relations of life would be abolished, but nobody showed how it would be done. Economic laws were blissfully ignored in every reference to the subject. There were sweeping generalizations as to what would happen in preventing tuberculosis, bettering sanitation, suppressing the sweat shop, and doing all sorts of other desirable things if women were enfranchised. They explained why they haven't been done in the four states that have had women suffrage for years, or in the other countries where it prevails.

The remonstrance was presented with the same dexterity and devotion that has always characterized the work of the Massachusetts Association Opposed to the Further Extension of Suffrage to Women. Its first speaker was Mrs. J. George of Brockline, who said:

"We live under a majority rule. One would think to hear some of the arguments that casting the ballot was to obtain for each woman the one thing she held dear. With her own, leading suffragist speakers have indicated that if women could vote, she would settle the divorce problem, she would drive out tuberculosis, she would abolish the white slave traffic, she would destroy the trusts, and she would free the prisons. Within the last month a former president of the National Suffrage Association has said that if women could vote in New York the taxes would be reduced one-half in that city."

"As to the possible effect of the suffrage on wages, I will submit to the committee an extract from Miss Samuels' work on 'Equal Suffrage.' She says: 'The difference in the salaries of men and women teachers in Colorado is unusually large.' 'Until we have some promise that woman's political sense is safer, faster and sturdier than man's, it is neither expedient, nor just, nor patriotic to ask for the extension of suffrage to women. The granting of the franchise would double the number of voters to be informed and educated and trained and the results would not compensate for the economic or social outlay.'"

"There is a grave possibility of a great social disturbance involved in this question. Tonight you have seen women arrayed against women. That is bad. You might see men arrayed against men. That is deadly."

Frank Foxcroft of Cambridge, editor of Little's Living Age and a member of the civil service commission, opposed the pending proposition on three grounds: First, that the great majority of women do not want the ballot; secondly, that the average woman is already carrying her full share of the burdens of life; thirdly, that there is nothing, either in the condition of society or the condition of women to justify putting upon women responsibilities for which they have not been trained and which they can not meet without taking time and strength needed for other activities. He pointed to the vehement opposition by New York suffragists to the proposal to allow women of the state a chance to express their wishes regarding the suffrage as proof that the suffragists know that the great majority of women are not with them; and he cited as further proof the vote in Massachusetts fifteen years ago, when less than 4 percent of the women if voting are expressed themselves in favor of municipal suffrage and there were 17 towns in which not a single woman voted in favor, and 138 other towns in no one of which did more than 15 women vote yes. As to the purification of politics by women, he quoted Miss Helen Sumner as admitting that in a single Colorado county there were 172 women fraudulently registered. Finally, he remarked upon the fact that while Kansas had also granted the suffrage to women, no woman there had attempted to exercise the privilege. In 1894, the voters rejected a proposed amendment by a majority of more than 25,000; and even since that time every form of suffrage proposal in municipal suffrage has failed, and how could this attitude of voters toward women be explained?"

Robert Logan, counsel for the association, began by pointing out that the petitioners had as usual at their hearings, demonstrated their irresponsibility for the suffrage by their abuse and other proofs of lack of self-control, fairness and power to restrain passion and prejudice.

"Why do you vote?" Mr. Logan asked the young woman. "The society asks the benefit of the judgment of the class to which you belong. There is no question of the desire of any individual, however capable. The whole issue is whether the state will gain through imposing the duty of the suffrage upon that one-fifth of our population composed of adult women. 'In a vague way the suffragists say politics will be purified and legislation will be bettered. If the conduct of the suffragettes is a criterion, will their entrance into public affairs increase its dignity, decency, and decorum? May we expect wiser statesmanship as a result of the voting and secondarily, shrinking, scolding, and general misbehavior that have become familiar in England? One of the results in our own states where women have the suffrage has been to bring into existence a species of what they call the 'bell bloom,' said to be false alive to the political fields at the earliest word of the male sex. When Representative Shaffroth of Colorado resigned his seat in congress because he became satisfied he had been elected by fraud, and it transpired that a woman had shared in the frauds, marking ballots and giving directions to women who were to do the registering at the polls. One or two other women associated with her are now in the same predicament. It gives a chance to throw out the watchers of the other party. There seems no gain from this purifying politics in Massachusetts."

HOME DOCTORING BY ELECTRICITY.

Nowadays we hear much about the evil that has befallen the horse and how electric force is more and more displacing the use of this valuable animal. Few people realize how much the horse is gaining by the use of electricity. Stables are better lighted, more convenient and a thousand-fold safer because of the use of electric lights. Electric motors drive the clips so neatly and quickly that when the spring molting season comes around a horse with a ragged, dirty coat is soon made to shine.

An important part in the proper care of these animals now is horse dentistry, and electricity comes in handy here. The usually contrivance of saws and cutting tools, which veterinarians used to be using for trimming horses' teeth are being displaced by the use of electric machines, electrically operated, made in the same style, but a little larger, than those which ordinary dentists smoothly down and polish a man's teeth. The work is much more quickly and safely done than by the old methods and no horse, be it ever so stubborn, should be deprived of the best dentistry.

Chiropractic plays a great part in the company of mankind; its practice has developed to such an extent that seldom do we see people limping and cringing with pain-tortured contortions upon our streets. For one who is so-called electric methods. Their hands can be kept in condition, and in one place at least, the art of the electrician. Somewhere, an electric motor operates a little grinding machine which is used during the weather for sharpening the blades of the horse's shoes. This is great saving; where in the past it was necessary to remove the shoes in order to sharpen the blades, the attendant simply hits the foot and applies the emery wheel to the cork for a few seconds restoring its sharp point. Economy and convenience everywhere with the electric service.

HOW BANKS ARE EXAMINED.

Examination by national bank examiners is conducted twice yearly. In the Spring an examiner visits the bank in the morning on Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday. In the fall, the directors make two examinations yearly. In the large national banks an auditing company is employed for this purpose. The time of the visits of the national bank examiners are not known in advance.

Following the examination by the examiner the small bank usually deposits $5 to the credit of the United States with the U. S. sub-treasurer of the district. The comptroller of the currency also calls for live sworn statements annually, sworn to by the president and cashier and attested by three directors. This statement must be published in a local paper and copies forwarded to Washington, after having been sworn to by a correct copy by the publisher of the paper. In large national banks, following the examination by the national bank examiner, the bank receives a bill from the comptroller of the currency. A check is sent to Washington by the bank and the examiner is paid from Washington. The amount of this check is the amount of the institution and its amount of capital.

KEITH'S THEATRE.

Were it not for the fact that the bills at Keith's from week to week are entirely changed in character, it would be almost impossible to understand how Mr. Keith can keep up the present standard in vaudeville, for during the season there has been a succession of important changes which a few years ago it would have been impossible to obtain.

The coming week, for instance, will have Josephine Hargreaves, a singing and dancing star, with a variety of songs and dances, and a variety of songs and dances. Also on the bill are Raymond and Lawrence in an amusing sketch, and their bill with singing and comedy. Selma Bantz, the lady juggler; Marjorie the wonderful ice sculptor, and others.

PARK THEATRE.

The great interest theatre-goers have taken in William Hall's "The Man From Home" at the Park Theatre, Boston, does not seem to lessen. "The Man From Home" neither waves the unspangled banner nor screams war and eagle screams of the red, white and blue, but it is American to the core and it is a soft, mellow, charming comedy. It is the most absorbing interesting play America has produced, not only because of its splendid comedy and farce, but because of its scintillating humor, its tender note of sincerity and its good, sound, uncomplimentary unmercenary comedy, which is complete in its handling and delightful entertainment to which enthusiastic crowds flock at every performance.

The Park Theatre management announce that the play will not be seen in any other city in New England, and they also make a specialty of paying prompt attention to mail orders.

For the past few months we have been using this space for the description of various Winchester properties offered for sale or rent, and we propose to continue this policy indefinitely, except as in the present instance when we utilize this space to advertise insurance, which by the way is no inconsiderable part of the business of this office.

It has often been said that until a fire occurs one company is as good as another. Be that as it may, there are numerous companies that are about equally good, either before or after a fire. The chances are that some of our competitors may represent some as good as those we represent.

A SUGGESTION TO THE BOARD OF HEALTH.

EDITOR OF THE STAR:

During this week, and at all times when the water is high in the river, it is plainly evident that foul matter and sewage is allowed to flow into the stream or purposely turned into it that it may be gotten rid of without attracting such notice as it is sure to cause. I am sure that the whole is a matter of fact. This should not be allowed, nor although the sewage at this season is diluted by the large quantity of running water, the solid matter settles to the bottom in our ponds and makes it smell, even in summer months. It is too bad that we cannot even have sweet smelling fresh water in winter time at least, but under present conditions it seems we cannot enjoy even that restricted luxury.

Why not let the Winchester police watch at all times, winter and summer, for evidence of this kind? Arthur E. Whitney.

February 3rd. The above communication was sent to the STAR yesterday. Today I took notice that sewage in large quantity was still polluting the river water not withstanding its freshest condition. I therefore made a special effort to locate the source of the pollution. By following up the milldikes, loam and fill in the water and floating on its surface I found that the main Metropolitan sewer which sewers the whole of Woburn was overflowing directly into the mill pond just back of Synnott's gran mill, Cutter Village. The stuff pouring into the pond was indescribably filthy coming as it did directly from the houses and manufactories of Woburn. It came with great velocity, and was much in quantity and stained the water for a long distance down stream. The stench was awful and was an effective warning not to risk one's health inspecting the vile conditions too nearby.

The cross at the left of the picture shows where the discharge pipe enters the pond. The white foam from the sewer is shown at the bottom of the right of the picture, where it is clinging to the shore.

That readers of the STAR might be made eye-witnesses of conditions on Black Hill pond at the point where the Mystic Valley sewer enters the pond, we give in the above picture the scene as it existed last Saturday noon. The sewage at that time was flowing from the pipes into the pond, but the volume was considerably reduced from what it was during the previous fourteen days when it was flowing to the full capacity of the pipes. Our object was to obtain a photograph of the pipes, but owing to their being in a trench this was found impossible without the aid of a boat. However, we obtained a good view of the sewage as it was passing into the pond. Some idea of conditions as they existed when the photographer took the picture, may be seen from the white foam on the water and lining the shore. The next day, Sunday, the sewer stopped discharging, so that we were just in the nick of time in securing the picture.

Last summer, at the request of people living near the pond, a STAR reporter visited the place, but at that time the sewage had just stopped discharging. But what was sufficient to give warning to the inhabitants of what the conditions were and the probable danger if the discharge was allowed to continue. The stench was horrible, and the water and shore of the pond were as black as ink. What it will be when the sewer resumes, people living near the pond and river, clear down to Wedgetown, will be able to tell.

Now that the town has given its earnest attention to this grave matter, a speedy cessation is hoped for.

LEARN TO COOK.

EDITOR OF THE STAR.

Mothers know that the age for learning cookery and all essentials of housekeeping is when the interest and pride of having responsibility have not been crowded out by the numberless other interests that come into the last years of one's education. Very few of those who wait to begin "with mother," when the school-days are past do so. But what was learned between the ages of fourteen and eighteen, or better still between the ages of twelve and sixteen, stays forever;—just as, once acquired, the ability to skate is never lost.

Very few mothers can teach cookery properly at home, under present conditions of living, but the price of what has been learned systematically at school may be worked in at home with pride and pleasure, as soon as it is acquired. There are few mothers who cannot teach themselves to learn the methods, and easier ways than their children so instructed.

Some of the present studies will not go beyond the schoolroom in memory or practice, but here is a course, the practical benefit of which, will last this life—no matter how long the girl lives. She is bound to be more sensible, and able to conduct a home; or more reasonable in a home not her own. If she understands these things, Winchester girls should have the same privileges of fitting real life, as are given in Brookline, Brighton or Boston, or many other places about us. This opinion is offered from experience and observation.

TOWN MEETING.

A Large Meeting That Proved Interesting to the Moderator.

But little progress was made at the annual town meeting Monday evening, but our articles being disposed of. There was considerable delay caused to a great extent by the debates of Mr. W. L. Fark on sewer subject and the many motions offered by him, which in every case the meeting voted down. The usual motion was passed to limit debate to five minutes and that speakers should not be allowed to speak twice on the same motion, without the consent of the meeting, was characterized by him as a gag rule for his special benefit, so that his disposition was not in the direction of hastening the proceedings.

The most important subject that came up was the report of the committee on contamination of the ponds and streams, and ending by Mr. Fred Joy of the special committee caused the citizens to sit up and take notice of the horrible manner in which these waterways were being contaminated by the State sewer commission. So important was this report that the meeting unanimously voted that it be printed in the STAR. This report will be found in our first issue.

At the opening of the meeting in the evening, Charles N. Harris, Esq., was elected Moderator, but having contracted a cold during the day at the polls, he was unable to be present, and sent in his resignation. Ralph E. Joslin, Esq., was elected to succeed him, and he conducted the proceedings with a firm hand, and so far as lay in his power, disposed of the business with dispatch.

The south gallery of the hall was filled with ladies who listened with rapid attention to the proceedings, while the other gallery was filled with young men and boys.

After announcing the result of the voting, Moderator Joslin administered the oaths to the newly elected officers.

Article 4 to elect and act upon the reports of the town officers and committees heretofore appointed, was then taken up. Mr. Fark attacked the girls governing the meeting, which he characterized as "Communism" and an attempt to gag him.

A motion to extend the time of speakers from five to ten minutes was lost, and the rules as offered adopted.

Mr. Fark then moved that a committee be appointed to investigate the liquor and cigarette question in town. Mr. John H. Carter believed that it was up to the Selectmen to see that the law was enforced. Mr. Fark's motion was lost.

The motion creating the Committee on Appropriations was then passed. This committee will be announced later by the Moderator.

The report of the committee on ponds and streams, printed in the town report, and of which Dr. C. J. Allen was the chairman, was accepted.

Mr. Fark moved that a committee be appointed by the Moderator to inquire into the advisability of increasing the School Committee to five members, one of whom to be a woman. Lost.

He also offered a motion that a committee be appointed to ascertain whether or not the town had a clear title to the dwelling house on the town lot on Linden street. He claimed that the reason that rent could not be collected was owing to the fact that it was understood that the town did not have a clear title. Lost.

The following motion offered by Mr. A. E. Whitney was carried: "That the Board of Selectmen, with the assistance of Town Council, are hereby requested to prepare for adoption a suitable town by-law, or by-laws, to protect ornamental spaces and gutters on side streets from the encroachment of vehicles, horses and other harmful trespassing."

Polluting Ponds and Streams.

Mr. Fred Joy, for the special committee on the contamination of the ponds and streams, presented a very interesting report on this most important matter. This report can be found elsewhere in this issue of the STAR.

The following votes, which were passed, were offered in connection with the report:

Voted, that the Selectmen be directed to request the Metropolitan Water and Sewer Board to remove the automatic overflowers or outlets from the Metropolitan and Mystic Valley sewers into the pond and Black Hill pond, and make said Water and Sewer Board liable on remedies so to do, the Selectmen are hereby authorized, empowered and directed to the satisfaction in the name and behalf of the town as they may be directed, to the best advantage, to prevent the discharge of the contents of said sewers into said waters. Said Selectmen are requested to seek the cooperation of local owners and all others directly affected by the existence of said outlets, and to cooperate, so far as possible, with all such persons in order that the existing nuisance may be speedily abolished.

Voted, that the sum of $500 be raised by taxation and appropriated for the construction of certain changes in the sewer flow from the town sewer at Allen street and near the Unitarian Church, the same to be expended under the direction of the Water and Sewer Board.

Voted, that the members of the Board of Selectmen be and hereby are constituted a committee for and in behalf of the town to petition the Great and General Court, either at the present or at a succeeding session, for such legislation as may be necessary to vest in the State Board of Health the jurisdiction, power and authority to prevent the entrance or discharge of sewage and all other obnoxious substances, which may be injurious to the public health or may tend to create a public nuisance, into the Aberjona river or its tributaries.

Measures of Wood and Bark.

It was voted to fix the number of Measures of Wood and Bark at five and delegate the appointment of the same to the Selectmen.

Financial.

It was voted to authorize the Town Treasurer to borrow $25,000 in anticipation of taxes. That $27,000 be raised by taxation and $2,000 be taken from town water rates to meet the payment of notes and bonds coming due the current year.

Interest, $6,812.50.

Ways and bridges $26,000.

When these items were considered, Mr. John H. Carter and others warned the citizens, that unless they were careful in appropriating money, the tax rate would be increased $2.00 over last year, or about $18,000 ($200,000).

The meeting then adjourned to next Monday evening at 7:45 o'clock.

The cottage house and about 7,000 square feet of land at No. 15 Stevens street, Winchester, recently purchased by D. W. Hawes, has been resold to Nellie M. Dodge of Somerville. The Edward T. Harrington Co. were the brokers in both transactions.

REPORT OF COMMITTEE

On Contamination of Ponds and River in Winchester.

Winchester, March 2, 1910.
To the Citizens of the Town of Winchester:

At a town meeting held October 18, 1909, the following article appeared in the warrant:

"Articles 6. To see what action, if any, the town will take in regard to the outlets of the Metropolitan and Mystic Valley sewers, and of the Winchester sewer, which empty into Black Hill pond and the Aberjona River.

Under this article the following resolutions were adopted by the meeting:

"That it be resolved, that the outlets of the Metropolitan and Mystic Valley sewers which empty into Black Hill pond, so-called, and the outlets of the Winchester sewers, which empty into the Aberjona River are a possible menace to the health of the inhabitants of the town and are unsanitary and dangerous, and that they may be necessary to prevent an overflow of sewage into the streets and houses because of the insufficient size of the Metropolitan tank sewers.

Be it further resolved, that a committee comprised of the town council and two other persons appointed by the Moderator be empowered to investigate the necessity of said outlets, consulting with the Metropolitan Water and Sewerage Board and the Winchester Water and Sewerage Board, if they deem it necessary, and report at the next annual town meeting their belief as to the necessity of said outlets, and if they believe them necessary, their opinion as to the best means to do away with the necessity.

And be it further resolved, that the said committee be empowered to employ engineering assistance and advice at an expense of not more than one hundred (100) dollars.

In accordance with these resolutions a committee was appointed consisting of the Town Council, Charles N. Harris and Fred Joy. This committee has held several meetings, has viewed the sewerage system of the State within the limits of the Town of Winchester, and the system of the town, and has consulted with the members of the local Water and Sewer Board and with the members of the Metropolitan Water and Sewerage Board.

The committee has also been recently assisted by Messrs. James Hinds, Superintendent of Sewers, and James F. Butler, foreman in the sewer department, who have freely placed their time and knowledge of sewer matters at the disposal of the committee.

The committee feels leave to submit the following report to the result of their investigation:

An examination of the Metropolitan and Town sewers confirms in every detail the description given of their outlets into the Aberjona River and Black Hill pond by the committee on water ways, whose report is to be found printed in full at page 166 of the annual reports of the town for the year 1909. Of these outlets this committee says (see report page 111):

"There are two main sewer trunks extending through the center of the town carrying the sewage from Stoneham and Woburn. Into these at some twenty or more points, Winchester sewage is discharged. These two trunk lines are under the control of the Metropolitan Sewer Board. One of them, the so-called Mystic Valley Sewer, was built in 1874 by the City of Boston for protecting the water of Mystic Lake, then used for domestic purposes, from contamination by the Woburn tanneries. For years this sewer has been too small to properly do its work. At present it is overflowing into streets and cellars, besides backing up into our town sewers till they are filled beyond their capacity. As a means of temporary relief, the Metropolitan Sewer Board has, during the past summer, constructed at the rear of Shattuck grain store two automatic safety devices. There are so built that when the contents of the sewers rise to a certain point they discharge into the pond. This flow is supposed to continue until the sewage in the main lines falls below the point where it began, when it ceases. So far as we know these outlets have been used but once, but it is quite likely that during the winter and spring they may be used, perhaps several times.

Opening from our own town sewers are three similar outlets, one near Swanston street, another near the Unitarian church, and the third

Noted Resident Passes Away at Winston-Salem, N. C.

Mr. Salem Wilder passed away at his home at Winston-Salem, North Carolina, Tuesday night in his 88th year. In January he was taken seriously ill with pneumonia, and after a long illness a general breaking up of his health. He is survived by his wife, his daughter, Mrs. Wallace F. Palmer, seven grandchildren and two great grandchildren. For the past eight years he had made his home in Winston-Salem, leaving Winchester in October, 1901, the southern climate being more beneficial to a throat trouble with which he was afflicted.

Salem Wilder was one of the pioneers in the sewing machine business, and was a native of Sterling, Mass. He was born January 28, 1823, on an estate in the western part of that town, which had been in the family many years. The house there, in which the birth of his father, Salem Wilder, took place in 1791, is still in good preservation.

The American branch of the Wilder family is of early Colonial origin, and descends, it is said, from the Wilders of Shipplake, England. The first ancestor of whom there is reliable information was Nicholas Wilder, a military chieftain of some importance, who died Henry Tudor, Earl of Richmond, afterward King Henry VII., to defend the Plantagenets, fighting in the battle of Bosworth in 1485.

Salem Wilder, after acquiring a common school education in Sterling, attended the high school and academies at Worcester, Mass., New Ipswich and Hanover, N. H., and entered Waterville College, but was prevented by illness from completing the course. He was for a time employed as a modeler at a terra cotta manufactory in Worcester, and was later in the scale from commerce, business, which he eventually sold to the Thompsonville (Conn.) Scale Company.

His most important business connection was with the inventor and his successors for over twenty years. He was associated with William H. Palmer, in the general agency for New England of the Howe Sewing Machine Company, and from 1862 to 1875 was a large shareholder in the same. In 1866 he was a partner in the Boston & Lowell Sewing Machine Company, which he eventually sold to the Boston & Lowell Sewing Machine Company, which he eventually sold to the Boston & Lowell Sewing Machine Company.

He was a member of the Massachusetts Rifle Association, and had acquired a reputation both in America and Europe for his skill as a marksman, of which he was not a little proud. That his fondness for the sport manifested itself at an early age is shown from the fact, October 18, 1829, when a loaded gun went off in his hands, and he triumphantly said, "Hit the target—hit the town."

Mr. Wilder found time in the intervals of his business for a good deal of solid reading and vigorous thinking, and published a volume entitled, "The Nature, Origin, Development, and the Physical Related to the Physical." The book was well received and widely commented upon by Boston papers at that time. In 1861 Mr. Wilder published an article on rifles and rifle practice, which was distributed in the United States and Europe.

Mr. Wilder had been twice married, first to Lucy S. Snow of Nashua, N. H., to whom he was married February 18, 1851. She had four children, of whom two died in infancy. He had two daughters, one of whom, the eldest, Lizzie S. Wilder, who was born July 27, 1851, married Walter H. Marsh, and by him had four children, namely, Walter H. H. Stanley, Marion and Lizzie W. H. Stanley graduated from Harvard in 1897, with a rank of two in a class of one hundred and nine. He is a member of the Phi Beta Kappa Society. Mrs. Walter H. Marsh died in October, 1898.

Amie S. Wilder married Wallace P. Palmer in 1882, and they have three children, namely, Percival, Howard S. and Helen M.

Mr. Wilder's first wife died in March, 1892, and was buried at his second wife's grave. His second wife will be held in the First Baptist Church tomorrow (Saturday) afternoon at three o'clock. The funeral is to be in the family lot in Wildwood Cemetery.

March 16, Wednesday. Sack meeting of the Mothers' Association in Assembly Hall.

DOMESTIC ARTS.
Teaching Through All Grades of the Public Schools.

A few years ago an attempt was made for the first time by the Boston public schools to teach high school girls in the science of home keeping, dressmaking, millinery and other practical arts, so that they might leave school thoroughly equipped to earn their living. This experiment proved the wisdom of establishing a new high school known as the Practical Arts High School, which does for its girls work similar in effect to that done by the Boston Art High School for boys. The public schools have for many years done good work in fitting their pupils for occupations where intellectual development is of chief importance. Why should it not likewise do something for those who must depend upon manual labor? This need is now recognized in many cities and towns.

Several State Colleges have established courses in Domestic Arts. Our own Massachusetts Agricultural College offers short courses and lectures not only for improved methods of farming but for housekeeping also. Mr. A. F. Young, the new superintendent of the Chicago Public Schools, plans to inaugurate evening classes in the public school in good housekeeping in the curriculum of such classes as will be a potent factor in checking the rapidly increasing number of Chicago divorcees, and at an average bride knew more about economical housekeeping there would be less marital unhappiness.

The word "cooking," hardly describes the work laid out in the curriculum of the domestic science schools. The elements of butchering, house-keeping, nutrition, table service, marketing, nursing and home sanitation are included in a well planned two years course. Friends of Domestic Science see in the result of all this new activity, "better and more intelligent homes, happier and more useful ways for the coming generation."

L. M. H.

A FEW REASONS.

EDITOR OF THE STAR:

Reasons why cooking should be taught in the public schools.

Well-cooked food of the right kind is essential to health.

Every girl—and boy—should know how to cook a simple meal.

To leave this teaching to the mothers means in many cases blind leading blind, for very few mothers understand the principles of cookery or the value of food.

Every argument against this plan can be used with equal or greater force against many other things in the curriculum.

If home-making is the highest product of woman, every girl should have a chance to fit herself for success in this very important branch of it.

It has been estimated that proper instruction in cooking results in the saving of many times its cost in the better use made of common foods.

YOUR AFFAIRS AND MINE.

THE SPECTATOR is pleased to know that his suggestion to advertise Winchester by "stickers" is being very favorably discussed and that it is the intention of at least one townsman to make a commendable effort to get the scheme started. A citizen has favored THE SPECTATOR with specimens of "stickers" and local view stamps. The latter ought to make a big hit here and it is to be hoped that something along this line can be circulated in the near future. They are put up in attractive and convenient books of fifty stamps each, adhesive gum, with wavy paper between the sheets. The principal views in Winchester would appear on the stamps which, by the way, are finely engraved. Five hundred books can be purchased for $14, or 1,000 for $24. "Stickers" can be procured for fifty cents per thousand up. Let us hear from Winchester, the "Queen Town of the Commonwealth." The people of Winchester have good reason to be proud of their town, and an intense civic spirit should be awakened. Advertise Winchester by "stickers" and "local view stamps." It means a great deal for the future of the town.

There is a good deal of human nature in clothes makers. A Main street young lady had her hand badly squeezed by one the other day.

Every townsman admires the fine equipment of the Winchester Fire Department, yet as much as we all admire our fire fighters, no Winchester wishes to have an official visit from them. The fire steamer always looks better when it is squirting water on some other fellow's house.

A Winchesterite may be self-complacent without containing anything remarkable.

The Winchesterite who would give up reading newspapers during Lent would soon find himself an intellectual Rip Van Winkle.

It is not a bad vanishing to a number of our townsman that they should permit their names to appear on the delinquent tax list. Some of these gentlemen have a great deal to say of their devotion to the principles of the Republic; they sing with great gusto when one of the national songs is being rendered and will wave the Stars and Stripes with the intensity of a desire to die for its preservation; yet they will be classed in the delinquent tax list. It is a blot on the escutcheon of the community that there should be a single tax delinquent in Winchester.

As a way of solving the problem of the high price of food a Main street gentleman remarks: "If all mankind in the United States could abstain from eating anything for a month, there would be something worth noting in the direction of solving the problem of food prices." And some of the fat Winchesterites would also solve the problem how to get rid of superfluous flesh, but what would become of the lean ones? How, ever, the suggestion may be worth trying.

"Even winter has some advantages," said a Pleasant street lady while THE SPECTATOR'S hearing the other day. "There are no insects to annoy, no flies to drop in the evening, no mosquitoes to buzz and bite in the night." Another advantage, in the opinion of THE SPECTATOR, is that a man does not have to push a lawn mower until his back is half broken.

A prominent Winchester club woman gives THE SPECTATOR to understand that she would like to see the ordinance prohibiting spitting in public places, rigidly enforced. As he perambulates up and down the town, THE SPECTATOR can see the need of such enforcement. Spitting in a public place is not nice. It is not gentlemanly. It is against the law. Fellow citizens, take notice and govern yourselves accordingly.

"What sickness about town?" THE SPECTATOR inquired of one of Winchester's medical gentlemen the other day. "Well, you can say the business is improving," answered the smiling interrogator.

When THE SPECTATOR hears a Winchesterite brag that he has the courage of his opinions, THE SPECTATOR has his own opinion of that Winchesterite's courage.

The Winchesterite with biased judgment is the man whose opinion differs from your own.

A friend of THE SPECTATOR gives him to understand that he has lots of spare time on his hands since he began to attend exclusively to his own business. Formerly he was the hardest worked man in Winchester.

THE SPECTATOR saw a group of high school misses standing in Winchester Square the other afternoon and they were the finest looking lot of girls he has seen for sometime. Their sweeteners gave them a pro-nominal athletic appearance and they looked as if they could hold their own in any kind of a circumstance. Hats off to the pretty athletic misses of Winchester high school!

CALUMET CLUB NOTES.

The usual ladies' night for this month will take place on this Friday evening. The affair will be a dance, and will include as guests the large number of young people who assisted in the recent club show, "The Rose of India." The music will be furnished by Kingston's orchestra, and dancing will be in order from 8.15 till 12 o'clock.

The recent decision of the bowling committee to hold a mixed bowling tournament has received much support from the members, and already some five names of gentlemen and ladies have been handed to the committee. It is expected that the tournament will commence sometime next week, and that each team will consist of two ladies and two gentlemen.

The first rolloff in the Park and Judge tournament was held on the club affairs last evening.

The dates of the remaining matches are Tuesday, March 15th, and Thursday, March 17th.

WINCHESTER UNION'S NEEDS.

Persons when looking over their clothing, bedding, boots, shoes, etc., should remember the Winchester Union. This organization has constant need of these articles, which are given to the worthy poor of the town. Mr. Carr, co-treasurer of the Town Hall, will take charge of them. Better give to the deserving in town rather than have the goods go elsewhere. Charity should begin at home.

The fire department was called out on Tuesday afternoon at 5.30, to assist in the fire on the hill at the residence of Mr. A. P. J. Weeks in Kingley. This fire was caused by an early light in the Spring, but coming so soon after the severe snow storm is unusual. Only two days previous a severe snow storm, the last of the season, fell.

The Boston Post says: "Scores of persons are flocking to the Middlesex fairs in Winchester to see the unusual spectacle of the reservoir overflowing."

This first time since 1862 that the reservoir has overflowed. The dam contains a large amount of water, which has been a magnet for the last few days. This condition indicates a plentiful supply of water for those who use it for drinking purposes. The Post is badly off its track regarding the above. The North reservoir was built in 1873, while the South reservoir was not constructed until some years after. The water in the latter passes over the overflow every winter, while the North has sent water over the spillway a score or more of times, but not the past three years no water has passed over until the present time.

A Norborne man bought 25 cents' worth of stock and received a nickel in change. When he got home he couldn't find the nickel. At last he discovered the nickel in his coat pocket. That gave him the clue, and opening his purse, he found where he had put the stock.—[Kansas City Journal.]

A mock trial in which a breach of promise case will be the principal feature will be given by Winchester Council 210, Knights of Columbus, in the Town Hall, on Thursday evening, April 7. Dancing will follow the entertainment.

No salaried police officer may receive a fee for attendance at criminal courts as a witness. So says the supreme court of Massachusetts in a Delham case. The court says that a police officer who is paid a salary for his services is not entitled to fees when he appears in any criminal court as a witness, and further that he is liable to a fine of $50 for taking such fee. It has been the practice for some time always, for policemen, when attending court to take fees and traveling expenses. The court says they may be paid actual traveling expenses, no more.

The attention of dog owners is called to the fact that by an act of the legislature all licenses for dogs expire on March 31, instead of April 30 as formerly. This means that the licenses must be paid to the city clerk one month earlier than usual, or else someone will have to pay the penalty. The change in the law is due to the fact that the next law for assessing property on April 1, instead of May 1, goes into effect this year.

Consider how much more pleasant it is to live in a house that is yours, than in one that belongs to someone else, not to speak of the saving in rent. Then come and let us show you what we have to offer in Winchester property. Geo. Adams Woods.

THE CO-OPERATIVE

DEVELOPMENT WORK

Since the Electric Show, held in Boston a few months ago, the Edison Electric Illuminating Company has been pushing along definite lines, its efforts to co-operate with the different cities and towns that use its service, for their development along the lines best suited to the several localities.

As has been previously mentioned, a series of books were published, which may be regarded as worthily indicating the physical and character-orientation of the thirty-two cities or towns included in the over five hundred square miles of territory supplied with electricity by that company. The attractions of these municipalities are diverse, although they are all easily accessible and have attained notable development of their national advantages. Most of them are possessed of remarkable scenic beauty; some contain the conveniences and facilities usually to be enjoyed in the larger cities, while others present opportunities for the establishment of country homes with surroundings of unusual charm. Some are distinctly residential at present and seek no other development; others are admirably adapted as locations for commercial or manufacturing enterprises.

The important thing is to get people and enterprises outside of this territory to appreciate these things and to that end the Company has appointed from its organization a committee of three, which has organized as The Edison Co-operative Development Committee. It is intended that this committee shall co-operate with committees of two representative citizens in each city or town where the Edison service is used, to assist in this development work.

Such local committees have been selected by Business Men's Associations and other active improvement bodies where such exist. Other communities have been asked on authority of an article in the various town warrants to appoint such committees.

Every community will profit by this active work in promoting its development.

WON'T PLAY WINCHESTER.

According to manager Egan in the Winthrop High school ball team will not play a third game with Winchester High. The Winthrop manager claims that Winchester is not a contender for the championship of the eastern part of the state because it has been beaten five times. Winthrop, which has lost only one game, regards Melrose High as the only contender.

A game between these two schools will possibly be played at the Newton V. M. C. A., as the captains favor that court. There is some talk of a third game between Winchester and Melrose on a neutral field. Each team has won a game.

Exhibition of photographs loaned by The Library Art Club, Japan. No. 2. Nikko. Nikko is situated about one hundred miles north of Tokyo, 2,000 feet above the sea. Surrounded by mountains, it is a place of great natural beauty, to which is added a wonderful group of buildings in honor of the illustrious Shogun Iyeyasu, the greatest ruler that Japan has ever produced, and his grandson, Iemitsu. At that period, the 17th century, Japanese wood carving and painting on wood were at their zenith, and the result is the most perfect collection of shrines in the whole land. Every beam and joint is a work of art. The popular Japanese proverb, "Do not use the word magnificent until you have seen Nikko," is no idle boast.

REPORT OF COMMITTEE.

On Contamination of Ponds and River in Winchester.

opening into Mystic Lake. These openings are used under conditions similar to those described above, and in addition to such emergency use, it has, for a number of years, been the custom of the sewer men to divert the flow from these sewer pipes into the water while the catch-basins and siphons were being cleaned. This has been done once a year and requires half a day or more at each place to complete the work.

In addition to the above outlets of the Metropolitan and Mystic Valley sewers into Black Ball pond your committee has been going over the flow of the Metropolitan sewer that there is an outlet of this sewer near the railroad station at Cross street. This is controlled by a gate, which, when opened, will allow the sewage to flow directly into the stream, and your committee is informed that such use has been made of this rate by the employees of the Metropolitan Board.

The prediction of the Water Ways Committee above quoted as to the likelihood of the Mystic Valley and Metropolitan sewers overflowing several times during the winter and spring is fully justified by facts that have come to our attention since that report was written. These outlets are so constructed and so maintained as to allow an automatic overflow from both sewers whenever their capacity is exceeded.

Our observations lead us to believe that under normal conditions the Mystic Valley sewer is filled to its capacity and is certain to overflow whenever there is a heavy rainfall, or in the spring when there is a large amount of ground water, or when an extra amount of sewage is entering it. The same thing is true of the Metropolitan sewer, possibly in a less degree. The number of times a year when these overflows occur, their duration, and the quantity of sewage thereby discharged into Black Ball pond can be ascertained only by observation and measurement, but we believe that if the data were obtained the citizens of Winchester would be disgustedly surprised as to the quantity of sewage which is being discharged into the pond and thence carried through the centre of Winchester and deposited on the bottom and along the bank of the stream. The conditions described certainly constitute a constant menace to the health of the city, resulting in fouling the waters and bringing the houses of our water works and in the opinion of your committee should be stopped at once.

From inquiry of the members of the Metropolitan Water and Sewerage Board and of the Mystic Valley Board and of the City of Winchester, we have learned that the sewage which is being discharged into the pond and thence carried through the centre of Winchester and deposited on the bottom and along the bank of the stream. The conditions described certainly constitute a constant menace to the health of the city, resulting in fouling the waters and bringing the houses of our water works and in the opinion of your committee should be stopped at once.

sewer experts that all sewers must be equipped with an outlet providing for an emergency, otherwise there is always the possibility that buildings and streets may be flooded and the main burst. The outlets of the Mystic Valley and Metropolitan sewers referred to above are more than mere emergency devices. The use of these overflows, since they were installed, has been too frequent and too long continued to justify the description of occasional and unusual. We hope that this use will become continuous unless steps are taken to reduce the amount and the character of the sewage discharged into these two sewers.

Assuming the theory of the Metropolitan Water and Sewerage Board to be correct, to wit, that with the prevention of improper deposits in the present sewers the same are adequate to carry the load properly put upon them, action must be taken either by the Metropolitan Board or by the local boards to prevent such substances being discharged into the sewers.

In the opinion of your committee, the Metropolitan Water and Sewerage Board cannot escape the responsibility for existing conditions, as these objectionable substances are discharged directly into their sewers confessedly with their knowledge and tacit permission. We feel that the Board is primarily to blame, and we recommend that the town, through its Board of Selectmen, call upon the Board to remedy the difficulty, and, in the event of the failure of the Board so to do, to take such action, as they may be advised is possible, either in the courts or before the legislature, to prevent over-loading the sewers and the consequent overflow into Black Ball pond.

In the matter of the overflow from the town sewers the situation fortunately is not serious, and we believe it can be fully remedied at a slight expense. The Superintendent of Sewers reports that in his opinion by cleaning the siphons at night, with the aid of an additional number of men, and by making slight changes in the sewer at the foot of Cedar Street at an expense which will not exceed one hundred and fifty dollars, all necessity for the use of the existing overflows during cleaning operations will cease. As a matter of fact but two of these overflows have been used for this purpose, the one at the foot of Cedar Street and the one in the vicinity of the Fairview Church, and then only for very brief periods of time.

These outlets cannot safely be done away with because of the necessity for them in an emergency. We do not recommend, for the present at least, that they be discontinued. We do, however, recommend, however, that the responsibility for the discharge of the sewage be shifted, and that a sufficient appropriation be made for the purpose of carrying out the necessary changes.

Respectfully submitted by

W. C. I. U. NOTES.

Coming to the Mass. A. A. Rowe, secretary of the district association in the local union, Mrs. L. C. Adams, has been chosen assistant secretary and will have charge of this year's Easter donation. It is hoped that a good list of donations may be sent to the local parties, and contribute to the purpose may be sent to Mrs. Adams, 22 Box street, any time until Thursday before Easter. Jellies, preserved or fresh fruits, candy, coffee, tea, coffee and all kinds of canned goods will be acceptable, or money to purchase needed articles, for the baskets distributed to the sick and poor.

This year the parish rooms of the church of the New Jerusalem, Bowdoin street will be used by the Flower Mission as they were at Thanksgiving and Christmas, the work having outgrown the space formerly used in the Congregational building. The loss of the association and distribution are also needed. For years Mrs. Rowe has represented the Winchester Union in this work and will be greatly missed. Volunteers for this part of the work will be gladly welcomed by Mrs. Adams.

The result of the recent two meetings in Massachusetts shows a long list of towns changing from dry to wet by a small majority. Comparing this with reports from other parts of the country one is compelled to admit that Massachusetts is not the leader in temperance reform. She never was, as a matter of fact. Vicious agitation of many reformers does not always result in effective legislation, and the history of the present legislature fails to reveal any forward movement anywhere along the line. It is apparently an off year for the Bay State reformers, Boston led the way when she elected Fitzgerald Mayor and the smaller towns apparently do not wish her to be home-ruled. But the reformers are not discouraged. According to the theory of the spiral curve in social progress, there must be times of apparent depression even when the general tendency is upward.

TOWN ELECTION.

The apathy of the voters at the town election of last year was not repeated on Monday last, when one of the largest votes in the history of Winchester was cast. The contests over the offices of Selectmen, Town Clerk and Collector of Taxes were interesting enough to bring out the citizens, and had there not been a heavy rain during the early morning hours the vote would undoubtedly have reached even larger proportions. At nine o'clock 670 voters had voted, the poll-takers more than the entire vote of last year. Owing to the fact that a separate ballot was used for the acceptance of the Johnson bequest, a number of extra ballots were cast, and the result of the balloting was announced some twenty minutes after the closing of the polls at 4.30. Mr. Edwin Robinson, who for years has been a familiar figure at the gate, was missing this year, his place being taken by Mr. Robert Sullivan. The election officers included Messrs. Sewall E. Newman, William Albrand, Curtis Nash, Ralph Herrick, Harry Lunt, Clyde W. Bell, John F. O'Connor, Bernard F. Matthews, William F. Fitch, John Holland, Michael Nelson, Robert Sullivan and George H. Ennis.

The total vote cast was 670. Of these 12 were women, who voted for a member of the school committee. The election of Mr. George H. Nugent to the Board of Selectmen and Mr. George H. Carter to the office of Town Clerk would seem to bear out the fact that the causes mentioned were not always the choice of the citizens at large, for both of these gentlemen ran on nomination papers.

Mr. Wilson was much pleased over his large vote for Collector of Taxes, considering that he did but little personal work and had no alliance with any of the other candidates.

The defeat of Maurice S. Brown for Selectman, shows that the voters, as a rule, were not content with his first office, but for both of these gentlemen ran on nomination papers.

this most useful art, which sooner or later in the course of her life she will feel the need of, and with it, untaught, be obliged to learn by means of more or less sad experience. There are few women who can go through life without a knowledge of the various branches of housework; few women whose circumstances will allow of the entire shifting of household cares upon the shoulders of servants, and the modern mother is preparing her children for the future life of her daughter when she allows her to grow up to womanhood dependent upon servants for every daily need. — Boston Transcript Tuesday, 7.45, Ford Hall, Boston, (open meeting of Boston Baptist Church, 19 of last year to investigate Stoneham's town affairs.

The committee overhauls practically every department of the town and in general suggests that a thorough spring house cleaning is in order.

In its financial analysis the report shows that in the 10 years the town has decreased in valuation $40,000, and has increased its indebtedness $10,000, the present total being $129,202. It recommends that the board of public works be abolished in the interests of economy, and that its duties be assumed by the selectmen.

Of the board of selectmen the report says: "In its supervision of the department under its control it is entirely too lax and does not sufficiently safeguard the interests of the town."

The fire department management is faulted without gloves. The committee finds laxity and lack of discipline, and a system of substitutes open to grave abuse. It says the chief engineer does not claim any well-defined authority over the fire companies as bodies, or their members as individuals. A single officer is recommended, with the captains of companies, as assistants in emergencies.

The report says: "Introducing liquors have no place in the public buildings or departments of a no-liquor community, but are nevertheless always left and used in the fire houses, and are left with money received from fines. The town is liable for the expense of the use of these and the committee recommends installing an automatic equipment."

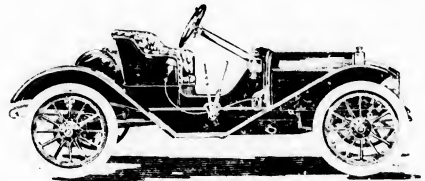

There are no rules or regulations governing the police department, and in consequence there is considerable negligence in the enforcement of law and particularly in the case of gambling establishments. Certain alleged clubs have been maintained for years under various names of saloons, but in recent years more collection of these establishments have been given over to the active interference with prosecution of their proprietors by at least one member of the present board of selectmen."

The committee finds that there has been a lack of harmony in the board of health and a laxity of enforcing town laws and its own orders. On violation of the law has been allowed to go on in spite of protests from nearby residents. The board offers as a reason that it could not secure a lawyer to prosecute, because the selectmen would not guarantee the cost.

TOWN MEETING.

Cooking in Schools Meets with Much Favor—Big Grist of Business Disposed of.

When the second session of the annual town meeting was called to order by Moderator Joslin Monday evening, there was a good attendance of citizens, and similar to last week the south gallery was filled with women while the other was occupied by young men and boys. The reason for the presence of the large number of women was the question of appropriation of $10,000 for the establishment of a cooking school for the girls in the High School grade. Their interest was exceedingly earnest that the appropriation might be granted, therefore when by unanimous vote their hopes were realized there was much hand clapping.

The report and plan on the special commission on abolition of the grade crossing have been received at last, and that fact was announced by Town Counsel Joslin, but as he had but just received them, and had not looked them over, he suggested that they be printed in the STAR. On motion this was agreed to, and the plan and report can be found on next page. This plan and report will be considered Monday evening, and its importance should demand the attendance of every citizen.

Business moved with more alacrity than it did a week ago, so that much progress was made, and the warrant would have been disposed of but for coming action upon the grade crossing plan and report.

It was voted to authorize the School Committee to spend a portion of the appropriation for support of schools in transporting children residing in remote points to and from the public schools.

Cooking.

When attention was called up there was much expectation and doubt regarding the success or defeat of the appropriation of $10,000 for teaching the girls cooking in the High School. On motion of Mr. F. E. Rowe an effort was made to attach this sum to the regular appropriation of our schools. Mr. Charles E. Corey, chairman of the Appropriations Committee, opposed this action, he believing that the cooking question should come up as a separate matter and not tacked on to the general appropriation for schools. This would give opportunity for a more satisfactory discussion of cooking in the schools. Mr. Rowe's amendment was lost by a vote of 12 to 132.

Mr. C. E. A. Currier, chairman of the School committee, then offered the following vote:

Moved, that $10,000 be raised by taxation and appropriated for equipment, instruction and supplies in cooking to be expended under the direction of the School Committee.

Mr. Currier, in a convincing statement advanced strong reasons why cooking should be taken up by the High school girls. The committee were unanimously in favor of the measure and that the course should consist of practical every-day cooking. It was proposed that each girl should do the work from beginning to end, and not divide the different branches between them. There were three important essentials in life—the house, clothing, and cooking, and in his opinion the most important was cooking. Everyone can be used in the two former, but without the latter home food was practically valueless, and affected our lives, happiness and prosperity. Thirty-five per cent. of the income of the average man goes for food.

Mr. F. E. A. Currier, from a close study of the question favored cooking, and believed the contemplated expenditure was one. There is no better accomplishment a girl can acquire than cooking. When cooking was first undertaken in the schools, it was simply an opportunity for girls to have a good time. The proposition now is much different. It will not interfere with the regular studies, the girls coming in the afternoon and stringing one, two or more hours, as they may elect. Mr. Parkhurst would open an evening school for girls in towns between the ages of 14 to 20, whether they attended school or not.

Mr. W. J. Daly asked why the girls of over 20 years should be excluded, and Mr. M. B. May of the School Committee, replied that it was not deemed advisable to invite all the married women in town. Mr. W. L. Tuck, favored cooking, and moved to amend by making the amount $1500. This was lost, and the original motion carried unanimously. This was the occasion for an outburst of vigorous clapping by the ladies in the crowded gallery.

Claims Account.

Under claims account, the sum of $2800 was asked for. The greater part of this sum was in anticipation of suits against the town on which no judgments as yet had been given.

Mr. Parkhurst was opposed to this money being appropriated when no decisions had yet been given. Later in the town had to pay these suits then the town would be in a position to sue for it until such time as the town could reimburse the Treasurer.

Town Counsel Joslin saw no objection to Mr. Parkhurst's suggestion. Mr. A. E. Whitney favored raising the money now. Mr. C. E. Corey thought that as there was no money in the claims account, the sum of $2800 should be voted for probable contingencies.

The following vote offered by Mr. J. H. Carter was then passed, reducing the amount from $2800 to $500:

That the Treasurer is instructed to pay any judgments that may be presented against the town from any available funds in the treasury. The same to be charged to claim's account and adjusted at the first town meeting thereafter.

Town Counsel and Town Engineer. It was voted to authorize the Selectmen to employ a town counsel and also an engineer.

Insurance.

Mr. John H. Carter opposed making an appropriation of $2500 for insurance and favored the town doing its own insurance. He suggested that the meeting take up the different items, and act upon them separately, beginning with the buildings that called for the smallest amount of insurance, and that a start be made with the High School, insured for $2500.

Mr. Corey made the statement that the $2500 asked for would amount to only five cents on $1000 of taxable property for each of the five years. It would be unwise business policy not to insure the town buildings, and in case of a fire loss, the impression outside would be bad.

Mr. Parkhurst was also opposed to Mr. Carter's suggestion.

The citizens decided to insure the buildings as heretofore and voted the $2500 asked for.

A Deserved Banquet for Miss Stinson.

Under article 12, Town Treasurer Spurr, offered the following motion which was passed unanimously:

That the Auditor be authorized to appropriate and the Treasurer be instructed to pay to Miss Mabel W. Stinson, Deputy Collector of Taxes, an amount equal to the salary of Collector of Taxes from Jan. 15, 1909, to March 15, 1910, or until such time as the Collector of Taxes shall qualify and begin the discharge of his duties.

Mr. Spurr took this occasion to highly compliment Miss Stinson, the Deputy Collector of Taxes, for her efficient work, since the death of Collector Hovey, and the remarkable aptitude with which she had carried on the business and for her marked ability. At a busy period, that the work might not drop behind, she worked overtime and evenings that certain bills might be sent out on time. Not for many years have the outstanding taxes been so easily collected as they are today.

Mr. Spurr's motion was carried and applause.

Sewer Trap.

Mr. D. W. Pratt of the special committee on sewer trap, read a report and offered a motion that the house sewer shall when connected with a cesspool be provided with a running trap; but when connected with the public sewer a running trap may at the option of the owner be omitted; except that in all cases where a running trap has been installed it shall not be omitted without the consent in writing of the Board of Health.

Mr. J. A. Laraway said that there were 1200 running traps in use in town, and they were the only means of preventing sewer gas from entering a house. It should not be optional with the Board of Health whether these traps now in use could be removed or not. If Mr. Pratt was building a house for his occupancy, omit putting in a trap, and asked him if he honestly believed that it should be omitted. Mr. Laraway said the trap was in general use in Boston and its vicinity.

Mr. Pratt said that the committee was unanimous in its report, and that he personally was not in favor of their use. In many cities and towns it was optional with the inspectors whether they should do away with them altogether, and personally he believed they were of no benefit.

Mr. D. W. Kimball moved indefinite postponement, which was carried—yes 106, no 26.

Grade Crossing Abolition.

At the request of Mr. John H. Carter, Town Counsel Joslin was asked to give the status of the grade crossing abolition question. Mr. Joslin replied that he

If you have not seen or heard the Tel-Electric Piano-Player you have deprived yourself of knowing one of the most wonderful inventions of the day

It Marks a New Epoch in Piano-Player Production The perfection of the Tel-Electric Piano-Player marks a new epoch in the production of musical devices. Its wonderful renditions, and, what is its extreme simplicity and freedom from the many disadvantages of the pneumatic player, has brought it the unanimous approval of the music world. It is unquestionably the most important musical invention since the introduction of the old Harpsichord several centuries ago.

Operated by Electricity but Controlled by You The Tel-Electric Piano-Player is operated by electricity, although electric current in the house is not necessary. It is perfectly controlled by easily mastered devices and, contrary to the old style pneumatic players, your feet have nothing to do. It is a player of which you will never tire because it never tires you to play it. It will play, without your assistance, produce all music exactly as indicated by the composer and cut into the music rolls.

Don't Sacrifice Your Piano—Attach a Tel-Electric Player

If you now own a piano do not sacrifice it by receiving a small allowance on the cost of a player piano, but attach a Tel-Electric Piano-Player to it. If you do not own a piano you can secure your favorite instrument from us with a Tel-Electric Piano-Player attached.

In either instance you will save money, and in both you will be buying more enjoyment.

MASSACHUSETTS COLLEGE

Higher education at popular prices and under auspices that are of the very best character is contemplated by the founders of Massachusetts college, whose trustees have just been incorporated by the state legislature. The college is to be on a reasonably substantial basis, for the bill for incorporation does not become law until $500,000 has been subscribed for its support. It will be open to students whose means are not moderate, for the average cost of instruction will be but $12.25 per annum. It is sure to be geographically available, for the lectures are to be given in upwards of thirty cities or towns, a feature which is absolutely novel in this state.

Massachusetts college should be able to do a useful work, and there is no reason why it should not be conducted on a basis which will give a real value to the degrees which it is permitted to confer. Any project which brings education within the reach of the great mass of the people is worthy of support from all who feel an interest in the future of our commonwealth. It is the diffusion of the intelligence that comes only with moral and intellectual training that means the most for our institutions in years to come and that promises ultimately the solution of our social problems. The educated man, if he has the character to start with, is the better man for his education. The community where intelligence and knowledge are the rule will surely outstep the community where ignorance obtains. We wish all success, then, to Massachusetts college in its chosen and glorious mission of bringing to our ambitious and earnest young men at their very threshold the higher education which has hitherto been available only by

WINCHESTER UNION'S NEEDS.

Persons when looking over their clothing, looking, boxes, shoes, etc., should remember the Winchester Union. This organization has the need of these articles, which are given to the worthy poor of the town. Mr. Carr, treasurer of the Town Hall, will take charge of them. Better give to the deserving in town rather than have the goods go home. — Charity should begin at home.

ENCOURAGING REPORT.

Merger of Telephone and Telegraph Companies will Benefit Public.

A statement of the American Telephone and Telegraph Company's Annual Report, President, Theodore N. Vail, has just been sent to the stockholders of the American Telephone and Telegraph Company, showing that 1909 was a year of remarkable activity, progress and prosperity.

The important activities include the purchase of a substantial interest in the Western Union Telegraph Company, the conversion of over a hundred million dollars of bonds into stock, the increase in the number of shareholders, the increase in the number of territories of some of the associated companies in accordance with state or geographical boundaries. The number of telephone stations in the Bell system was increased to over five millions, including one and a half millions owned by competing companies; the actual use of the Bell companies has been increased to over ten million miles, the traffic has increased to nearly twenty million communications a day, amounting to six and a half billion communications a year; the plant and tools were worth $28,000,000, with nearly five million dollars applied out to revenue to maintenance and reconstruction purposes, with the result that the plant has scarcely become more permanent.

The gross revenue collected from the public for telephone service by the Bell system, not including the connected independent companies, was $15,000,000, an increase of nearly twelve millions, and $15,000,000 of nearly one-third of the whole was appropriated for current repairs, maintenance and depreciation. The surplus available for charges and so forth was $18,000,000 of which twenty-four millions were paid in dividends. The net obligations in the hands of the public were $242,000,000 while the companies' property amounted to $212,000,000, an excess of $30,000,000 or 17 per cent, of property above liabilities, without any account being taken of franchises, contracts, patents, rights of way of great value, and which would now be difficult to obtain at any price.

The American Telephone and Telegraph Company, taken by itself, had a net revenue of over $15,000,000 and after the payment of interest and dividends, the balance $6,000,000 shows an increase, notwithstanding the large increase in dividends due to the exchange of convertible bonds for shares. While there is no contention among any financial circles, it is recommended that the authorized capital stock be increased from $250,000,000 to $500,000,000 in order to be re-authorized, although it is stated that none of this increase will be needed during the current year for ordinary capital expenditures.

The relation between the telephone and the telegraph and the obligations of the company to the public, consequent upon taking over a substantial interest in the Western Union Telegraph Company are explained at some length.

Briefly stated, it is maintained that the two services are supplemental and are to one another rather than competitive.

Telephone minimizes time of transit of correspondence by the electrical transmission of the text from the office of origin to the office of destination, but it is incapable in that the method of collection and delivery are slow and primitive.

Telephone eliminates distance by placing parties at distant points in direct personal communication with each other, but the expense prohibits its use for the transmission of written messages over long distances.

Besides the large cities in which most of its business originates and ends, the Western Union Telegraph lines reach over 22,000 smaller cities, towns and villages where for the most part the business is performed under a joint arrangement with the railroad companies.

With these arrangements will be continued, they will be supplemented by connection with the Bell system, 5,000,000 stations located in 5,000 cities and towns. In this way the electrical transmission of messages will be extended from the actual point of origin to the actual point of destination.

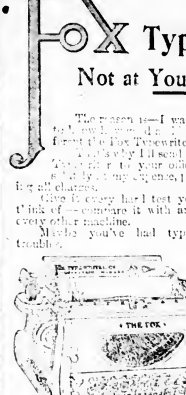

Practically no Bell exchange is ever closed, therefore there are few subscribers of the Bell system who cannot be placed within reach of night and day telephone service.

Changes in rates for the benefit of the public will be dependent upon the economies which may be introduced. Improvement of existing service and introduction of new classes of service will be the first effort of the company. The first of these will be the introduction of the "Night Letter," and others will be introduced.

The benefits and advantages of a harmonious operation will come, but not all at once. First there must be a careful study, the rearrangement or reconstruction of plant, and the working out of many details.

The report shows further that the American Telephone and Telegraph Company are not largely concentrated in the hands of a few individuals.

That improvements in plant and operating methods are more responsible for reduction in rates than competition; and that there is within reach of almost if not

Not at Your Expense—But Mine

I spent years perfecting my invention so as to avoid every flaw and weak point in every typewriter. And I did avoid them all. That's why the Fox, with the hardest Trust competition, is making good everywhere with long-thinking business men—and selling all over the civilized world.

It is one typewriter that is absolutely right in those vital parts—the typebar and linkage.

On the Fox, the bearing is wide and the bar is heavy. That means no wearing down—perfect alignment for years and years.

You can buy two carriages—different lengths—and change them at will. You write with two colors on the Fox and you don't have to touch the ribbon from the time it goes on until it is worn out.

Use the Fox for any purpose: letter writing, invoicing, billing, chap-lating, stenographic and heavy manifold. One Fox machine does all these things perfectly.

I can't make a claim so strong that the proof won't back it up. That's why I've tried to give you a fair play—loving business men will try a Fox typewriter, all at my expense.

You have no risk, assume no obligation, and I thank you for the privilege. Just write me, personally.

A WASTEFUL CORPORATION. MUNICIPAL CORRUPTION.

If Senator Aldrich of Rhode Island, after a successful business career as a grocer, and after years of command service in the United States Senate, during which he has been recognized as the most potent, to fact, omnipotent personality in the United States Senate, can say deliberately that he could run the government of the United States at an annual saving over present expenses of three hundred millions of dollars, the country has a humiliated sense of being utterly startled to keep it awake nights.

But no one should doubt the simple truth of this statement. The most wasteful corporation in the world is that of the United States government. No private business or corporate business could survive the wastefulness that characterizes the government, whose president is in the White House, and whose board of directors are on Capitol Hill at the other end of the avenue. The number of stockholders in this government corporation will not be known until after the present census is completed, but are probably between eighty-five and ninety millions in all. Washington is no more to blame for this wastefulness than any and all parts of the United States. Texas, Maine, Idaho, Florida and all other mediate states elect the governing personnel. The colossal corporation known as the government of the United States survives not as a profitable, thrifty, business-like concern, but because it has exhaustless resources of nature, taxation and tribute to keep it going.

The first part of the service were conducted by the pastor of the Church, Rev. Henry E. Hodges, a close friend of the deceased. Mr. Weller was one of the earliest members of the Masonic lodge of Masons, and his wish was that he be given a Masonic funeral, and therefore a large delegation of the Masons attended in a body and conducted the impressive Masonic services. Rev. Mr. Hodges and Mr. Newton spoke testily of Mr. Weller's qualities as a churchman and as a citizen, and also his ability and interest in Winchester and in the various town offices held by him and as a member of the Legislature.

The funeral services were beautiful and profoundly lamented the loss of the business houses were Geo. H. Parker, Warren Johnson, H. H. Shattuck and James P. Farwell. The interment was in the family lot at Woodlawn.

Mrs. O'Flaherty was born in Ireland and had been a resident of this town for the past 15 years. Her death on Thursday night of last week was due to heart trouble and a complication of diseases. She is survived by her husband.

A PROPHETIC PAPER

Regarding Winchester's Future Needs in Improvements.

The following paper was written by Charles Nelson Dodge, in 1888, then a resident of Winchester. It proved to be a prophetic document, inasmuch as nearly all his suggestions have come to pass. His views regarding the treatment of our ponds and river, while never carried out, are being considered at the present time by the town and the Metropolitan Improvement Association, who are taking the same view of this question that Mr. Dodge did 22 years ago.

Mr. Dodge in his paper said:

A FUTURE NEED OF WINCHESTER

It must be apparent to any one familiar with the growth of Winchester during the last ten years, that much of its growth is due, not so much to its advantages of location as to the well directed efforts of its influential men.

Going back to the beginnings of the town, even a shallow observation of its history reveals the large measure of public spirit shared by all classes of its citizens, in the matter of public improvements, in which, indeed, Winchester has an unusual record, and by which the present attractiveness of the town has been possible.

But it is a great need of the future Winchester that I wish now to speak. A need felt as much by each one to the future development of the town as any thing which public authorities has accomplished in the past. I wish to speak of the necessity of providing some of our present well laid out public places, and of providing for future generations the privilege of access to and about our many and beautiful sheets of water.

A short study of the growth of population for the past twenty years, of our town, the adjoining towns of Melrose, and Arlington, and the cities of Malden and Boston will convince any one that the next twenty years will find the population of these towns so dense that settlements will crowd not only the edges of what is now the great unimproved part of the Middlesex Fells, but into it to the heart of its beauty and usefulness as a breathing place, a place for families and health which may lack of timely care, and in a few years, be lost forever.

The same crowd of population may produce dangers to the borders of every sheet of water we possess and deprive the citizens of the open and unimproved water front which is indispensable to each one already exist to a degree sufficient to illustrate this effect.

The boom alloted us in the Middlesex Fells can not be overestimated.

This town covers a wide range of wild land bordered by Stoneham, Melrose, Malden, Bedford and Winchester, traversed by several highways along which population is fast making its way farther and farther into the Fells. The only part of this territory, however, which immediately concerns us, is the part lying within our own borders, and beyond as far as the old Haverhill turnpike skirting Spot pond.

The occupation of the largest valley in this territory by our water basins has simplified the question of preserving this territory for public use. With the completion of the southern basin our town will then possess a nearly continuous sheet of water two and one-half miles long, whose sides will present slopes of varying and remarkable beauty.

The town already owns quite a proportion of the land about these water-surfaces at road ways, or rights in water ways to both the northern and southern dams. The future care of the town in relation to this valley containing the reservoirs, should be the undertaking, little by little, of the development of its natural attractiveness by an ultimate system of drives, which would extend from the southern entrance to the northern dam. Also the laying out and care of the land between the road way and the water under the direction of a competent landscape engineer.

In addition there should be an extension of Mt. Vernon street, following the present car-park through the lot in the hills, crossing the valley to the Stoneham road.

This conception of the improvement of the great park might form an objective to which the studies of engineers and citizens could be directed in such action as the town might find itself from time to time competent to take.

Similar attention should be directed to the upper portion of the Metropolitan Fells, where the railway, presenting sheets of water which, when kept clean, contribute greatly to the beauty of the town.

Well pond w/ll soon be shut out from the public enjoyment by the crowding of its shores with buildings, mills, etc., continues

Were this street extended to the pond and a forty foot driveway constructed from that point to the southern and western side, it would give another outlet to the growing west end of Winchester, relieve Church street, and provide a new and more direct route to the cemetery, while a delightful promenade would be secured near the centre of the town and yet away from its noise. Turning our thoughts now to the upper Mystic similar considerations urge themselves. One of the loveliest locations for residences in town lies, nestled upon the west side of this sheet of water. It seems unlikely that the beauties of this portion will remain long unnoticed by builders.

The suggestions of this paper do not contemplate any present action of the town, except so far as public rights are intruded, it they are, but a proper consideration of the needs of the future, and that whatever town action may be taken should be in the broader and better view of the future needs and best interests of the town—in accord with some general far reaching plan of development devised by skillful experienced men.

The times of today become the necessities of tomorrow. The ideas here advanced, however extravagant they may seem today, will soon be looked upon in the light of necessities.

Wise forethought now in our public improvements will make Winchester in the future more eminently pleasant and healthful than we of the present find it to be.

TOWN MEETING.

There were some sixteen houses on it, that it had been found impossible for the people residing on it to raise money to place the street in condition for acceptance, that it was only thirty feet wide, and that it would be found expensive to widen it.

STREET WATERING.

Chairman Rowell of the Board of Selectmen said that owing to the difficulty of procuring data regarding street watering, because of the new custom of using oil and grease, it was found impossible at the present time to arrive at a satisfactory basis for determining assessments to abate. He therefore moved indefinite postponement of the question. Carried.

WATER PIPE EXTENSION.

Through the courtesy of the meeting, Mr. J. A. Stockwell of Stoneham, who owns a house on Forest street at the Stoneham line, was permitted to present and discuss the following motion:

Moved, That the town do vote to extend the water main from a point opposite the estate of John W. Creamer on Forest street, to a point opposite the house of J. A. Stockwell on said Forest street, and that the expense thereof be taken from money raised and appropriated for water works construction by the Sewer and Water Board.

In presenting his motion, Mr. Stockwell said that he had been trying for many years to have the water main brought to this house, owned by him, but that he had thus far been unsuccessful, and that he had found it difficult to get tenants for the house, because of lack of water.

In reply to a request for information, Mr. Skillings of the Water Board said that the Board was opposed to this extension of the water main because of the expense and great risk that would be incurred from blasting. Owing to the nature of the rock it was the most dangerous in town, and because of this the expense would be considerable owing to the employment of men to prevent accident from flying stone and lighted houses from the steam drill. If Mr. Stockwell would attend to the blasting, then the Board would gladly lay the water main. He could secure an accident policy, while the town can not. This property is assessed for $200 in Stoneham and $200 in Winchester, and he did not consider it a good investment for the town.

Mr. Stockwell said that up to the time of the accident on the west side of the town it was the intention of the Board to lay this extension, but when that took place it was stopped. He was willing to be assessed for $200 more than he is now, and with this his water rate, he considered would be a fair equivalent for the money expended.

Selectman Nigent favored the extension as only fair to a property owner, who was, did Mr. Tuck.

Mr. Whitney did not think the meeting understood all the facts in the case and offered an amendment to Mr. Stockwell's motion that the question be referred to the Water and Sewer Board with full power.

Mr. Stockwell opposed this, claiming that Mr. Skillings being the senior member, he was the head of the board, and the passage of the motion would result in nothing being done.

Arthur H. Russell, Esq., hoped that the amendment would not prevail, and that the meeting would settle the matter one way or the other. The vote should not be doled.

Mr. John H. Carter characterized taking the question from the Board as being shallow and disrespectful to the members, especially as it was being done for a party who was not even a resident of Winchester.

Mr. J. A. Laraway believed it would be wrong to turn Mr. Stockwell down. The cost would be small, and he considered it a good proposition, when Mr. Stockwell had expressed a willingness to be assessed $200 more on his property.

Mr. Whitney's amendment to refer to the Water and Sewer Board was lost—

Yes 63, no 122.

Mr. Carter offered a motion to indefinitely postpone. Lost—Yes 78, no 123.

The original motion as offered by Mr. Stockwell was then passed, Yes 114, no 61.

Let Me Send A

FOX Typewriter for Free Trial

Not at Your Expense—But Mine

That soon I want you to know how good and how different the FOX typewriter is. I want to send you a FOX Typewriter to your office absolutely at my expense, ready to try it for you. Give it every kind of work you can think of, compare it with any and every other machine.

Maybe you're a bad typewriter trouble.

I spent years perfecting my invention so as to give every day and week point in other typewriters. And I did avoid them all.

That's why the FOX is the hardest, trust competition in making good everywhere with keys thinking business men—and so I call over the civilized world. It is one typewriter that is absolutely perfect in these vital parts—the typebar and hammer.

On the FOX, the hammer is not heavy. It's not so heavy. That means no wearing down—perfect alignment for years and years.

You can buy two machines, one for your office and one for your home. You write with two machines, one for your office and one for your home. Use the FOX for any purpose: letter writing, bookkeeping, filing, all these things perfectly.

I can't make a claim so strong that the proof won't back it up. That's why I ask you to give me a fairly loving business man—just try the FOX Typewriter, all at my expense.

You have no risk, assume no obligation, and I thank you for the land for the review. It's a trial, personally.

IX.—Attractive Table Arrangements.

NEXT in importance to the proper cooking of food is the way it is served and the order in which the table is laid. The attractive appearance of a well covered table appeals strongly to the appetite and prepares the digestive organs for the work. Probably every person has experienced the feeling of being nearly hungry when some perfectly attractive viand is then displayed before him. Equally true is it that almost every one has been disappointed with a dish at sight of a table laid with plain linen and china and food carelessly arranged on a long, low table. The beauty of a table is not only in the food, but in the way it is served. It is well to remember that a table is not a place for a meal, but a place for a social gathering. It is well to remember that a table is not a place for a meal, but a place for a social gathering. It is well to remember that a table is not a place for a meal, but a place for a social gathering.

ed from a person to the next with out any attempt at serving. When I think of all the time and trouble and money that is expended in the house providing at table, serving and serving of the food and the way it is served, it is a pity that it is so often so poorly done. It seems to me that the best way to serve is to serve the food in the best possible manner. It seems to me that the best way to serve is to serve the food in the best possible manner. Setting the Table. The keynote of good taste is simplicity and nowhere is it displayed to better advantage than in laying a table. For a meal, be it a formal or a casual, it is not my intention to outline a set of rules for the hostess who plans to entertain on an elaborate scale. She probably will have the advice and assistance of the professional caterer. But my wish is to give a few of the important points to be observed in setting the ordinary table for the ordinary meal. And I want to preface what I shall say with the hope that all women who preside over homes or who have the training of young people in charge will see to it that no carelessness is permitted either in the manner or in the simple art of setting the table, because such things have an indelible mark in their life. ORCHESTRAL SOCIETY NOTES

Mr. B. K. Bell reports that rehearsals for the May concert are progressing with great satisfaction. As a tribute to the great master musician, Carl Remcke, who died last week, the orchestra will play a short excerpt from his "Overture to King Manfred," his best known work.

The work of the orchestra has been so successful this season that a meeting of the organizers will be held in the committee room of the Town Hall, Wednesday evening, March 24th, to formulate plans for permanent organization.

JACKSON—HUNT.

Miss Emily B. Hunt, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Hunt, and Mr. George Jackson were united in marriage by Rev. Charles H. Johnson at the New Hope Baptist Church last evening.

The ceremony was witnessed by a large number of friends of the young couple, both from Winchester and surrounding towns. Mr. Edward Cummings of Melrose was the best man, and Miss Rosa Emerson was bridesmaid. The bride and bridesmaid were gown in white, the former carrying a bouquet of roses and her attendant pink.

A reception was held at the residence of Mr. Thomas H. Jones, No. 28 Harvard street, immediately following the ceremony, which was largely attended. The ushers for both church and house were Messrs. Alonzo Hampton and Thomas S. Richardson.

Mr. and Mrs. Jackson will reside at No. 11 Winchester place.

"THE STORE OF QUALITY"

Under legislation enacted in 1905 the Danish Government pays three-fourths of the expenses of all poor persons who desire to be treated in tuberculosis sanatoria.

When the hospitals under construction are completed, Denmark

will have one bed in tuberculosis hospitals or sanatoria for every 12,000 inhabitants, a fact which will mean that the length of treatment can be considerably extended. In the United States there is one bed for every 4,500 inhabitants.
